LAWYER SUICIDE REPORTED LINKED TO PRESSURE BY WORTMAN

Irl B. Rosenblum, Who Admitted Gambling Away Estate Funds, Is Said to Have Owed Club Prevue.

The suicide of Irl B. Rosenblum, who told associates he lost to gamblers large sums taken from an estate of which he was executor, came two days after henchmen of Frank (Buster) Wortman, East Side gambler and hoodlum, had demanded $12,000 he owed in gambling debts at the Club Prevue, the Post-Dispatch learned today.

Rosenblum, an attorney, reportedly lost $400,000 at the dice tables on the East Side, in Las Vegas and in betting on horse races, it was learned. Part of this money came from the $236,553 estate of George B. Fleischman, of which Rosenblum was executor and trustee, and part was lost in a desperate effort to win back the original losses. Fleischman was president of the Valley Steel Products Co.

Sold Home, Stocks.

To pay off the gamblers, who reportedly threatened him if he did not pay, Rosenblum sold his home at 840 Berick drive, University City, and sold some stocks he held at the time, it was learned.

Shortly after paying Wortman's men, Rosenblum learned he was being investigated by agents for the Intelligence Unit of the Internal Revenue Service, concerning reports that an attorney had arranged a robbery of the Fleischman home at 606 East Polo drive, Clayton, in August.

Stanley R. Earhart of Quincy, Ill., and Norman S. Bennett are awaiting trial on robbery charges in the case. Bennett has refused to talk about the robbery, authorities said, but Earhart said he knew an attorney had planned the theft. The man he named was not Rosenblum. The robbers got only $71 at the Fleischman home.

Rosenblum's body was found in the basement garage of his home last Sept. 24. A coroner's verdict of suicide was returned the next day. His wife, Mrs. Deborah Rosenblum, told police at the time that she knew her husband had lost "all his money gambling" and she said she had given him $12,000 to pay debts.

Gamblers Get Nervous.

On hearing of Rosenblum's death, Wortman's gamblers became nervous. They knew he had been taking money from an estate to pay his gambling debts and they expected to be interviewed by federal authorities. This they did not want, because Wortman, himself, was under investigation by federal grand juries, and because of the Orville E. Hodge scandal, involving some of them.

They moved their gambling operations from the East Side to a little frame house on a lake in Jefferson county, Mo., near Imperial. It is off the main highway and is being operated by John (Speculator) Conner, long-time Wortman gambling manager.

Another factor in the gamblers' move to Missouri was an Illinois law permitting heirs to sue for recovery of gambling losses. Since Rosenblum paid some losses by check, the gamblers apparently feared there would be substantial evidence on which to base claims against them.

Mrs. Fleischman and her children, beneficiaries of the estate, first heard that Rosenblum had been taking money from it when another attorney came to them last April and said that it looked as though Rosenblum was gambling the money away, the Post-Dispatch was told.

Dr. Melvin A. Cassel, who is Mrs. Fleischman's son-in-law and was named successor executor of the estate yesterday by the probate court in Clayton,

3 MASKED MEN ROB BAR OWNER OF $6800 CASH

L. C. Christopher Reports Being Held Up While Driving From Bank to His Tavern.

Lawrence C. Christopher, proprietor of Larry's Office Bar, 5300 Natural Bridge avenue, reported to police this afternoon that he was robbed of $6800 by three men, all wearing masks, as he was driving back to the tavern from a bank.

One of the men displayed a revolver.

The robbers blocked Palm street with an automobile parked sideways, and Christopher could not get by as he drove west, he said. Palm is a one-way street at that point.

The scene of the robbery was near Geraldine avenue.

One man was in the parked car, and as Christopher stopped his machine the other robbers came running toward him from opposite sides of the street.

Christopher said the man showing the revolver told him: "Get in the back seat and lie down or I'll blow your brains out." Christopher said he complied, and that the man then grabbed a bag containing the money, which he had had on the front seat of the car.

The robbery victim said he had been to the Mound City Trust Co., 4401 Natural Bridge, to get money for check-raising purposes over the weekend. The bar is near the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants, and many men who work there ask Christopher to cash checks for them.

The automobile used in the holdup was found abandoned a short distance away, in the 3300 block of Union boulevard. The license plate on it had been stolen.

TOP-RANKING RED GUERRILLA KILLED BY MALAY FORCES

KUALA LUMPUR, Oct. 12 (AP)—Malayan security forces today announced the killing of a top-ranking Communist guerrilla they said directed the killing of European rubber planters in Negri Sembilan state over the last eight years.

LAST DAYS FOR ST. LOUIS VOTERS TO REGISTER ARE TODAY AND TOMORROW

TODAY and tomorrow are the last days for St. Louis voters to register in time for the Nov. 6 election.

To accommodate those who wait until the deadline is near, the Election Board's office at 208 South Twelfth street will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. tomorrow.

Tomorrow also is the deadline for transferring registration by mail, but persons who change residence after tomorrow will have until Oct. 27 to report the change in person at that office.

RECENT PURCHASE OF SURPLUS FOOD COSTS $10,000,000

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP) —The Agriculture Department said yesterday it had spent $10,000,000 in recent weeks purchasing lard, shell eggs, hamburger and frozen turkeys to boost producer prices.

The department said purchases in the last week included 5,984,000 pounds of lard for $1,000,000; 1,300,000 dozen eggs for $500,000; 3,724,000 pounds of turkeys for 1,400,000 and 5,714,000 pounds of frozen hamburgers for $2,000,000.

Total purchase since the buying program began three weeks ago: Hamburger, 15,600,000 pounds for $5,400,000; 5,800,000 pounds of turkeys for $2,200,000 and 3,600,000 dozen eggs for $1,400,000.

This was the first week the department bought lard.

The department said it will continue weekly purchases of these four products. The products purchased will be given away to the school lunch program.

ENGLISH TEACHERS REPORTED GOING INTO GOVERNMENT

CHICAGO, Oct. 12 (AP)— Business and Government, which have already siphoned thousands of engineering and science teachers out of American colleges, now are getting down to the English teachers.

"English teachers make good bureaucrats," President O. Meredith Wilson of the University of Oregon said today. "Anybody who can write a good letter or report makes a good bureaucrat, and most English teachers can write."

HODGE INVESTED IN SUBDIVISION AT EAST ALTON

Put Up $60,000 From Account in Which He Kept Stolen State Funds.

Former Illinois State Auditor Orville E. Hodge invested $60,000 in an East Alton subdivision development, using funds taken from a special account in which he kept much of the money he stole from the Illinois treasury, the Post-Dispatch learned today.

Transactions involving the real estate development were recorded in a list of deposits and withdrawals in Hodge's secret "brown envelope" account at Southmoor Bank & Trust Co. in Chicago.

Hodge, now serving a long prison term for a $1,300,000 financial scandal in his office, put the $60,000 into the Alton-Wood River Development Corp. in 1954 and 1955, a company officer told the Post-Dispatch. The firm was incorporated Feb. 2, 1954, with Hodge as vice president and owner of a one-third interest.

Firm Quits Operating.

Hodge's successor as auditor, Lloyd Morey, has filed garnishment proceeding against the company, tying up its assets, and the firm has discontinued operations, the officer said. He added that "we probably would have stopped operations anyway, for other reasons, but the Hodge case hasn't helped us much.

"Of course we had no idea of the source of the money he invested. He took no active part in operation and certainly never took a dime out of the company."

The development firm erected pre-fabricated homes.

Hodge, as a "silent partner" in the enterprise, made an initial investment of $10,000 at the time of incorporation, receiving 100 shares of $100 par value common stock. Total capitalization was $30,000.

Hodge then made five advances of $10,000 each last year to provide working capital for the firm, taking its promissory notes, it was stated.

Company records show these payments were received by the company May 24, July 8, Aug. 29, Sept. 15 and the latter part of October, all the payments being by Hodge's personal checks except one, which was cash. The company spokesman recalled that at least one, possibly all, of the checks were on Southmoor Bank.

"Woodlawn" Development.

Withdrawals from Hodge's Southmoor account reportedly included $10,000 in favor of "Alton Woodlawn Development," dated Feb. 8, 1954. The company officer said "Woodlawn" may have been substituted for "Wood River" through an error in transcription.

Other withdrawals from the secret account, all in 1955 and all in favor of "Alton-Wood River Development," were reported as follows:

May 25, $10,000; July 8, $10,000; July 11, $7000, and July 15, $30,000.

Incorporation records for the company, filed at Springfield, show Charles Reuter of East Alton as president and Harry I. Steinrauf as secretary-treasurer. Steinrauf said C. A. Keller of East Alton succeeded Hodge as vice president last summer after the scandal broke.

Dense Fog in Britain.

LONDON, Oct. 12 (UP)— Dense fog rolled over southern Britain this morning, reducing visibility to five yards in places. London airport was closed. The fog was thickest in London, particularly in the east and south-western suburbs.

TESTIFIES HODGE WENT TO GREEN BEFORE DECIDING ON BANK'S FATE

By ROBERT A. DUNLAP
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12—Orville E. Hodge, when he was State Auditor, seldom made a decision in matters relating to dissolution of the First State Bank of Elmwood Park without first consulting with former Gov. Dwight H. Green, who became board chairman of the successor bank, the Senate Banking Committee was told today.

S. Edward Bloem, a director of the old bank, described a meeting held in May 1953 in Hodge's Chicago office when directors of the old First State Bank of Elmwood Park were trying frantically to save the bank.

"When any proposal was made, Hodge would go into another room, where Green was, and consult with him," the witness said. "He made no decisions at this meeting without consultitng Green."

The Senate committee has been looking closely into the closing of the old bank by Hodge, ostensibly for unsound banking practices, and the opening of the new one, with Green as board chairman, because it developed that Hodge secretly acquired a substantial interest in the new bank.

Tried to End Meeting.

Bloom told of trying to walk out of the May 1953, meeting in Hodge's office here because he opposed a move to have the old bank taken over, under an assumption agreement, by the new bank.

"The second time I started to walk out, Hodge thrust a document under my nose and said: 'You have been in receivership since 7 a.m. today if you don't agree to assumption,'" the witness related.

"I looked it over, saw it was an application for a receiver and realized it could result in heavy losses to the community. So I agreed to sign for an assumption." (Assumption is the legal process under which a new company assumes assets and liabilities of the old one.)

Bloom testified efforts by him and other directors to save the old bank failed as soon as Green came into the proceedings. Hodge appeared co-operative until "the day that Dwight Green walked into" the office maintained by the State Auditor heer, the witness stated.

'Not Welcome Any More.'

"From that day on, we were not welcome any more in that office," he added.

Green, at the time of his visit to Hodge's office, saw Ike Volz, described as a confidential assistant to the Auditor, the witness stated. Bloom said Volz had had previous connections with Green, but did not describe them.

"We wanted to reorganize the bank, and the business men in the community had pledged $300,000 in additional capital with which to do so," Bloom told the committee.

"Green was willing for this participation by community members, but he did not want the old stockholders taken into the new bank."

Not Warned of Closing.

The witness said the directors were not advised until a day or so before the actual closing of the First State Bank of Elmwood Park that Hodge had issued such an order.

Henry S. Beutel, president of the old bank, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, federal agency which insures bank deposits up to $10,000, had consistently kept the directors "in the dark" about any complaints relating to the bank's practices, Bloom testified.

John H. Russell, president of the Bank of Elmwood Park, was questioned today about funds spent by the bank in the last three years for political purposes. Committee records indicated the bank spent a total of $1212 in 1953 and 1954, $2210 in 1955 and 1025 up to last Aug. 21.

Russell said he did not think these payments were strictly of a political nature because most of them went for "golf days" and dinners of various kinds sponsored by political organizations, not directly into campaign funds.

However, the record showed a $200 payment to the campaign fund of Democratic Cook County Treasurer Herbert C. Paschen and $500 to the primary campaign of Republican State Treasurer Warren Wright, when he was opposing Gov. William G. Stratton for the nomination for Governor.

Russell told the committee he saw nothing illegal in the bank's contributions because they were not made for the purpose of acquiring or retaining deposits of state or county funds.

The committee delved into the manner in which Russell got his job with the new bank because he was the FDIC attor-

STEVENSON FANS H-BOMB DISPUTE WITH EISENHOWER

Tells Cheering Oakland (Calif.) Audience 'the People Will Have the Last Word' on Ending Tests.

(Text on Page 2B.)

By GEORGE H. HALL
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WITH STEVENSON PARTY, Oct. 12—Adlai E. Stevenson was locked with President Eisenhower in a bitter and growing battle today over the Democratic presidential candidate's proposal that the United States take the lead in ending testing of hydrogen bombs.

The issue, it is now clear from the reaction Stevenson has met along the Pacific coast, is one that is deeply felt by many Americans. Last night at a rally in Oakland, Calif., Stevenson got the most prolonged applause of the evening when he struck back at President Eisenhower for terming his suggestion "a theatrical gesture."

Stevenson told a crowd of more than 6000 cheering partisans that, despite Mr. Eisenhower's assertion yesterday that the President would have nothing more to say about the H-bomb tests, the discussion was not ended. Here is what the former Illinois Governor said in a comment interpolated in the prepared text of his speech:

"I'll let the American people judge whether it is a 'theatrical gesture,' to quote President Eisenhower, to suggest a safe way to end the deadly competition to build and explode giant H-bombs which contaminate the very air we breath and threaten no one knows what damage to generations yet unborn."

At this point applause burst from the throng in the large Oakland auditorium. When it subsided Stevenson continued, speaking decisively:

"I understand the President said today he had said his last word on the H-bomb and military manpower requirements. Well, I haven't said mine, and neither, my friends, have the people of this country, who have the only last word.

"Tonight I will add only this: Leaders must lead where the issue is mankind's survival, and there can be no last word until lasting peace is finally achieved."

Stevenson said he would have more to say next Monday in a nation-wide television broadcast from Chicago "on the greatest menace the world has ever seen."

He put a twist on his remark

PRESIDENT TO TRY QUESTION PERIOD METHOD TONIGHT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP) —President Eisenhower tonight will try out a new campaigning technique—a nationally televised conference with about 100 "Citizens for Eisenhower" asking questions.

The conference (on KSD-TV at 8) will follow a $56-a-plate dinner of the Citizens for Eisenhower and Nixon of the District of Columbia at the Sheraton-Park Hotel. Dinner speakers will be actress Helen Hayes, women's finance chairman of the National Citizens for Eisenhower and Nixon; Under Secretary of Labor Arthur Larson, and Co-Chairman Dorothy D. Houghton of the National Citizens for Eisenhower and Nixon.

The 30-minute question and answer period is being sponsored by the Citizens for Eisenhower and Nixon. Questioners were picked by state Citizens for Eisenhower organizations throughout the nation. The White House said the program would be impromptu.

PINS TELL BOY IF GIRL IS LOOKING OR GOING STEADY

GREENVILLE, Miss., Oct. 12 (AP) — Fellows can tell at a glance whether girls at Greenville High are looking, interested, going steady, feuding or hooked.

If a girl is just looking around, she wears the pins parallel.

If hooked, she wears the pins placed horizontal with the points nearly meeting.

If interested, she wears the pins barely crossed at the tips.

If she's at the "steady" stage but still not hooked, her pins are completely crossed.

If the girl and her boy friend are feuding, she wears the pins at an angle with the points slanted inward.

10 KILLED IN LANDSLIDES

MANIZALES, Colombia, Oct. 12 (AP)—Ten persons or more were killed yesterday when landslides partly buried a caravan of 10 trucks.

It was feared 20 more persons, including drivers and their assistants, might have perished. The trucks, laden with cotton and oil, were en route from La Dorado to Manizales. Heavy rains caused the landslide.

U.S.-BORN GIRL, FATHER TAKEN OFF SOVIET SHIP

Child's American Mother Obtains Court Order Barring Removal From Britain.

LONDON, Oct. 12 (UP) — British immigration authorities removed turnabout refugee Alexei Chwastov and his American-born daughter Tanya from a departing Soviet ocean liner tonight.

Chwastov and his 2½-year-old daughter were found aboard the liner Vyacheslav Molotov after attorneys for Tanya's American mother obtained an emergency court order barring her removal from Britain.

United States Immigration Service authorities tried to keep Chwastov from taking the child out of the United States last week. Father and daughter at that time already were hidden aboard the liner Queen Mary.

The British Foreign Office ruled it could do nothing to help Tanya's mother get back the little girl. Only court action could do it, the Foreign Office said in reply to queries from the United States Embassy.

A telephone call from the Church World Services in New York, the organization that sponsored the entry of Chwastov as a refugee into the United States five years ago, set the legal wheels in motion today.

After the court order was obtained, British authorities boarded the Russian ship at London's Surrey docks an hour before it was to sail for Leningrad.

Technically, Chwastov and the child already were on Soviet territory while aboard the ship. But on advice of a Soviet Embassy official, Chwastov disembarked, accepted service of the court order on the dock, which is British territory, and then he and Tanya went back to the Soviet Embassy.

"The Russians decided to play ball," a British police official said at the dock.

The eleventh hour order declared Tanya a "ward of the court." It prohibits her removal from Britain until a formal hearing determines who should have the child's custody. There was no immediate announcement when the hearing would be held.

The injunction was obtained after Tanya's mother in Detroit gave her power of attorney to Church World Services in New York to act in her behalf.

President Puzzled; How Should Grandson Address Him on TV?

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP) —President Eisenhower is grappling with a problem—whether to have his 8-year-old grandson address him as "Ike" or as "Mr. President," when they go on nation-wide television tomorrow night.

They will be on TV together from the White House in a program marking the President's sixty-sixth birthday on Sunday.

Young David Eisenhower has called his grandfather "Ike" from the time he learned to talk.

But the President confided to actress Helen Hayes today that he was wondering whether it would be better for David to address him as "Mr. President" on the TV program. Miss Hayes said Mr. Eisenhower sought her advice when she called on him at the White House.

"I passed," she later told reporters, adding with a grin that she left that decision to the President.

U.N. SECURITY COUNCIL TO BE INFORMED ABOUT DISCUSSIONS

Pineau, Lloyd, Fawzi Confer With Hammarskjold — British, French Then Hold Separate Session.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—A French delegate reported progress "on the principles" of a Suez settlement after private talks by representatives of Britain, France and Egypt today.

Ambassador Bernard Cornut-Gentille, French permanent United Nations representative, gave that report to correspondents who asked if anything had been accomplished. He had just emerged, with French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, from conversations in Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's office.

Cornut-Gentille replied, "On the principles, yes." He would not elaborate.

Pineau, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi had conferred for one and one-quarter hours with Hammarskjold. Pineau, Lloyd and their delegations then conferred for another hour without the secretary-general and scheduled another meeting with him later in the day to prepare a report for the Security Council.

Private Session.

Pineau, president of the council for October, told correspondents the 11-nation council would meet in private session late today to hear the report. Earlier Pineau had announced he planned to leave for Paris tomorrow.

Britain and France are promoting a plan to have the council indorse the 18-nation London proposal for international operation of the Suez canal, which Egypt nationalized July 26. They have been talking with Fawzi in an effort to see whether he has any counter proposals to that plan, which Egypt has rejected.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, author of the 18-nation scheme, is not in on the private talks. He has said the crucial point was whether Egypt would accept binding guarantees against use of the canal as an instrument of any one nation's policy.

Meanwhile, a usually well-informed diplomat said that in the talk so far Fawzi had agreed Egypt would co-operate in some respects with the Suez Canal Users' Association, being set up by the second London Suez conference.

The same dipomat, who asked that his name be withheld, said Lloyd had dropped Britain's insistence on international operation of the canal and had agreed to Egyptian operation provided international safeguards were set up to guarantee freedom of navigation through the waterway, necessary improvements and reasonable tolls.

Another source claiming to be familiar with the British position said they were willing for Egypt to hire the canal pilots and collect the tolls provided the users' association made up the canal convoys and assigned the pilots to individual ships, and provided that the tolls were fixed in accordance with an international treaty Egypt would sign.

Of this report, a British spokesman would say only, "Bits of it are wrong—but I'm not going to tell you which bits." Earlier he had said that the details of the London conference proposals for international control of the canal—basis of the Western Big Three's position in the Suez dispute—were "not sacrosanct."

Fawzi refused to discuss the reported change in Egypt's position but said he thought something would be accomplished. He said he would stay at the U.N. "as long as is necessary."

The Security Council held a brief meeting yesterday afternoon but postponed a decision on whether to hear statements by Israel and Arab countries other than Egypt on the Suez issue.

Meanwhile, in London, the Institute of London Underwriters, representing British insurance firms, announced that risk rates on shipping cargoes through the canal and into Egyptian ports have been reduced to levels prevailing before the Suez dispute started.

Egypt nationalized the canal July 26 and on Sept. 16 non-Egyptian pilots quit but shipping has gone through with little or no trouble.

Cold Outlook for Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 12 (AP) —A Government Weather Bureau official predicted yesterday Mexico will have an unusually cold winter. Freezes have been reported in some areas and temperatures in the capital have dropped into the low 40s.

NEGRO DEMOCRAT IN HOUSE MEMBER THROWS SUPPORT TO EISENHOWER

Representative Powell of New York Plans to Form National Group — Says Stevenson Snubs Liberals.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP) —Representative Adam Clayton Powell, New York Negro Democrat, announced at the White House yesterday he has decided to support President Eisenhower. He said he would form a national organization to work for the President's re-election.

Powell, who backed Democrat Adlai Stevenson for the presidency in 1952, told a press conference he feels that Stevenson "snubbed the whole liberal group—Republicans and Democrats" this year on the civil rights issue.

One of three Negro members of the House, Powell spent a half hour with Mr. Eisenhower and met with reporters immediately after leaving the President's office.

There was no immediate comment from Stevenson on Powell's announcement.

Negro Representative William L. Dawson of Illinois, a vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, could not be reached immediately for comment but aids said Dawson supports Stevenson.

Charles C. Diggs Jr., Michigan, the third House Negro, said in Detroit, "I am for the Stevenson - Kefauver straight Democratic ticket and I think it's going to win."

A fellow-Representative and Democrat from New York City, Representative Emanuel Celler of Brooklyn, called Powell "a turncoat," adding, "In the next Congress if he is elected, he should be deprived of his seniority rights as a Democrat. He was always unreliable and furthermore ran out on his own people when the Celler civil rights bill was called up for the debate and he went to Europe on a pleasure jaunt."

Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg termed Powell's action "no more surprising than his previous political twists and turns." Mrs. Rosenberg is co-chairman of the New York State Committee for the Democratic ticket. She formerly was Assistant Secretary of Defense.

Powell told the reporters he went into the President's office with "an open mind" as to which presidential candidate he would support this year.

Not Negro Movement.

Powell said the organization he proposes to form will not be a Negro movement, but "an organization of independent Democrats for Eisenhower."

Powell expressed hope today of swinging 5 per cent of the Negro and "liberal Democratic" vote in key northern states to Mr. Eisenhower this year. He named as his main targets New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and California. All have sizable blocs of electoral votes.

Small vote margins have sometimes decided political races in these states in the past, Powell pointed out.

He said his indorsement included Vice President Richard M. Nixon—"under the American system you can't separate the two"—and that he intends to campaign actively in such major cities as New York, Baltimore, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

He emphasized that he is not shifting his party allegiance from the Democratic party standard to the Republican, and added that except for the two top places on the G.O.P. ticket he will campaign up and down the line for Democratic candidates.

(The United Press quoted Powell as saying he had not made up his mind about whom he will support in the race between Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York and Republican Attorney General Jacob K. Javits of New York for the Senate.)

Greater Contribution.

Powell said he believes Mr. Eisenhower had made a greater contribution in the civil rights field, particularly in the first two years of his Administration, than any other President.

Powell listed a half dozen instances in which he said he had tried but failed to get in touch with Stevenson. A week ago Thursday, he said, Stevenson spoke in his Harlem district but only some of Powell's assistants, not Powell, were invited to the rally.

Powell said he wanted to talk to Stevenson about civil rights and added "I'd say he didn't see me because he knew what I wanted to see him about, and he didn't want to face it."

Powell said he is pleased with Mr. Eisenhower's attitude on various civil rights measures. The matter he discussed with Mr. Eisenhower, Powell said, included the issue of whether to withhold federal money for education aid in cases where local areas refused to comply with the Supreme Court ruling against racial segregation in the public schools.

At the last session of Congress, Powell sponsored an anti-segregation amendment to the federal aid for education bill. The amendment figured in the controversy which resulted in shelving the bill in the House.

At that time Mr. Eisenhower opposed the amendment, saying he was against any attempt to write what he termed extraneous provisions into the legislation.

Yesterday, Powell said he told the President about a new approach he said was suggested by Javits. This would deny federal money to any school area which refused to integrate Negro and white children after having been ordered to do so by a United States district court.

$1,355,650 DEMANDED OF MOSCOW IN 1954 PLANE INCIDENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP) —The United States today demanded payment by Russia of $1,355,650 as damages for the destruction of a Navy patrol plane, in September 1954, the killing of an American airman, and injuries to survivors.

A note presented to the Foreign Office in Moscow by the United States embassy charged Russia with full responsibility for the destruction of the twin-engine Navy Neptune "over the international waters of the Sea of Japan." The United States plane was shot down by two Soviet fighters.

Russia claims it had violated the Soviet frontier, and had fired on the Red fighters when they tried to warn it way. The United States note denied every important detail of the Soviet version of the incident.

The $1,355,650 total was made up of these items: Loss of aircraft, $939,183; damages to the United States caused by the "wilful and unlawful conduct of the Soviet government," $316,467; damages to the next-of-kin of Ens. Roger H. Reid, who was killed, $50,000, and injuries to surviving crew members, $50,000.

BRITAIN ASKS U.N. ACTION ON 'TERRORISM IN CYPRUS'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 12 (UP)—Britain asked the United Nations General Assembly today to include on its agenda an item entitled "Support from Greece for terrorism in Cyprus."

A spokesman said Britain was still "doubtful" that debate in the U.N. over the situation on the strategic Mediterranean island could promote a settlement, but that U.N. action was called for on Greece's position to keep matters on "a realistic basis."

The Britis hmove appeared to be a counter to earlier Greek demands for debate of the Cyprus question on two levels: In the straight political issue involved in the Cypriot demand for self-determination and union with Greece, and on the over-all issue of "human rights."

HATOYAMA LANDS IN RUSSIA, HOPES TO SIGN PEACE PACT

MOSCOW, Oct. 12 (AP) — Japanese Premier Hatoyama arrived at Moscow's airport today, hopeful of negotiating an end to the 11-year state of war between Japan and the Soviet Union. He received a full-dress welcome.

Izvestia and Pravda, leading Soviet newspapers, expressed hope the negotiations would result in speedy restoration of diplomatic relations. Territorial questions, by agreement, will be left for the future.

ITALIAN FASCISTS WOUND EACH OTHER IN SWORD DUEL

ROME, Oct. 12 (AP) — Two Fascists duelled with swords and wounded each other yesterday and then refused to exchange apologies.

The duellists were Giorgio Almirante, a Fascist deputy and co-editor of the Daily Secolo d'Italia, and Count Vanni Theodoranig, editor of the Fascist weekly, L'Asso di Bastoni.

The duel was fought after a violent journalistic dispute between the two papers over Fascist policies in Italy. Duelling is illegal in Italy and a police spokesman said both participants would be questioned.

U.S. Woman Begins Year's Term In Israel as Spy for Syria

Mary Frances Hagan, Whose Family Lives in West Virginia, Found Guilty on Two Charges.

JERUSALEM, Oct. 12 (AP)— An American woman sentenced by Israel to a year in jail as a spy for Syria was transferred today to the woman's prison in Ramleh.

Mary Frances Hagan, 29 years old, whose family lives in Huntington, W. Va., was found guilty on two counts on charges that she spied for Syria, with which Israel officially is at war. She pleaded not guilty.

Officials in Washington indicated the United States would appeal to the Israeli government for executive clemency. Miss Hagan's attorney indicated she might not appeal the sentences because the higher court had the power to increase them.

Concurrent Sentences.

Two sentences were imposed on the defendant—three months and one year—to be served concurrently. She could have been sentenced to a total of 28 years in prison.

Miss Hagan appeared smiling and relaxed as she sat in court awaiting the verdict. Dressed in a navy blue print cotton suit and tan shoes, she chatted with a policewoman beside her.

Her smile weakened slightly when the sentence was handed down after a two-hour reading of the verdict by court president Benyamin Halevy in Hebrew and English.

As police led her from court, she paused to borrow 10 Israeli pounds (about $6) from a representative of the United States embassy.

Miss Hagan, arrested Aug. 27 in a Tel Aviv hotel after she had made a nine-day tour of Israel, was tried in secret. Halevy said the court would consider whether the sentences should begin from the date of her arrest.

Despite the secrecy surrounding the proceedings, the United States embassy was informed her family reportedly financed Miss Hagan's defense by Tel Aviv lawyer Max Kritzman.

Request for Leniency.

Halevy said he did not impose the maximum penalty "in view of the circumstances which counsel for the defense put forward and in view of the moderate position of the attorney general, who asked for leniency."

Israeli sources said Miss Hagan admitted pro-Arab sympathies and told them she came to Israel on her own to find out the truth about Middle East affairs. She denied being a spy.

The sources said she visited families and institutions in Haifa, Nazareth, Tiberias and Upper Galilee asking questions about the people's loyalty to Israel.

The woman was employed by the Syrian embassy in Washington and reportedly claimed to be married to Galeb Kayali, a Syrian diplomat formerly at the embassy who is now head of the political department of the Syrian Foreign Ministry. Kayali denied the marriage and an Israeli government spokesman said Miss Hagan said she was Kayali's common-law wife.

Miss Hagan attended Pembroke college, in Providence, R. I., where friends described her as a fervent idealist. She also studied theology and fine arts at Columbia University, in New York.

REDS REMOVE BERLIN BARRIER

BERLIN, Oct. 12 (UP)—The East German Communists today dismantled another barrier which they threw up three years ago on the East-West city border. Western police reported Red border guards took down the barrier at Dresdener street on the border of the American sector Kreuzberg district.

WILSON INDICATES 100,000-MAN CUT IN ARMED FORCES

Secretary Also Says Defense Spending May Rise 2 Billion Dollars Next Year.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP) —Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson said today that military manpower may be cut 100,000 or more next year. He also said defense spending may rise more than two billion dollars next year.

Wilson said a final decision on these two possibilities should be made by Dec. 15.

The Administration's complete military plans for fiscal 1958, beginning next July 1, will be revealed when President Eisenhower sends his new budget to Congress in January.

Assails Democrats.

At a press conference Wilson assailed as "irresponsible" Democratic proposals that the draft be ended as soon s consistent with national safety and that consideration should be given to ending H-bomb tests to take the lead in the drive for peace.

The present size of the armed forces is 2,800,000 men. Wilson said it would "be impossible to keep half the present force without the draft or some equivalent."

He said he was "personally disturbed" by the raising of the draft question because it "deceives" Americans and "confuses" allies. He said he "never thought" it was a political matter.

Nor, Wilson said, can the United States do anything on a "unilateral basis" about ending hydrogen bomb tests. He sand that cutting American forces after World War II did not cause the Russians to do likewise and it did not "add anything to the security" of the country.

He termed Democratic draft and H-bomb proposals an "irresponsible approach to some very practical and realistic matters."

Estimate on Spending.

Wilson said that military spending will rise probably "something like" four to six per cent but "certainly less than 10 per cent next year.

That would mean a $1,500,000,0 00 to $2,200,000,000 increase in this year's spending rate of $36,500,000,00.

Wilson indicated he is considering the same possible manpower cuts—4 to 6 per cent. That would mean 112,00 to 168,000. But Wilson told reporters "don't pin me down" to specific figures, pointing out that his recommendations are not final yet.

Wilson has repeatedly denied published reports that a cut of 800,000 men is being considered.

The high cost of modern weapons along with increases in prices of materials is expected to account for the increase in defense spending. Manpower cuts will offset some of the increased spending on weapons, defense authorities say.

RADIO SIGNALS SPUR HUNT FOR MISSING PLANE

Eighty Aircraft and Carrier in Search for Craft Lost With 59 on Board.

LONDON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Distress signals spurred a gigantic search today for a United States transport plane missing with 59 service men aboard.

Eighty planes from bases in six countries, an aircraft carrier and destroyers scoured the area north of the Azores. Back to base came these reports from the searchers: "No luck. Nothing sighted."

The missing plane, a C-118 Liftmaster of the United States Military Air Transport Service, was due at Lajes Air Base in the Azores yesterday morning. It carried 48 Air Force enlisted men and two officers returning to the United States from duty in Britain, and a Navy flight crew of nine. The Air Force men were from the Lincoln (Nebr.) base.

Signals Picked Up.

After a long silence, a string of S O S signals were picked up by commercial airliners flying early today between Britain and New York. Belief was expressed that the distress calls might be coming from portable transmitters on rubber liferafts carried by the missing aircraft.

But in New York, three trans-Atlantic pilots who heard the signals said they were later informed the calls came from land stations sending out alerts about the plane. They said they got that information from station EJK in Ireland and from the Prestwick (Scotland) radio station.

Another Pilot's Story.

Still another pilot reaching New York, however, said he picked up a signal which he believed came from "an original source" while his plane was 200 to 225 miles northwest of the Azores. He said he later received a land station signal from somewhere in Ireland.

The Air Force etsimated the signals were coming from a point approximately 150 miles north of the Azores.

The position from which it was estimated the S O S signals came was more than 800 miles beyond the missing plane's last position report. But an Air Force spokesman said the aircraft could have lost radio contact with the ocean control tower at Shannon airport in Ireland and flown on toward its destination before going down.

Normally the plane should have been in hourly contact with Shannon or the Lajes base.

The search drew American, British and Portuguese planes from the Azores, Scotland, England, France, Germany, Malta, Iceland and North Africa. Giant jet bombers criss-crossed the ocean at high altitude, using radar. Planes from the carrier Antietam were ordered into the search today.

The Air Force list of passengers included Airman Second Class Billy B. Grogan of Flora, Ill.; Airman Second Class William R. Rae of Taylorville, Ill.; Airman Second Cass Lyle C. Giberson of Peoria, Ill.; Airman First Class Joseph D. Lentiens of East Moline, Ill.; Airman Third Class Earl E. Tanner of Bee Branch, Ark.; Airman Second Class James L. Schorr of Keokuk, Ia.

Airman McClenning is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross McClenning, 232 North Dellwood avenue, Ferguson. He was graduated from DeAndreis High School in 1955. He was employed at radio station KWK and was a member of the Naval Reserve at the U.S. Naval Air Station, Lambert - St. Louis Field, before enlisting in the Navy.

NINA PONOMAREVA

SOVIET ATHLETE IS FOUND GUILTY OF SHOPLIFTING

Woman Discus Thrower Makes Surprise Appearance, Must Pay Only $8.82 Costs.

LONDON, Oct. 12 (AP)— Nina Ponomareva, Soviet Olympic discus champion, was convicted today of shoplifting five cheap hats from a London department store but was freed on payment of three guineas ($8.82) costs.

The verdict was handed down by Magistrate Clyde Wilson in whose court she made a surprise appearance to answer the charges.

She took the stand for 55 minutes and flatly denied stealing the hats. "I bought them," she said.

Her arrest on Aug. 29 angered Soviet authorities so much that they canceled the Soviet-British track and field meet in which the famous athlete was to compete here. The Russians called her arrest a "dirty provocation."

Miss Ponomareva failed to show up in court on Aug. 30 and Wilson issued a warrant for her arrest. The warrant was executed this morning at a police station and Nina was escorted to court by detectives.

In giving his decision, the magistrate said: "I realize the fallibility of human nature and the hats at C. & A. Modes displayed there constitute a considerable temptation to a number of women. I think the interests of justice will be discharged if I discharge her absolutely on payment of three guineas costs."

He said he found the case against her proved.

Defense counsel Mervyn Griffith-Jones indicated Nina had been in the Soviet Embassy ever since she failed to show in court Aug. 30.

"She has in fact not been a free woman," he said.

He indicated she would be returning to Russia at the "earliest possible moment," probably later today.

The 27-year-old athlete was called to the stand after sitting in the back of the courtroom for some time while other cases were being heard. She said she had no religious beliefs and made an affirmation she would tell the truth.

She testified she paid one pound ($2.80) for four feather hats and got change from one pound for a red woolen hat. The store detective, Miss Margaret Bolsen, testified earlier that Nina had not paid for the hats, which were produced as evidence.

NEW JOB FOR ENVOY'S SON

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)— An Ambassador's son was sworn in yesterday. As secretary of the New York City police department.

He is Alexander Aldrich, an attorney. His father, Winthrop W. Aldrich, former chairman of the Chase National Bank, is the United States ambassador to Britain. Aldrich said his $8000-a-year pay as police secretary will be higher than what he earned with one of New York's largest law firms — Milbank, Tweed, Hope and Hadley.

STATE OFFICIAL SAYS U.S. DROUTH AID PLAN WON'T BE OF MUCH HELP

Carpenter Asserts Only One Phase of Four-Point Program May Give Some Relief to Missouri Farmers.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 12 (AP)—L. C. Carpenter, state commissioner of agriculture, said yesterday the drouth relief program announced by President Eisenhower would not be of much help to Missouri.

The President announced a four-point program yesterday to "help relieve the acute distress" in drouth areas.

But Carpenter said that currently the only feature of Eisenhower's program that might help in Missouri would be the plan to lend $5,000,000 to Mexico for the purchase of cattle in drouth areas. Carpenter said that might have "some effect" in bolstering livestock prices.

Yesterday the federal Department of Agriculture designated 90 of Missouri's 144 counties as drouth disaster areas where eligible stockmen may graze their soil bank acreage reserve.

The request for disaster status filed by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly covered all counties in the state except Audrain, Barton, Bollinger, Butler, Cape Girardeau, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Perry, St. Charles, St. Francis, Ste. Genevieve, St. Louis county, Scott, Shelby, Stoddard, Warren, Carter, Franklin, Gasconade, Jasper, Lincoln, Macon and Mississippi.

In the drouth area, a report showed, pasture conditions ranged from poor to non-existent.

The state emergency drouth committee which Carpenter heads told Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson at Columbia Wednesday the big need for livestock feed would come in the winter when present feed supplies are exhausted.

Carpenter said Benson showed considerable interest in a suggestion that the Federal Government share the cost of seeding grain now in the hope it would make a crop of feed during the critical months ahead.

Meanwhile, Carpenter said, the drouth committee plans to survey the feasibility of plans to help farmers pay the cost of hauling or pumping water. Benson suggested Wednesday that such a study be made.

Currently the state has no funds available for any federal matching program on drouth aid. None could be appropriated until the 1957 legislature meets in January unless Gov. Donnelly called a special session—a suggestion he has rejected in the past.

Meanwhile Donnelly called on the Missouri National Guard to set up an emergency pumping station to help solve a critical livestock water shortage in Platte county.

The Governor acted after the Platte county court wired him that 85 per cent of the farmers in that county were having trouble getting water for their cattle. The county judges said pumping equipment was urgently needed to prevent forced sales of livestock.

Maj. Gen. A. D. Sheppard, Missouri adjutant general, said a pump capable of lifting 20 gallons of water a minute would be sent from Jefferson City today and be put at the disposal of the county court. Two more pumps will be sent Monday from Kansas City, he said.

GETS 10-YEAR SENTENCE FOR POSSESSING MARIJUANA

Isaac J. Bartlett, of the 1500 block of Cole street, pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing 12 ounces of marijuana and was given a 10-year sentence today by United States District Judge George H. Moore. Bartlett, a Negro, received a one-year term in a marijuana case here in 1944, and was convicted again in 1949 at Memphis, Tenn., on a similar charge. He was arrested here Sept. 26.

Lester Horton Jr., of the 1300 block of Whittier street, also a Negro, was sentenced by Judge Moore to five years in prison after pleading guilty to charges of selling and possessing heroin. He was arrested Sept. 13.

EAST ST. LOUIS GIRL HIT, KILLED BY AUTO

Accident Happens as Child, 6, Is Walking to School.

Ethel Leonard, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd L. Leonard, 117 North Sixth street, East St. Louis, was killed when struck by an automobile this morning as she was walking to school.

The driver, Miss Rosetta Pressnell, of 780 North Sixtieth street, East St. Louis, told police she was going south in Eighth street and stopped for a traffic light at Missouri avenue. She started again and did not see the child as she walked in front of the car, about eight feet from the curbing.

Miss Pressnell estimated her speed at five to 10 miles an hour at the time. She stopped about 80 feet farther on, realizing, she said, that the car had run over something.

Patrolman Jack Theriac was in his police car two vehicles back of Miss Pressnel, and took the victim to St. Mary's Hospital, which is nearby. She died there about 20 minutes ' ter of head and internal injuries.

The girl was a student at Webster School, which is two blocks from the scene of the accident.

Miss Pressnell was released on a $2000 appearance bond, to appear at an inquest, the time to be set later.

The victim's father said he is an unemployed evangelist of the Apostolic Church of Jesus Christ, Inc.

Miss Alvera Kruse, 8619 Tara lane, was killed last night in a collision of two automobiles at McLaran avenue and Annetta street.

Miss Kruse, who was 56 years old, was riding with Mr. and Mrs. Edward McNamara, of 8612A Church road. McNamara is a turnkey at the Ruskin avenue district police station.

The other machine was driven by Sidney Atkinson, a carpenter, of 2619½ St. Louis avenue. McNamara was driving west in McLaran and Atkinson south in Annetta when their cars collided.

Mrs. McNamara suffered head and internal injuries, and her husband suffered broken ribs and face lacerations. They were taken to City Hospital. Atkinson suffered bruises.

DECREE AUTHORIZES SALE OF PLOT IN SHAW'S GARDEN

A decree authorizing trustees of Missouri Botanical (Shaw's) Garden to sell 6.2 acres to the National Council of State Garden Clubs for $55,000 as the site for a national headquarters building was issued by Circuit Judge Ivan Lee Holt Jr. today.

The land includes 600 feet of frontage on Magnolia avenue west of Tower Grove avenue, facing Tower Grove Park. Judge Holt specified that the building should be built within five years.

The trustees filed a petition in June, 1955, asking construction of the will of Henry Shaw, which provided that the property should remain in public use. Judge Holt announced Sept. 12 that he would approve the proposed disposal of the land.

OVERLAND WINE MAKER CHARGED FOLLOWING RAID

Memories of prohibition days were revived in St. Louis county today when federal agents, county and Overland police raided a house at 9216 Seneca avenue, Overland, and found a wine press and 675 gallons of aging wine in the basement.

No one was at home when the officers arrived, but they had a search warrant and, finding an unlocked door, they went in. Some time ago county officers had purchased some of the wine and knew the owner, who they identified as Albert Ballmann. He was brought home later from his job at the Lincoln-Mercury plant in Robertson.

Ballman told the Post-Dispatch he has been making "wild cherry wine for three years, but this is the first year I ever sold any. Sometimes people give me a couple of bottles of beer for a bottle of wine. I never solicited sales."

He was booked suspected of illegally manufacturing and selling untaxed liquor. Federal agents said tests show that Ballmann's wine is more than 10 per cent alcohol. He sold it for $2 a gallon, police said.

BIG STORE SALES DECLINE 3 PCT. HERE FOR WEEK

St. Louis department store sales dropped 3 per cent in dollar volume last week in comparison with the same week a year ago, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported today. Sales in the area during the four-week period ended last Saturday were 2 per cent below the corresponding period last year.

For the Eighth Federal Reserve District as a whole, sales were down an estimated 1 per cent last week but up 1 per cent for the four-week period. For the year to date, sales are up 4 per cent here and are up an estimated 5 per cent in the district.

Nationally, department store sales were 2 per cent higher last week than in the comparable week a year ago, the Federal Reserve Board reported in Washington. In the last four weeks, sales averaged 4 per cent higher than in a corresponding period last year.

CREVE COEUR SEWER COST NOW PUT AT 40C ON $100

Cost of the proposed trunk sewer system for the Creve Coeur-Frontenac Sewer Subdistrict will be at the rate of about 40 cents a year on each $100 of assessed valuation instead of 25 cents as erroneously stated by the district yesterday.

John E. Clark, secretary-treasurer of the Metropolitan Sewer District, said the earlier estimate was based on levies in the Maline Creek area. The 40-cent rate is based on present assessed valuation and takes into consideration a probable increase in interest rates, Clark said. The district votes next Tuesday on a $675,000 sewer bond proposal.

MAGIC CHEF HALTING OUTPUT, UNIONS HEAR

Stove Company Won't Comment Until Later; Labor Officials Tell of Layoffs.

Magic Chef, Inc., will suspend manufacturing operations in its plant at 2001 South Kingshighway at the close of today's business, union officials reported they had been informed by company officers today.

Company officers declined to confirm the report, stating there would be an official announcement next week of the firm's plans.

Joseph Metzger, president of Stove Mounters Union Local 96, said there have been several conferences with management at which future operations were discussed. Four hundred production employes will be laid off today, joining 127 other employes dismissed during the week, he reported.

"The main plant will be closed and a force of 150 workers is to report on Monday," Metzger said. "We have been told that this force will be cut to 80 men to man the parts, regulator and shipping departments."

Metzger said there have been reports that manufacturing would be transferred to the Dortch Stove Works, Franklin, Tenn., purchased by Magic Chef last year.

The company was organized in 1902 as the American Stove Co. It was advertised as the largest manufacturer of gas ...es in the world at one time.

...thur Stockstrom, last member of one of the founding families, retired several years ago and was succeeded as president by Cecil M. Dunn. The late Louis Stockstrom served as president of the American Stove Co. from 1920 to 1938.

Last June Magic Chef sold its modern six-story office building at 1641 South Kingshighway to the Teamsters Union. Executive and sales offices were moved to 4931 Daggett avenue.

U.S. JURY GIVEN NAMES OF ROAD FIRM OFFICERS

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12—Names of officers and directors of Public Constructors Inc., of Gloucester City, N. J., the firm which received the first contract for toll road construction in Illinois, were turned over to a federal grand jury here yesterday in its inquiry into reported labor racketeering in the toll road program.

Louis I. Fisher, Chicago representative of the construction company and senior assistant attorney for the Chicago Sanitary District, had been ordered by United States District Judge Phillip L. Sullivan to supply the names of the officers. The Government also wanted to see the list of stockholders, but the judge did not order these produced.

Officers Named.

Fisher identified the officers as Raymond S. Fisher, Haddonfield, N. J., president and son of Louis Fisher; James A. Brown, Cranford, N. J., vice president; John K. Kearney, Hohokus, N. J., secretary-treasurer, and Louis B. Oliver and Joseph E. Boyd, assistant secretaries.

This is substantially the same list as published by the Post-Dispatch last Oct. 3. The name of Charles L. Rudd of Camden, N. J., appears on the corporation's records in the New Jersey Secretary of State office as registered agent for the firm.

Shortly after the company was awarded the contract on its low bid of $3,026,100, Raymond Fisher met with construction union leaders in a hotel suite at Rockford, Ill. That was last Sept. 22, the same day Gov. William G. Stratton and Toll Road Commission members attended ceremonies starting construction of the highway to be built by Fisher's firm.

The Government wants to know whether labor leaders were given stock in the company, the Post-Dispatch learned.

Louis Fisher has told the grand jury he does not want to supply lists of stockholders for fear competitors would try to buy them out and thus obtain control of the firm. The contract calls for construction of 4.4 miles of roadway east of Rockford. This is the first segment of the state's $100,000,000 toll road program.

SIX LUTHERAN HIGH STUDENTS HURT IN LABORATORY MISHAP

Six Lutheran High School students were injured yesterday when two tests tubes were splintered in the course of a chemistry experiment.

Richard Marchand, 17 years old, of 2146 East Harris avenue, was struck in the right eye by a chemical, and the following suffered burns: Donald Horn, 17, 5236 Devonshire avenue; Art Rasch, 16, 4621 McCausland avenue; Carol Koenig, 17, 7568 Hoover avenue, Richmond Heights; Carlene Benson, 16, 3726A Wyoming street, and Mary Anderson, 16, 7521 Delmar boulevard.

They were treated at Deaconess Hospital and released.

PRESIDENT AIMS HARSHEST WORDS YET AT M'CARTHY

He Is Sharply Critical of Three Senators — Two Reply to His Remarks.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower's press conference comment yesterday—that in working to get over a program "for the good of the country" he can not look for help from Senators McCarthy of Wisconsin, Jenner of Indiana and Malone of Nevada—appeared to be the strongest such statement the President has ever made about members of his party, in public anyhow.

The President and McCarthy, especially, have had sharp differences but Mr. Eisenhower had not made any statement that even approached yesterday's. None of the three senators is up for re-election this year.

At Appleton, Wis., McCarthy declined to comment. Jenner had this to say:

"I support President Eisenhower when I think he is right and I don't when I think he is wrong."

He said he frequently differed with the President on foreign aid and foreign policy but believed his stand was supported by most of the people of Indiana who have twice elected him to the Senate.

Jenner said that a recent survey of congressional voting showed "my score was 86 per cent in support of the President—that is the highest of any in the Indiana delegation."

He added that he has "a compact to represent the point of view of the majority of the people of Indiana."

In Reno, Malone said he would continue to back Mr. Eisenhower for re-election despite the President's remarks. He said "billions for Europe" and "free trade" are two matters on which he disagrees with the President.

The matter came up yesterday when Raymond P. Brandt of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch told Mr. Eisenhower of an article in the current Collier's magazine by Paul Hoffman, corporation executive and a Republican, who directed foreign aid in 1948-50 under President Truman.

Brandt said the Hoffman article named McCarthy, Jenner and Malone as "unappeasables" who have no place "in the new Republican party." (The article also bracketed Senator Welker of Idaho with the other three.)

"Do you agree?" Brandt asked the President.

In reply Mr. Eisenhower said there were no national parties but 48 state parties who "are the ones that determine the people that belong to those parties."

"There is nothing I can do to say that no one is not a Republican," the President continued. The most I can say is that in many things they do not agree with me.

"Therefore, in looking for help to get over a program, which is the sole purpose of political leadership, as I see it, for the good of the country, I can't look at them, look to them for help."

Today, Joseph L. Rauh, chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, made public a telegram to Mr. Eisenhower, asking whether the President's remarks applied also to Senator Welker, who is running for re-election this year.

"If your statement does not include Welker, is it your position that any Republican when he is up for re-election, as were Senators McCarthy and Jenner in 1952, is still a good Republican no matter what he may do after he is elected?" Rauh asked.

Brandt, asked today why he left Welker's name out of his questions to the President, told a reporter: "I just didn't think of it. It was a spur of the moment question—I didn't have anything written out—and I didn't think of Welker."

FUGITIVE'S CAR HAS FLAT TIRE JUST AFTER POLICE CAR

A flat tire stopped a police car in a dust-clouded pursuit of another machine on North Second street early today, and when the dust had settled, the officers saw just a short distance away from them the car they had been chasing, also stopped because of a flat tire.

The chase began at Eleventh and Buchanan streets when Detectives John Mohan and Edward Longinette saw an automobile without a tail light. As they tried to stop it, the driver sped away. The officers followed it through several north St. Louis streets at speeds up to 70 miles an hour, finally going east on North Market street and south on Second. Mohan fired one warning shot.

The police car ran over an obstruction and the left front tire went flat. Slightly ahead of them they found the automobile they had been chasing, with the right rear tire flat. Some railroad men working there told of seeing the driver flee on foot.

A check of records showed the license on the automobile was issued to Alfred Aubuchon, 24 years old, of the 3400 block of Klein street, who is wanted at St. Charles on a trespassing charge and at Ironton, Mo., in a burglary and parole violation case.

YOUTH, 17, STABBED TWICE IN FIGHT OUTSIDE SCHOOL

Robert Doepke, New Dorsett road, Maryland Heights, was in serious condition today at St. Joseph Hospital, St. Charles, after having been stabbed twice in the back yesterday in a fight outside Ritenour High School, 9120 Bristol avenue, St. John. Doepke is 17 years old.

Doctors at the hospital said Doepke's lung was punctured. Police reported that he was stabbed by Kenneth Orr, 16, Negro, of the 9600 block of Baltimore avenue, Breckenridge Hills, a student at Ritenour.

Orr told police he had come to the school to pick up his brother, also a student at Ritenour. He said he noticed several boys in a dispute in front of the school and walked up and told them to "forget about it." He told police Doepke pushed him down some steps. Orr said he then went to his automobile and obtained the knife he used to stab Doepke. Police said Doepke is not a student at Ritenour.

POLICE CLIMB TALL LADDER TO GET THEIR MAN

Burglary Suspect Refused to Come Down From Roof—Fire Department Lends Aid.

Policemen climbed a tall ladder supplied by the Fire Department early today to capture a burglary suspect on the roof of a three-story building in the 2700 block of Howard street.

They arrested Roosevelt Cage, a Negro, who has a room on the third floor there, and who was named as an accomplice by one of two others under arrest in the burglary of a cleaning establishment at 2745 Cass avenue early yesterday.

When officers went to arrest Cage they found that he had fled to the roof of a two-story building next door. Before they could get to him there he climbed over to the roof of the building in which he lived, and refused to come down.

An officer called the Fire Department for help, and Hook & Ladder Co. No. 22 provided a ladder truck and floodlights as policemen guarded all sides.

Cage was slow to give up, and came down the ladder only after being told he might be shot.

The first two arrested are Wardell Houston, a former convict, of the 5200 block of Highland avenue, and Carl Nichols, of the 1900 block of Bacon street, also Negroes.

Houston was arrested at the scene of the burglary. Nichols ran and escaped but was arrested at his home.

Yesterday the owner of the cleaning firm, Clarence Depigian, received an anonymous telephone call that part of the loot, clothing, could be found in a shed in the 2700 block of Howard, and there it was.

Last night when Patrolman Gilbert Tissott, who had worked on the case originally, and Sgt. Edward Piker came on duty they questioned Nichols further. Nichols named Cage as having been with him to steal a quantity of clothing from Depigian a short time before Nichols went back to the cleaning firm with Houston. Cage confirmed Nichols's account, police said.

SIX MORE GET LIGHT TERMS IN POZNAN RIOTING

Two Others Acquitted — Ninth Defendant Receives Suspended Sentence.

POZNAN, Poland, Oct. 12 (AP)— Six young Poles were imprisoned today for terms up to six years for their part in the June Poznan riots. Two others were acquitted and a ninth received a suspended sentence.

The sentences were pronounced in Poznan trial No. 2 of so-called "criminal elements" involved in the "bread and freedom" riots which began June 28.

The relatively light sentences —on charges which could have brought the death penalty — strengthened the widespread opinion in Poland that the Communist government may abandon trials of more than 100 still to be brought to court.

The nine men on trial faced a variety of charges in a 33-page indictment, including firing at the Poznan secret police headquarters, attacking soldiers and army tanks, freeing prisoners and looting.

A packed courtroom, including observers from the United States and British embassies in Warsaw, heard Judge Waclaw Zembrowski pronounce sentence, rejecting a defense application that judgment should be delayed to allow new evidence.

In trial No. 1, three youths accused of murdering a secret policeman were sentenced to 4½ years imprisonment and the prosecution has appealed for an increase in the terms.

Trial No. 3, of the so-called "criminal elements," still is under way. There also have been at least two trials in which sentences were imposed for burglary and looting in the riots, but the press has not classed the defendants in these cases with the "criminal elements."

SKAGGS SAYS SHERIFF COULD SAVE CITY $100,000 A YEAR

A total of $100,000 a year could be saved by the sheriff of St. Louis by taking over the duty of serving papers which is now done by constables and their deputies, Ancel A. Skaggs, Republican candidate for sheriff, said yesterday.

Skaggs said this reduction in the costs of the sheriff's office could be accomplished by using 10 deputy sheriffs to serve the papers instead of the constables and their deputies.

He said there are now 10 constables and 20 constables' deputies in the city. Constables receive $7000 a year, and their deputies $3600, Skaggs said. He added that deputy sheriffs earn from $3300 to $3480 a year. He said part of the saving would be effected through elimination of the constables' clerical personnel.

ARMY GOING AHEAD ON NIKE INSTALLATION ON GREENLAND

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP) —The Army announced yesterday it will go ahead with the installation of Nike anti-aircraft guided missiles to defend the huge United States Air Force base on the Arctic coast of Greenland.

Because of weather conditions, actual construction is not likely to get under way before late next spring.

The Army's original plans for Nike installations at distant key air bases, including Alaska and Okinawa, were held up earlier this year by a controversy in the Congress over the relative merits of the Army's Nike and the Talos missile, developed by the Navy and favored by the Air Force for its own use.

JAPANESE POLICE FAIL TO MOVE U.S. BASE PICKET WALL

SUNAKAWA, Japan, Oct. 12 (AP)—One thousand unarmed Japanese policemen, trying to clear the way for expansion of a United States air base, ran into a human wall of pickets today, and made little progress.

The giant tugging, pushing and shoving match with an estimated 2000 villagers, socialists, labor unionists and university students lasted an hour, until a truce was called.

Ten students and eight policemen were injured slightly.

Japanese surveying teams, who want to survey the final two acres needed to permit expansion of the adjoining Tachikawa air base, made no progress.

Sunakawa was the site of a bloody clash over the same issue last year. More than 70 persons were injured. The villagers say the base has encroached steadily on their land and they have not been paid enough. The survey is scheduled to be completed by Oct. 16, but teams have been turned back 12 times this month.

NEWSPAPER GUILD ENDS KMOX STRIKE

Agreement Reached on Wage Increase—Writers Return to Jobs.

News and continuity writers returned to work today at Radio Station KMOX after reaching an agreement on wages and ending a one-day strike. The station, owned by Columbia Broadcasting System, was picketed by the AFL-CIO Newspaper Guild but remained on the air.

Negotiations between the Guild and management were resumed late yesterday, and resulted in acceptance of a company offer of an additional $2.50 a week in the second year of a previously proposed two-year contract.

Under the agreement, the top minimum for news writers is to be $115 a week, retroactive to Aug. 18, and will be increased to $117.50 next Aug. 18. The old agreement set the top minimum at $103.95.

Continuity writers will receive a top minimum of $96, increased from $86.63 a week. Effective next Aug. 18 the weekly scale will be $98.50. The progression period for reaching the top minimum was cut from four to two years. Four news and two continuity writers are affected.

General Manager Robert F. Hyland Jr. said the agreement compares favorably with other CBS contracts. Negotiators met again today and worked out mino rcontract details preparatory to drafting the final agreement.

W. F. DANIELS CRITICIZES HOCKER, GLOBE-DEMOCRAT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 12—Lon Hocker, Republican candidate for Governor, and the St. Louis Globe-Democrat were criticized in a statement yesterday by Wilbur F. Daniels of Fayette, Democratic state chairman.

"The Republican truth squad is overlooking a fertile field," he said. "It ought to be exposing the half-truths and untruths spread by the Globe-Democrat-Hocker machine."

Daniels mentioned an editorial assertion that Hocker had proposed a better system of distributing driver's licenses, and said Lt. Gov. James T. Blair Jr., Democratic candidate for Governor, had made a similar proposal previously but that his remarks were "buried in the back pages" of the newspaper.

Testifies Hodge Consulted Green Before Decisions

ney who handled matters relating to formation of the new bank and dissolution of the old.

Russell testified he gave notice July 30, 1953, to the FDIC, advising he was quitting, effective Aug. 31. He said he learned the previous April 18 that he was being considered for a job with the Bank of Elmwood Park, which was opened for business May 28 of that year.

Russell said Green asked him in the latter part of June 1953 to become executive vice president at $10,000 a year—$400 less than his FDIC salary—but with the understanding he would become president within six months. He did become president and he now gets $15,000 a year plus a bonus, the witness said.

In reply to a question from the committee, Russell acknowledged that, if a man took a job of that kind while representing the FDIC, there would be "an obvious implication that he might favor" the new employer.

"However, I know of no one in the FDIC who could be reached with a job," the witness asserted.

The committee was given details of a $2000 loan Russell made from Hodge July 15, 1953. The witness said he needed money to buy 100 shares of stock in the new bank and went to Hodge because he like him, considered him affable and thought he had considerable money.

The $2000, it developed, was not repaid until this year.

Russell told of turning down a request from Hodge in July 1055 for an $80,000 loan in behalf of the Alton-Wood River Development Corp. The witness said the personal collateral that Hodge offered was not satisfactory to insure the loan.

Witnesses yesterday described how political connections influence the placing of state deposits in Illinois banks.

Green testified that $1,000,000 in state funds were sent to his bank in 1953 by a state treasurer for whose election he had worked actively. The treasurer was Elmer J. Hoffman, a Republican who is again seeking election to the post next month.

Green, discussing with engaging candor the relationship involving banks, bankers and political office holder, said:

"There's no sense in playing ostrich about this and hiding your head in the sand. It is perfectly obvious that if someone does you a favor, you will reciprocate if you can.

"Morals . . . and Business."

"I'm not thinking about the morals or ethics of this but simply as a practical phase of the banking business."

A few hours after Green ended his testimony, the head teller of his bank was arrested on a charge of embezzling $26,600.

Chester J. Biegalski, the teller, admitted he took the money from the bank over the last three years, saying he needed it to continue "playing the part of a big shot," Donald Hostetter, agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation office here, said.

The Senate committee was told yesterda yof a long-standing practice under which either of two big Chicago banks receives major deposits of the state treasurer, depending on whether a Democrat or Republican is in office.

If the treasurer is a Democrat, the First National Bank of Chicago is the beneficiary, but if the treasurer is a Republican, the major share goes to the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co., Jack O. Brown, who was campaign manager for a former treasurer, testified.

Banks Furnish Experts.

On the same basis, one of the two banks provides a man to act as chief revenue clerk for the state treasurer. This man, who then becomes an Illinois employe and is paid by the state, handles highly technical details of running the treasury.

"You need a real, honest-to-God, full-time banker in that post to run it efficiently," Brown said.

The witness said that when Richard Rowe, a Republican, was state treasurer in 1947 and 1948, Continental had, on an average, four times the amount of state funds on deposit as did First National.

However, when Ora Smith, a Democrat for whom Brown was campaign manager, took over as treasurer in 1949, the situation was reversed and First National had about twice as much in state deposits as Continental, Brown stated. He contended Smith was not quite so partisan in distributing deposits.

The difference shown in official records was not so great, however.

The Senate committee introduced records showing that, at the end of 1948, with Republican Rowe as treasurer, Continental had state deposits totaling $150,000,000; First National, $93,000,000.

With Smith in Office.

At the end of 1949, with Smith, a Democrat, in office, state funds in First National totaled $125,000,000 compared with $121,000,000 in Continental.

During the period that William G. Stratton, now Governor, was state treasurer, an end-of-the-year, statement showed Continental holding $110,000,000 in state funds; First National, $79,000,000. Stratton, a Republican, was state treasurer in 1951 and 1952.

No explanation was forthcoming from Brown, an attorney here, or other witnesses as to why Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co. is favored by the Republicans and First National Bank of Chicago by the Democrats.

As national banks, they are prohibitted under federal law from making political contributions.

Brown pointed out that apportioning of state deposits among banks is the personal prerogative of the treasurer. When Smith was elected treasurer, he named Brown assistant treasurer.

The witness said the only bank for which he, as assistant to Smith, requested state funds was the Southmoor Bank & Trust Co.

This was the bank where the fraudulent state warrants were cashed in the $1,300,000 financial scandal involving Hodge's office as State Auditor. The Senate Committee's hearings here are part of its inquiry into the Hodge scandal. The deposed auditor is serving a 12-to-15-year prison term.

Tells of Campaign Gift.

In 1948, Brown had been a tenant in the Southmoor Bank's building and received a $100 campaign contribution for Smith from Leon Marcus, an officer of the bank, who said he was giving the money because "Brown had been a good tenant and friend of the bank," the witness said. He recalled that Marcus observed at the time the contribution was "like money down the drain, because Smith didn't have a chance."

Brown added: "When Smith and I got to Springfield, I asked him to increase the deposit in the bank by $250,000 and he did."

The witness took issue with a statement by Henry J. Beutel, former president of the First State Bank of Elmwood Park, who in an earlier appearance before the committee, had coupled Brown's name with a $1000 campaign contribution he had made.

Beutel said he expected, through political contributions, to get deposits of state funds for his bank.

"Henry is obviously badly confused on dates and amounts," Brown told the committee. "He said he was trying to get these deposits from State Treasurer Richard Rowe in 1947-48 but I didn't even know Rowe until January 1949, when Smith took over the office.

"I didn't even become acquainted with Beutel until the latter part of 1948 and I didn't know he operated three banks until the next year.

"I don't think I had anything to do with increasing Beutel's deposits but it is possible Smith may have had a request from Henry and asked me about him. I certainly would have recommended a deposit for him."

'Beutel Came to Me . . .'

"After I left the state treasurer's office, Beutel came to me as a lawyer in 1952 and employed me to see William G. Stratton, then State Treasurer, about obtaining an increase in deposits for Beutel's Belmont Bank.

"I went to Springfield and found Stratton eager to spread several million dollars among three or four banks and he gave Henry a $250,000 deposit. I submitted a bill for $300 for my fee and expenses and was paid.

"I never received $1000 from Henry Beutel. He did not contribute one dime to Ora Smith's campaign fund in 1948 because I didn't know him until the campaign was over."

Beutel was pleased with Stratton's action and said he was going to make a contribution to Stratton's campaign for Governor in 1952, Brown said.

OFFICIAL FACES CHARGE HE HIRED BURLESQUE DANCE

NEWTOWN, Pa., Oct. 12 (AP)—Justice of the Peace Leon H. Milnor yesterday held R. Chapman Carver, a former member of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission, for grand jury action on charges involving the hiring of a burlesque dancer as a stenographer for the commission.

Witnesses testified that Mrs. Nony E. Brandt of Wayne, Pa., billed in burlesque as Miss TNT from Gay Paree, was paid $715 for stenographic services in 1953 by the commission.

William R. Johnson, assistant secreary-treasurer of the commission, testified that he found no trace of work done by Mrs. Brandt. Carver was also held for grand jury action on a charge of illegally collecting $19,800 in salaries from Oct. 1, 1950 to June 30, 1955.

ST. LOUIS BLUE SHIELD DENIES ENCOURAGING FEE SPLITTING

The St. Louis Blue Shield Plan opposes any practices by prepaid protection plans that encourage fee-splitting, Dr. Carl F. Vohs, president of the organization, announced today.

A charge that unethical fee-splitting is being encouraged by a recent trend in Blue Shield surgical insurance plans was made this week by Dr. Paul R. Hawley, director of the American College of Surgeons.

In a telegram to Dr. Hawley, Dr. Vohs said that the St. Louis Blue Shield Plan makes no provision to pay anyone but the surgeon who actually performs an operation. The plan does not provide for any division of surgical fees, nor does it pay fees for assistants in surgery, he stated, adding that a physician is required to certify that he personally performed the services for which he is to be paid by Blue Shield.

DONALD O'CONNOR MARRIED

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Oct. 12 (AP)—Actor Donald O'Connor, with almost enough best men to form a baseball team, was married yesterday to actress Gloria Noble.

O'Connor, flanked by seven best men, said:

"I've been best man at so many weddings I thought I would repay them all at once."

This was the second marriage for both O'Connor and Miss Noble.

$17,519 IN STOLEN JEWELRY RECOVERED IN CLERK'S HOME

DES MOINES, Oct. 12 (AP)—A 51-year-old woman department store clerk's fondness for "pretty things" has led to recovery of $17,519 worth of stolen costume jewelry at her home.

Detective Chief Robert E. O'Brien said yesterday more than 300 necklaces, bracelets, earrings and watches were found in her home. He declined to reveal her name because she is under a doctor's care. The store declined to file charges.

Asked why she took the jewelry, O'Brien quoted her as saying: "I just like pretty things." The articles were taken in four years the woman worked at the store.

GREYHOUND CORP. SETTLES SCENICRUISER ROW WITH G.M.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Greyhound Corp. said yesterday it had ended its "controversy" with the Generals Motors Corp. truck and coach division.

The announcement added that Greyhound is ordering 500 intercity coaches at a cost of more than $17,000,000 from G.M.

The bus-operating firm announced in July it would sue G.M. because of the performance of a new type of bus called the Scenicruiser.

A Greyhound spokesman said there were "difficulties with the transmissions and motors of Scenicruiser busses bought from G.M.," but, he added, the suit was not filed and will not be filed.

"A completely amicable understanding has been reached between the Greyhound Corp. and the G.M.C. truck and coach division," said Greyhound President Arthur S. Genet.

SHOE FIRMS GIVE UNITED FUND $65,000

Brown and Wohl Gift Is 8 Per Cent Larger Than Last Year's.

Brown Shoe Co. and Wohl Shoe Co. have made a joint corporate gift of $65,000 to the United Fund campaign, it was announced today.

The contribution represents an eight per cent increase over the Brown and Wohl gift of last year. The two firms have merged.

A total of $8,250,000 is being sought for the 117 United Fund Agencies in this years' campaign, which began Tuesday.

A $66,000 corporate gift from the St. Louis-San Francisco (Frisco) Railway Co. was announced yesterday.

J. C. Penney Co., 5630 Easton avenue, achieved the distinction of being the first firm in the industry and manufacturing division to reach 100 per cent participation on the part of employes. It completed its solicitation in three hours yesterday.

Edwin B. Meissner Jr., chairman of the division, said: "The example set by the Penney company is typical of the spirit of most St. Louis firms and employes in their wish to reach the United Fund goal."

Other Fund activity yesterday included the beginning of a drive among employes of St. Louis public schools. Representatives from each school met in the Audio Visual building, 1517 South Theresa avenue, to map their campaign.

Safe forever

When John saw that "God is love" (I John), the world was changed for him.

It is changed for anyone who perceives this truth in any measure. But the full blessing of this divine fact came with the advent of Christian Science.

Through the spiritual light of Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, the unreality of evil is now made plain and practical. Despite all contrary appearances, one can see that because God is Love, Love is omnipotent—the only real power.

In a degree, he sees thus that he is inseparable from Love. And from that moment he has begun to free himself from the fetters of all human fears, lack, and woe.

This is the promise of Christian Science: to provide an understanding of divine Love so that our true heritage of full freedom and dominion shall appear in all its safe and sacred blessedness.

DOUGLAS RAKES STEVENSON AS 'UNFIT' TO LEAD

Calls Democrat a Man Who Could Plunge U.S. Into War With a 'Wise Crack.'

By HERBERT A. TRASK
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Mo., Oct. 12—Herbert Douglas, Republican candidate for United States Senator, lashed out against Adlai E. Stevenson here last night as a man who could plunge the United States into another war with a "wise crack."

Addressing a Republican rally at the old Washington High School auditorium, Douglas charged the Democratic presidential nominee demonstrated he is "unfit" for the presidency by his statement favoring elimination of the military draft as soon as possible.

"That is the same kind of thinking that led to Pearl Harbor," the G.O.P. senatorial candidate declared at the meeting, attended by 132 persons, including local party leaders and nine candidates for Franklin county offices.

"He should know, in view of world conditions, that there is no immediate prospect of doing away with the draft. If we did that now, we would endanger the security of the United States and destroy our standing in the world."

Douglas, 42-year-old Neosho attorney and former Newton county prosecuting attorney, devoted a large part of his campaign talk to a comparison between "peace, progress and prosperity" under President Eisenhower and the "record of wars" under three Democratic Presidents.

Remark Applauded.

He declared Mr. Eisenhower "has proved that the United States can have prosperity without American boys being killed on foreign battlefields," a remark which drew the loudest round of applause from his audience.

The peoples of the world have great respect and confidence in President Eisenhower because he stands for peace, Douglas said. The speaker then warned that "some wise crack by a President could plunge the United States into another world war."

The G.O.P. senatorial candidate, pointing out he was born in 1914, the year World War I broke out in Europe, said Democratic President Wilson was re-elected in 1916 because "he kept us out of that war, and yet he led us into it five months after he was elected."

Douglas reported he is asked frequently if the United States would have entered that war if a Republican President had been elected in 1916. He answered the question by saying: "That's not the point. The point is that President Wilson was elected to keep the peace and failed, whereas President Eisenhower promised to go to Korea and end that war, and he did."

In 1936, Douglas continued President Franklin D. Roosevelt told American mothers "a-gain and a-gain that he would not permit their boys to fight overseas, but they did."

Assails Hennings.

And later, he declared President Truman "sent our boys 5000 miles across the sea to Korea to shed their blood on a foreign shore, in a war the Democratic administration did not want to win."

Douglas also attacked the voting record of his Democratic opponent, United States Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. of St. Louis, who is seeking re-election to a second term.

He said Hennings voted against establishment of a bipartisan committee to make a thorough review of foreign relief funds contributed by the United States. His opponent, he reported, also opposed the Administration's proposal to send an atomic-powered ship around the world on a good will tour.

Douglas also said Hennings favors continuation of the accumulation of farm surpluses on the theory these products can be given away to the people. The Republican candidate criticized this, saying: "You can't create markets for the farmers and keep their prices high by building up surpluses and then giving them away."

The speaker urged the Republican workers to bring out a large vote for Mr. Eisenhower and the state Republican ticket. Another Republican defeat in Missouri will seriously endanger the two-party system in the state, he said.

$46,929 TAX LIEN IS FILED

A lien for $46,929, representing additional federal income taxes allegedly owed for years 1944 through 1948 by Nathan Barack, former vice president of an auto parts firm, was filed with the recorder of deeds of St. Louis county yesterday by the Internal Revenue Service.

Barack, who lives at 7137 Delmar boulevard, University City, was found guilty of evading $2506 in federal income taxes for 1946 on March 21, 1953, and sentenced to 18 months in prison.

LIBBY SAYS U.S. HAS DEVELOPED 'CLEAN' H-BOMB

AEC Official Reports Actual Production of 'Reduced Fallout' Nuclear Weapon.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP) —Atomic Energy Commissioner Willard F. Libby said today that the United States actually has produced a "cleaner H-bomb."

The so-called "reduced fallout" bomb would spread less deadly radio-activity than "dirtier" H-bombs of the same power.

In an address at a radiation meeting sponsored by the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Libby reported "new information" on radio-active fallout. Much of it dealt with the United States nuclear test program at the Pacific proving ground between May 5 and mid-July this year.

"Particular attention was paid to the fallout problem in this operation," Libby said, "and a major effort was made to produce a megaton-range weapon (equal in power to millions of tons of T.N.T.) with an inherently smaller amount of fallout for a given energy release.

"This effort was successful."

More Positive Stand.

He said that "considerable attention was paid to operational factors" — presumably comparatively sanitary high-altitude explosions — "which would minimize world-wide fallout."

These statements by Libby were far more positive than earlier statements by AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss and President Eisenhower.

Mr. Eisenhower said just a week ago that "we have learned to make weapons which reduce fallout to a minimum and whose destructive effect can be concentrated upon military objectives."

The President didn't say such a weapon actually had been produced. On July 19, Strauss said "real progress" had been made toward a reduced-fallout weapon. Four days later he and Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson said jointly that the tests "advanced the development" of cleaner H-bombs.

Libby also offered statistics that nuclear tests by all countries to date have not dangerously overburdened the world with radio-activity.

He said there is stored in the stratosphere an amount of radio-active particles about equal to what would be created by explosion of atomic fission bombs equal in total energy release to 24 megatons, or 24,000,000 tons of TNT.

40-Year Hazard.

Most dangerous of these fission fragments is Strontium-90, a potentially cancer-forming "bone seeker" which remains a hazard for about 40 years on the average.

Despite a recent upsurge of tests by all atomic powers, the amount of Strontium-90 actually concentrated in human bones is far below the "maximum permissible concentration," Libby said.

By the Associated Press.

Dr. Shields Warren of Boston said "much progress is being made" in reducing the potential radiation hazard of medical X-rays. He said the developments stem from findings that X-rays "contributed far more radiation than did atomic fallout." Studies of radioactive fallout here and abroad, he said, "indicate that tests of atomic devices may be safely continued at the present rate for years."

Dr. Warren is the former chief of the Atomic Energy Commission's division of biology and medicine.

At the same symposium, Dr. L. C. Dunn, Columbia University zoologist, discussed genetic effects of radiation. He said that while future research might ultimately suggest a qualifying viewpoint, "the safest assumption at present is that the best level of controllable radiation is none at all."

ANDERSON BACKS STEVENSON ON ENDING H-TESTS

Says President Misquoted Him — Gore Challenges Strauss— AEC Lists Reactors.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP) — Two Democratic Senators took sharp issue yesterday with the Administration on prime atomic issues—and the Atomic Energy Commission volunteered a document indirectly referring to one of the arguments.

First, Senator Clinton P. Anderson (Dem.), New Mexico, chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, said President Eisenhower "quoted me out of context to give the impression that I oppose" Adlai E. Stevenson's stand on halting H-bomb tests.

Then, Senator Albert Gore (Dem.), Tennessee, also a member of the joint atomic committee, charged that Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission had deliberately tried "to mislead the American people" on the Eisenhower Administration's accomplishments in the atomic field.

Strauss Challenged.

Gore challenged a statement made by Strauss Wednesday night that 30 atomic power reactors are "in operation in the United States, under construction or planned for experimental or for actual full-scale use." He further challenged Strauss "to identify any reactor capable of generating power in amounts in excess of 5000 kilowatts which is, at this time, actually under construction with the exception of the Shippingport (Pa.) reactor."

The AEC, without referring to Gore's statement, later issued a list of reactors "built," building, or planned in the United States, including those designed for power production and those not so designed.

The commission's document listed nine power-producing reactors as "completed and in being"—including four "civilian power reactor experiments," but no full-scall civilian power reactors.

22 Others Listed.

The AEC listed 22 other power-producing reactors as "under construction" — including three "full-scale civilian power reactors." In addition to the reactor at Shippingport, Pa., in this latter category, it listed a reactor of the General Electric Co. and Pacific Gas & Electric Co. which it said was under construction near Livermore, Calif, and a reactor of the Power Reactor Development Co., Inc., described as under construction at Monroe, Mich.

Senator Anderson said he is supporting Stevenson's call for the United States to take the lead in "obtaining suspension of H-bomb tests for all nations."

I feel," Anderson declared, "we should make immediate efforts to halt the testing of nuclear weapons of more than one megaton intensity. Such tests of larger H-bombs appear unnecessary at the present time for a well-balanced arsenal of weapons."

NATIONAL GUARD CALLS RESERVE ACT A FAILURE

SPOKANE, Oct. 12 (AP)— The National Guard Association said yesterday the enlistment program under the Reserve Forces Act of 1955 is not working and called for a new recruiting idea.

Under the act, a young man between 17 and 18½ can join either the National Guard or the Army Reserve on condition he agree to take six-months immediate training with the Army. After six months, he must serve another 5½ years in either the reserve or the National Guard.

HOCKER URGES BLAIR TO REVEAL STAND ON ISSUES

Republican Lists 20 Items on Which He Says Opponent Has Taken No Stand.

Lon Hocker, Republican candidate for Governor, challenged his Democratic opponent today to take a public stand on the question of financing improved state services and other campaign issues.

Speaking at a mock political convention at Harris Teachers College, Hocker listed 20 issues on which he said he has defined his stand but Lt. Gov. James T. Blair Jr. has taken no public position.

Where does Blair propose to get the money to complete financing of public education, provide better care for mental patients and increase old-age assistance? Hocker asked.

Does Blair favor exempting food and medicines from the sales tax? Does he approve recommendations of the State Reorganization Commission for centralized administration, purchasing and accounting? What about a speed law for Missouri?

"Does he feel that, as Governor of Missouri, he may properly continue to represent private interests against the state before commissions whose members the Governor himself appoints?" Hocker demanded. "Does he or does he not approve of the adoption of a 'conflict of interest' statute prohibiting state officials from representing for a fee private interests opposed to that of the state?"

The Republican candidate wanted to know how Blair stands on more support for the Division of Resources and Development, Hocker's proposal that the state auditor have the qualifications of a certified public accountant, an earlier state primary election, improvement of the mental health program, budgeting reforms, elimination of personal property taxes on household furnishing, improvement of tax assessment procedure and preservation of the non-partisan court plan.

Hocker asked if Blair favored legislation authorizing police boards in the large cities to regulate salaries, working hours and size of police forces. What about unit control to prevent use of the St. Louis public school system for political patronage?, he asked.

Other issues on which Blair was asked to take a stand included legislation to permit idle state funds to draw interest; the King-Thompson Act bar on public utility strikes; a proposal to require registration of lobbyists, and a state-wide registration and signature verification law to prevent "repeat voting."

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth C. Morrow, widow of Dwight W. Morrow and mother of Mrs. Anne Morrow Lindbergh, left gross assets of $9,399,935, according to an estate tax appraisal field yesterday. Mrs. Morrow died Jan. 23, 1955.

NEW SUPERSONIC JET IS GIVEN HIGH PRAISE

Air Defense Chief, Here, Says F-102 Has 'Revolutionized Thinking.'

The F-102 supersonic jet fighter, which is capable of speeds more than 1000 miles per hour, will be able to "take care of any Russian bombers" in case of attack, Maj. Gen. Jarred V. Crabb, commanding general of the Central Air Defense Comm..nd, said here yesterday.

Speaking before a meeting of the Armed Forces Council of St. Louis at the York Hotel, he said the delta-winged fighter "has revolutionized thinking" of personnel at the first Air Force base equipped with the plane at Duluth, Minn.

Gen. Crabb also declared that fighters of the Air Defense Command are now on a 24-hour alert and prepared to be airborne within five minutes after warning of enemy attack.

In the matter of warning, Gen. Crabb disclosed that the DEW (distant early warning) system in the far north will be in operation this winter.

Turning to another electronic system, SAGE (semi-automatic ground environment), Gen. Crabb said it will be a "tremendous part of the defense system." It is a nation-wide network of electronic computers that link ground, sea and airborne radar stations automatically, giving instantaneous information on attackers and weapons to use against them.

"SAGE just now is becoming a fact," Gen. Crabb said.

Bernhard to Visit U.S.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 12 (UP)—Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands will visit the United States for 11 days, it was announced today. He will fly to the United States Oct. 19 at the invitation of Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander-in-chief, Allied naval forces in the Atlantic.

2 WEBSTER GROVES YOUTHS CONTRACT POLIO ON TRIP

Two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Newell S. Ferry II, of 560 Garden avenue, Webster Groves, were stricken with infantile paralysis when on a vacation trip with their parents in South Carolina last month, the local chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis reported today.

The father, an attorney, said his 18-year-old son, Seneca T. Ferry, became ill the day the family arrived at Myrtle Beach, and is hospitalized at Charleston with paralytic polio. He had planned to enter Amherst College, but will be hospitalized until Thanksgiving, the father said. The other son, Newell S. Ferry III, was hospitalized only five days and has since reported for duty as a second lieutenant at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.

The death of Robert French, 29 years old, a respiratory patient for four years, was reported by the Foundation. French, who lived at 5242A Genevieve avenue with his wife and son, died of complications Oct. 3 at St. Anthony Hospital. Total number of cases this year has reached 125, with five deaths.

Sinatra, Fisher Form Firm.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12 (AP)—Frank Sinatra and Eddie Fisher said yesterday they have joined forces to form the Saga Music Publishing Co., which will be owned by the two singers and Hank Sanicola, personal manager for Sinatra.

COUNTY CANDIDATE CHARGES WASTE OF HIGHWAY FUNDS

John J. Leslie, Mayor of Vinita Park, said last night that Fred H. Kiburz, county highway engineer, had wasted part of the bond issue funds voted last year in St. Louis county by building a bottleneck bridge on Ashby road in Overland.

Leslie, Democratic candidate for the office, spoke at a meeting of the Airport Township Democratic Club. He said Kiburz had spent about $16,000 of the bond issue money to construct a bridge that is too narrow to accommodate the proposed four lane Midland highway.

He said that additional funds would be necessary to tear down the present bridge, and that still more money would be used to rebuild the bridge to meet modern highway needs. Kiburz could not be reached for comment.

5 FRENCH EMPLOYES AT U.S. BASES JAILED IN THEFTS

NANCY, France, Oct. 12 (UP)—Five Frenchmen employed by United States military bases near here were jailed today for investigation in the theft of nearly 5300 gallons of American gasoline, police reported. Twenty-five other French civilians are under investigation, authorities said.

Officials also learned that large amounts of American military food rations had been stolen from a cold storage plant rented by the Army at Maxeville. The plant director was arrested.

Lawyer's Suicide Reported Linked to Wortman Debt

said the family went to Rosenblum's office and asked him about the accusation.

Admitted Losing Money.

"I gambled away your money on the East Side," the attorney was quoted by the doctor as telling them.

"He was very depressed and at times tearful," Dr. Cassel said. "He told us he had lost enough money to the gamblers and that anything he still owed them was negligible. He said he was in good health and had made money before and was still able to make money. He said he would pay it all back within 10 years.

"We left and thought it over. We knew that any action we might take would probably do more harm than good, so we were inclined to go along with him. We put no pressure on him. We saw him several times this past summer and talked about the estate, but we never asked him for an accounting."

B. G. Fleischman, a son, told Dr. Cassel he had seen Rosenblum about 10 days before the suicide, and the attorney seemed to be in good health and cheerful.

When Rosenblum told the Fleischman family about gambling, he mentioned that he had borrowed considerable sums from seven St. Louis banks. He did not name them, Dr. Cassel said.

Bond Not Required.

The physician said that the family, over the years since the death of Fleischman Aug. 21, 1950, had thought it strange that Rosenblum had never given them an accounting of estate funds. Rosenblom wrote Fleischman's will, was sole executor and trustee and was not required to post bond.

Dr. Cassel said he did not think there was anything left in the estate, although a definite determination of the assets has not been made.

Records at Clayton show the estate paid Mrs. Fleischman $20.400 on Oct. 18, 1950. Later she received two more payments, one for $4851 and the other for $4700. The latter represented income from two trust funds.

A payment of $12,000 to Rosenblum for executor fees also was shown on the record as having been paid March 18, 1952. Several days later, Rosenblum withdrew $100,000 for investment in the two trust funds.

His last report on the estate to the court was made May 13, 1955, at which time he listed a balance of $104,612. At the same time Mrs. Fleischman received $5312. Efforts are now being made to find the balance.

Mrs. Rosenblum, who lives at 5739 Westminster place, said her husband told her last April that he "owed Mrs. Fleischman a lot of money."

She quoted him as saying he had lost a "substantial" amount of money gambling, "more than I can ever repay."

This was the first knowledge she had of his gambling debts, she said.

Threatened to Disappear.

Rosenblum told her of his debts to Mrs. Fleischman after he had returned from a trip to Cincinnati. He phoned and said he was going to disappear, she related.

Mrs. Rosenblum said she persuaded her husband to come home. "I talked to him for four hours that night. I talked him out of taking his life.

"I told him I would help him with all the money I had. I told him we'd sell our house in University City and move to smaller quarters. I said we'd pay off the debts if it took 20 years. He agreed with me. He said he wished he had talked to me before. If he had, he said, perhaps he wouldn't be in trouble."

Mrs. Rosenblum said her husband, who was extremely secretive about his affairs, gave her no explanation of how he had accumulated his gambling debts except to say that he had "got in with the wrong people."

She accompanied her husband on two trips to Las Vegas, Nev., one in February 1955 and the other last August, she said.

Her husband gambled at dice tables in Las Vegas, but "only as any tourist would. He seemed to have a wonderful time."

No Knowledge of Losses.

She said she did not know whether he had suffered any heavy losses at Nevada gambling resorts, adding that she visited relatives in Las Vegas. They spent one week there on the first trip and about three weeks the second time.

To start the pair's planned restitution of the Fleischman funds, Mrs. Rosenblum said she withdrew from a downtown bank $12,000 in savings which she had accumulated in 30 years of giving piano instructions.

"We went to another bank where he deposited $4500, saying he was going to give that to Mrs. Fleischman," Mrs. Rosenblum continued. "He said he was going to use the rest of the money to repay friends, banks and others he owed."

Rosenblum never gave any indication he was concerned for his safety, or that gamblers or other hoodlum elements were pressing him for payment, his widow said. She understood most of his debts were in the form of notes to banks "and he said the banks were pressing him for payment."

However, Mrs. Rosenblum said she knew little of her husband's affairs. "Whenever I asked about business matters, he would tell me not to worry about those things and to leave them to him," she said.

In the sale of the University City home the Rosenblums obtained $25,500, she said, but only $6100 of this was cleared after heavy mortgages were paid.

"I guess he gambled that away, too," she said.

The only assets she has been married. She obtained a divorce in 1952. He and the present Mrs. Rosenblum were married that year.

While at the university, Rosenblum conducted an orchestra and in later years was the conductor of the Y.M.H.A. orchestra.

In 1932 he withdrew as attorney of record in a bondholders' receivership suit against the St. Louis-San Francisco (Frisco) Railroad after a federal judge threatened to expel a New York attorney, who also represented the bondholders. Two years later he represented bondholders in the rorganization of the St. Louis Public Service Co. and the old Laclede Gas Light Co.

Rosenblum and Attorney Bernard Mellitz received $45,000 for legal services to the estates of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Wolff in December, 1950. Wolff, who died in 1948, was board chairman of the old Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. Mrs. Wolff died in February 1949.

Lindbergh Arrives in Paris.

PARIS, Oct. 12 (AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh, who met delirous crowds when he reached Paris on his solo flight in 1927, came back almost unnoticed today on a private trip. He was aboard a Pan American flight from New York.

PRODUCTION RATE AT NEW HEIGHTS FOR FREE WORLD

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—The free world's industrial production climbed to new heights the first six months of this year, the United Nations reported yesterday.

However, the unprecedented increases noted in the last 18 months seemed to be dwindling. The report covers production from mines and factories in all areas except the U.S.S.R., eastern Europe and the China mainland.

The industrial production index for the first half of 1956 stood at a record 114 (1953 equals 100), which exceeded the previous record six-month period, the last half of 1955. Production was five per cent higher than that of the first half of last year.

Output in the United States in the first half of 1956 was about four per cent above that of 1955.

OSTEOPATH-MEDICAL TIES CALLED CLOSER

But Osteopathic Leader Says Relations at Political Level Are Still Strained.

The relationship between the American Osteopathic and American medical associations "has improved tremendously" in the last few years at the individual and academic levels, but remains "strained at the political level," Dr. Robert McCullough of Tulsa, president of the osteopathic association, said here last night.

Addressing about 700 persons at the banquet of the annual convention of the Missouri Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons at Hotel Sheraton-Jefferson, he said amalgamation of the two associations was not the real issue at the moment.

"What is of vital importance is that these two healing arts professions co-operate and work together in improving and safeguarding the health of the millions of people they both serve," Dr. McCullough stated.

When petty grievances and jealousies interfere with the effectiveness of the two professions, a situation exists which has a detrimental effect on the public," he said. "We must learn to work together at all levels, for despite our differences, both professions have one common interest — the health and welfare of the public."

Dr. William F. Englehart, who has practiced here for 53 years, today was named osteopathic physician of the year by the association. He was awarded a certificate and an honorary life membership in the organization.

Dr. Englehart, 90 years old, practiced for 51 years in the Central National Bank building before moving his office two years ago to his home, 5305 Delmar boulevard. He is a staff member of the Normandy Osteopathic Hospital and a past president of the Missouri association.

Dr. J. E. Sommers, a St. Louis eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, was installed yesterday as president of the association. Other officers include: Dr. Vernon H. Casner of Kirksville, president-elect; Dr. R. A. Michael, Jefferson City, first vice president, and Dr. Neva Steidley, St. Joseph, second vice president. The three-day meeting ends today.

B. D. TALLAMY NAMED TO HEAD ROAD PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower today nominated Bertram D. Tallamy of New York to head the government's new 33-billion-dollar long-range highway construction program.

Tallamy is chairman of the New York State Thruway Authority.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Tallamy will take over the $20,000-a-year job early next year.

Meanwhile, it will be filled on an interim basis by John A. Volpe of Winchester, Mass., head of a construction company bearing his name. Both men are Republicans.

Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower will give Volpe a recess appointment to the job in a few days, but that he will step aside when Tallamy takes over next year. Tallamy's nomination will go to the Senate when Congress reconvenes in January.

PRICE CRITICIZES STRAUSS'S CLAIMS ON ATOMIC POWER

Atomic Energy Commissioner Lewis Strauss's claims of achievement in the nuclear power program were criticized by United States Representative Melvin Price (Dem.) of East St. Louis today as "ranging from blatant nonsense to ill-concealed perversions of the truth."

Price, chairman of the Research and Development Subcommittee of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy questioned Strauss's claims of achievement under the Eisenhower Administration and asked:

"Would it be that he is trying to gloss over the fact that this country is falling behind Britain and Russia in nuclear power development through the stagnation of our own program, which he himself is largely responsible for as AEC chairman?"

FRENCH ACTRESS, 19, TO BE FIFTH WIFE OF RUBIROSA

PARIS, Oct. 12 (AP)—Dominican playboy-diplomat Porfirio Rubirosa said today he will marry 19-year-old French actress Odile Rodin, probably in a month.

This will be the first marriage for the blonde actress. She currently is playing the lead role in "Fabien" at the Bouffe-Parisiens the theater.

Rubirosa, who is listd as minister counsellor at the Dominican Republic's embassy in Paris, has been married four times: To Flor de Oro Trujillo, daughter of the Dominican president; to French film actress Danielle Darrieux, to Doris Duke and to Barbara Hutton.

Stevenson Fans H-Bomb Dispute With Eisenhower

by adding, "and I don't mean the Republican party."

Eisenhower Position.

Mr. Eisenhower, in a Sept. 19 broadcast address, called Stevenson's qualified proposal to end the testing "a theatrical national gesture." He said also, in reply to Stevenson's suggestion that the revolution in weapons might permit an end to the draft in foreseeable future, that "this cannot be done under world conditions of today."

At his press conference yesterday Mr. Eisenhower was questioned on these two subjects. He said his Administration had done everything humany possible to bring the H-bomb threat under international control and use it for peace and that he had uttered his last words on the two matters.

The Democratic candidate, who scheduled speeches today in Fresno, Long Beach and San Diego, continued his stepped-up attacks on Mr. Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon of California. At Oakland last night he treated both of them more roughly than he has before.

The Oakland speech had a toughness and drive that was unusual for Stevenson, and the crowd responded by interrupting him many times with applause.

The Democratic standard bearer charged the Administration with deceiving the people by saying the Communists are on the run and all is well.

"I don't think the American people like this deception," Stevenson said. "I don't think they like to be told by Secretary of State Dulles and President Eisenhower that American prestige 'has never been higher' when it is manifestly untrue."

'Heritage of Isolationism.'

The Republican party, he continued, still bears "the lingering heritage of its historic isolationism and irresponsibility in foreign affairs. I deeply regret this irresponsibility where foreign policy is concerned. In the last four years we have paid a heavy price in world influence for the appeasement by the Eisenhower Administration of the Old Guard Republicans."

Stevenson said he remembered how "that California statesman" (Vice President Nixon) said in 1954 he was the first to propose sending United States troops to Indochina; then after it was too late he lauded the President for keeping us out, and then when half of Indochina was lost he blamed the Democrats."

Many voters are switching this year from Republican to Democratic, Stevenson said. He asserted that one explanation for the switching was offered by Harold E. Stassen, the President's disarmament aid. Stassen promoted a "dump-Nixon" movement before the Republican convention in San Francisco, where Nixon was nominated.

"People know that after this election, win or lose," Stevenson said, "the heir apparent will inherit leadership of the Republican party—and you in California know who that is and what that means."

Nixon's Name Booed.

Prolonged booing was set off by mention of Nixon's name.

Many of the speakers who preceded Stevenson at the rally also got in a few digs at Nixon. They included Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania, who is in California, along with Gov. Robert Meyner of New Jersey and Senators Albert Gore of Tennessee and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, to participate in an intensive one-day California campaign. Each is traveling in the state today in a small airplane while Stevenson makes the major stops.

All the evidence indicates that the Republicans and Democrats are in a neck-and-neck race in California and both parties are fighting hard. It is thought here that Mr. Eisenhower will be forced to speak in the state later in the campaign. Stevenson will return for another visit later.

The Democratic speakers reached California in time to participate in a nationally-broadcast television show yesterday in which Stevenson discussed his health program and invited comments from Meyner, Leader, Gore and Humphrey, who sat across a desk from him in a studio.

In his speech last night Stevenson said that everywhere he had been he had received reports of Democratic progress and had been much heartened by what he found on the Pacific coast and by the election returns from Maine and Alaska.

"Things have been going very well indeed," he said, "and no other party can make that claim."

Warming up to his subject, he said:

"No one, we are told, has had such total popularity as our President in these past four years. And certainly no Administration has ever enjoyed such an immunity from criticism as this one. And what use has been made of these great assets of leadership?

'A Single New Idea?'

"Has there been a single new idea at home or abroad? I don't say atoms for peace, or open-sky inspection, or flexible price supports—all of which were Democratic proposals long ago. Has there been a single strong stand on a difficult issue? Has there been strong presidential influence for a major reform? Has there ever been a major informative address to the American people in the last year and a half?

"I say the unforgiving minutes are running out here at home and all across the worried world."

President Eisenhower's Cabinet, Stevenson said, reflects the true spirit of the Republican party. He said the criterion in selecting the members of the Cabinet was financial success, and added that he saw a reason for opposing an Administration that represents the special interests, but no reason for complaining about it.

"What I do protest, however," he said, "is the election-year pretense of being something else—this cry from the chicken coop that there's nobody here but us chickens. Honest representation of a single interest is one thing—but this leap-year liberalism is a fraud.

"In spite of the President's bold claim the other night of 'four years of clear accomplishments,' the inventory of action is very meagre."

"Most seriously of all, they have lost confidence and respect for us around the world, boasted and bluffed, zigged and zagged, contradicted each other, told us fairy tales instead of grim realities, and made grandstand plays that frightened our friends more than our enemies.

"And now we are being offered for campaign consumption a brand of Pollyanna politics. Well, I say that this Pollyanna politics is good neither for us nor for them, and is doomed to die on Nov. 6."

The Democratic party is distinguished from the Republican party by "the Republican salesmanship, hucksterism and merchandising of their record," Stevenson said.

"When the package is empty," he added, "the label has got to be good."

Stevenson touched on a new point of attack when he charged the Administration with curtailing news of its activities. He quoted the chief Washington correspondent of the New York Times "as saying that under the Eisenhower Administration there was, a growing tendency to manage the news,'" and he quoted a report of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, as saying "there has developed today the worst abridgment of the American's right to know about the Federal Government in the 168 years of the American experiment with freedom."

Agreement Also Covers Drilling, Bidding, Revenues Pending Supreme Court Decision.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP) —Louisiana State and Federal Government officials signed an interim agreement today to permit the immediate resumption of oil leasing and drilling on submerged lands off the Louisana coast.

The agreement ended more than three months of negotiations. It will be filed with the Supreme Court later today so that the State's injunction prohibiting leasing and drilling may be lifted.

It provides that the Federal Government shall impound revenues from both past and future oil and gas activities in the disputed area of land ownership until the Supreme Court decides the question.

The state also must impound future revenues. Past revenues by the state are not available for impoundment.

Retroactive Feature

Officials said federal interests in the past revenues will be protected, however, by collateral agreements in which the lessees guarantee to reimburse the federal government in the proper amounts, as determined by the final boundary settlement.

The agreement for continued operation was signed during ceremonies in Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton's office by Seaton, Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., Jack Gremillion, Louisiana Attorney General, and William G. Helis Jr., chairman of the Louisiana state mineral board.

It divides the disputed area —roughly from 3.5 to 10 miles off the Louisiana coast — into four zones marked 1, 2, 3, 4.

Zone 1 extends seaward three geographic miles from a base line which, generally speaking, follows the Gulf shoreline. Zone 2 extends from the seaward edge of Zone 1 to a line three leagues from the same base line. Zone 3 extends from the seaward edge of Zone 2 to a line defined by the 1954 Louisiana Legislature, called the Act 33 line. Zone 4 extends seaward from Zone 3.

Future leasing will be conducted by the Federal Government in Zone 4 and the state will conduct leasing in Zone 1. There will be no new leases in Zone 2 until the Supreme Court determines the boundary question, except by the Federal Government under certain protective measures.

There will be a year's moratorium on leasing in Zone 3. But drilling may continue on existing leases in all four zones under the agreement.

Committee to Act on Bids.

The agreement calls also for the creation of a six-member committee to pass on the adequacy of future lease bids. The committee will be composed of three Federal Government representatives and three representatives of the state.

The agreement also provided that Edward Woozley, director of the Bureau of Law Management, shall furnish the committee full information concerning all bids and designating specifically which bids he proposes to accept or reject. If a majority of the committee disagrees with Woozley's decision, he is directed to accept the committee's recommendation.

At stake in the Supreme Court's final decision is billions of dollars in bonus bids, rentals and royalties from oil and gas leases in the disputed area.

FOUND DEAD IN HOME

Alfred J. Broemer, an unemployed cook, was found dead in bed yesterday at his home at 5117 Hilda avenue in Affton. There was a rifle by his side and a bullet wound in the head. A neighbor discovered the body when she entered the home to let his dog out. A note was found in the kitchen which indicated suicide. He was 56 years old.

IRAQ DUE TO SEND 3000 TROOPS TO BOLSTER JORDAN

Move Designed to Stabilize Nation Before Vote—Tacit OK by U.S., Britain.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP) —The turbulent Middle East is threatening to explode a new crisis.

King Faisal of Iraq is due to send about 3000 troops into Jordan soon at the request of his cousin, Jordan's King Hussein, to help stabilize that country in advance of Oct. 21 parliamentary elections.

The United States and Britain have given at least tacit approval in the interest of preventing a possible collapse of law and order in Jordan, but officials here are by no means certain what the repercussions will be.

Israel is said to have informed the United States it cannot view with indifference what it regards as the potential military reinforcement of the Arab state with which it has the lonegst common border. There has been heavy fighting along the Israeli-Jordan frontier in recent days.

Nasser Unpredictable.

The reaction of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, central figure in the Suez canal dispute, is unpredictable. Nasser long has tried to increase his own influence over Jordan and the Arab world generally.

Hussein is said to have appealed to Faisal about two weeks ago to send troops into Jordan to help stabilize the country. Diplomats reported Iraq's plan is to send in three under-strength brigades totaling about 3000 men.

They would be stationed in eastern Jordan, well away from the Jordanian border with Israel, according to this plan, and would have the task of guarding oil pipelines which carry petroleum from the Iraqi fields to the Mediterranean. They would also be on hand to help control any uprisings within the country. American officials understand they may move within a few days.

(In Baghdad, an Iraqi official source denied that Iraq was sending troops to Jordan to help stabilize the country. He said the only reason Iraqi troops would go into Jordan would be to help repel future Israeli attacks. They "would have nothing to do with domestic affairs or the election campaign," he said.

Plan of Arab States.

(Any such move, the official added, would be part of a general plan of the Arab states to offer help to Jordan to enable it to resist Israeli attacks on its borders.)

Jordan has been caught for months in the cross currents of Middle Eastern politics resulting from a power struggle that involves primarily Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Iraq. All three countries are reported to have been spending heavily in Jordan to advance their sometimes similar and sometimes conflicting purposes.

Whether deployment of the Iraqi troops away from the Israeli border could be maintained in the event of serious border fighting is one of the elements of uncertainty in the situation.

Iraq, in addition to having treaties with Jordan and other Arab states, is an ally of Britain in the Baghdad pact for the collective defense of the Middle East. Jordan also has a history of close association with Britain and receives an annual British subsidy.

Close British Ties.

Iraq's close ties with Britain appear to some diplomats here to be particularly significant in the present situation because of Britain's antagonism to Nasser. Iraq and Egypt are traditional rivals for power and influence in the Arab world.

One result of an Iraqi move into Jordan could be to build Iraq's prestige in this competition. Many observers here would not be surprised if this turned out to be a primary motivation in Iraq's readiness to meet King Hussein's request for assistance in shoring up the shaky structure of his kingdom.

The United States and Britain are reported to feel that in the light fo the possible collapse of the Jordanian government the troop movement is a good thing.

France has had reservations about the possible impact on Syria, with which it has long maintained close relations, and on United Nations efforts to suppress fighting between Israel and its Arab neighbors.

Iraq Plan Indicates Arab Legion Has Lost Power.

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch. Copyright 1956.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—The Iraq plan to bolster the faltering Jordan government indicates that the Arab Legion, under Jordanian officers is a shadow of its former self.

The Legion, under British command, was the pride of Jordan a few months ago. It was the elite force among Arab armies. It had a modern infantry division, a couple of armored regiments, a regiment of anti-tank weapons, some medium tanks and adequate base installations.

This week Israeli forces made a reprisal raid into Jordan and hauled away a regimental banner of the once-vaunted Legion. It was a degrading blow to the army created out of robed riflemen mounted on horses and camels by Lt. Gen. John Bagot Glubb, the colorful, 58-year-old "Glubb Pasha."

Under pressure from Egypt and Saudi Arabia, King Hussein gave Glubb and other British officers their walking papers last March 2. Apparently the Legion began to come unraveled with Glubb's departure.

URGES TELETYPE BETWEEN COUNTY SHERIFF, CITY POLICE

Establishment of teletype communication between the St. Louis county sheriff's office and the St. Louis Police Department was advocated today by Frank L. Malone, Democratic candidate for county sheriff.

"St. Louis county has grown up and the office of the sheriff should keep pace with it," he said, adding that new methods should be brought into the fingerprinting department and the record-keeping system improved.

Malone said the office had become "a political football," and that Republicans had "kicked it around long enough."

Stevenson's Text at Oakland, Calif.

OAKLAND, Calif., Oct. 12 (AP).

IT'S GREAT TO BE A DEMOCRAT! It's great to belong to a party that belongs to no single interest among us and no single region of the country, but to all the people everywhere. Working in that atmosphere with those commitments, with those convictions, you somehow feel that to talk to masses of people everywhere and bespeak their support is honest and worthwhile, because what you are doing is larger than you are or than any selfish interest.

I want to say how grateful I am to the men on the platform with me here tonight, who have come out here to help us carry the Democratic message to the beautiful rim of the Pacific, two great Democratic Governors: George Leader of Pennsylvania and Robert Meyner of New Jersey. Two great Democratic Senators: Albert Gore of Tennessee and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota.

These men, and others like them, are the vigorous new men with new ideas who lead the Democratic party today. And what they find in the Democratic party is a chance to work for the people.

I think and I hope that next January Senators Humphrey and Gore will have a new liberal ally in the Senate—Richard Richards of California.

Dick Richards, with his brilliant record in your own State Senate, is another young man who is rapidly rising to the top in our party.

And I think, too, that you're going to send two dedicated liberals to the House of Representatives to help out there—Congressman George P. Miller of the Eighth District and Dr. Laurance Cross of the Eighth.

Reports of Voters Switching.

From all over the country, we get reports that voters are switching this year—away from the Republicans and over to the Democratic party.

There are lots of reasons for this.

Three years ago, we learn now, even the Republican President got so disgusted with his party that he talked about forming a third party. But apparently he is now enthusiastically in favor of all his fellow Republicans who follow him at coat-tail distance as candidates but refuse to follow him at all as President.

Another explanation of the switch was offered by Mr. Stassen because people know that after this election, win or lose, the heir apparent will inherit leadership of the Republican party—and you in California know who that is and what that means!

And they are switching because now it is plain that the record of the present Administration adds up to much fine talk, but no action in meeting the problems facing the people of this country.

They have failed to give the farmer a fair share of our national income.

They have failed to take any effective action to build the schools our children need.

They have failed to protect our public resources against private greed.

They have failed to give more than token tax relief to those who need it most.

They have failed to stop the cost of living from rising to an all-time high.

They have failed to protect the civil liberties of loyal Americans in Government and in industry.

They have failed to provide any leadership in the mounting crisis over civil rights.

Most seriously of all, they have lost confidence and respect for us around the world, boasted and bluffed, zigged and zagged, contradicted each other, told us fairy tales instead of the grim realities, and made grandstand plays that frightened our friends more than our enemies.

And now we are being offered for campaign consumption a brand of pollyanna politics labeled peace, prosperity and progress.

Well, I say that this pollyanna politics is good neither for us nor for them and is doomed to die on Nov. 6. We Americans aren't afraid of the truth; the people aren't asking for sugar-coated assurances that all is well. The most heartening thing about this campaign is that millions of Americans are concerned about the issues and want straight talk and common sense.

Road to the New America.

I've been trying to tell the people as clearly as I know how what we Democrats want to do about the problems we face, what road we want to take to the new America.

It isn't possible in a political campaign to cover all the issues in campaign speeches, and so I have tried to set forth in a series of written statements exactly what we are going to do. Two weeks ago, I proposed a detailed program to help the aging. Last week I spelled out what we want to do to give our children the kind of schools and teachers they deserve. This week I suggested the goals and outlined a program to make sure that no one is denied good medical care because he can't afford it.

Some people ask why I am doing this. Why not just attack the Republicans? I'll tell you why. It's because I think it's wrong that the country with the longest automobiles, the widest TV screens, and the most superhighways is letting its older citizens live out their lives in fear and poverty.

I think it's wrong that a country that loves its children denies them the best education.

I think it's wrong that the country with the most expensive resort hotels and the longest vacations doesn't see to it that all Americans can see a doctor when they need him.

And I think it's right that a candidate say what he plans to do about it.

And I submit that although the Republican campaign is getting shriller every day, it hasn't yet produced a single new idea.

And the clearest thing about the world we live in is that it needs new ideas even as the earth needs rain.

Beyond the specific issues in this campaign are the broader questions of the basic differences between the two parties.

It is important to ask: what is the difference in basic constitution and basic philosophy between our two parties, what the grounds are on which we Democrats seek the awesome responsibility of governing the United States.

It is not enough that the Republicans are in office and we are out. The American people want to know and have a right to know why we Democrats feel we deserve their trust and the Republicans do not.

Differences Have Grown.

I say that there are very great differences between the two parties. These differences have been growing throughout this century, especially since the days of Woodrow Wilson.

With the defeat of the Democratic party in 1920, the Government passed back to the control of the coalition of moneymakers and isolationists who had dominated the Republican party so long. This Old Guard defeated the League of Nations. It presided over the Wall Street boom that culminated in the great depression. It fought the great social reforms, the modernization of America, under Roosevelt, every step of the way, and its political successors are still denouncing the New Deal, although they don't repeal any of it and proudly proclaim their loberal objectives—at least once every four years.

During these years of the 20's and early '30s, a new and vigorous Democratic party had found a new meaning, a new purpose and a new usefulness in the nation's despair under the leadership of Franklin Roosevelt.

Once more the people needed the people's party.

All political organizations remain a product of their past. The Democratic party remains the party of the people. If there is one thing which, more than anything else, distinguishes us from our opponents it is this: "We trust the people."

The Republican party has remained the party of those with a primary interest in money and profit. It remains the party of the rich and powerful. And today, as thirty years ago, the Republican party still bears the lingering heritage of its historic isolationism and irresponsibility in foreign affairs.

I deeply regret this irresponsibility where foreign policy is concerned. In the last four years we have paid a heavy price in world influence for the appeasement by the Eisenhower Administration of the Old Guard Republicans.

Representative of Wealth.

But, in domestic affairs, I see no reason for protest against the Republican party's representation of wealth, power and bigness. In our two-party system the honest representation of these important, albeit limited interests is the historic task of the Republican party.

We heard Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay say early in 1953, that "we are here in the saddle as an administration representing business and industry."

We heard Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson say, "What's good for General Motors is good for the country."

But these were authentic voices of honest Republicanism. Yet Secretary Wilson was told he would have to stop talking and Secretary McKay was given even worse punishment—he was shipped back to Oregon to run against Senator Wayne Morse—a Republican who couldn't stand it any longer and had the courage in 1952 to follow his conscience out of this Republican party. And 1952, I remind you, was a doubtful year for Democrats at best!

President Eisenhower's cabinet reflects the true spirit of the Republican party. The qualifications were not past public service. The criterion was financial success. He chose a cabinet of business managers and millionaires. I have said that the party of Lincoln has become the party of Cadillac, but this is exactly the kind of cabinet we should expect and should have in a Republican Administration.

When a Republican Administration forthrightly represents the special interests of the rich and powerful, well I see every reason for opposing that representation—but none for complaining about it.

What I do protest, however, is the election year pretense of being something else, this cry from the chicken coop that there's nobody here but us chickens. Honest representation of a single interest is one thing—but G.O.P. leap year liberalism is a fraud.

Ours, I repeat, is the party of the people. I need only remind you here in San Francisco bay how quickly Joe Smith discovered where he didn't belong!

The first difference between Republicans and Democrats then is that we trust the people.

The second grows directly out of the first. We take the people's needs for our own. And we insist on doing what needs doing in meeting people's problems.

In spite of the President's bold claim the other night of "four years of clear accomplishments," the inventory of action is very meagre. It reminds me of what Woodrow Wilson—I believe it was—said of a previous Republican Administration—"never was nothing done as systematically as nothing is being done now."

On farm prices, and social security, the problems of the old, the problems of small business, urban redevelopment, resource development, atomic energy development, and—most of all—the peace and security of our country and our civilization, the Eisenhower Administration has said much and done little.

Salk Vaccine Distribution.

I was reminded the other day of Salk vaccine as an illustration of what I'm saying. I believe Democrats would have eagerly tackled the job of ridding every American family of the fear of infantile paralysis. We would, I suspect, even be boasting about it now. But the Eisenhower Administration tried only to explain why it did nothing, and the Secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare even said that no one "could have foreseen" the demand for the vaccine!

No one, we are told, has had such total popularity as our President in these past four years. And certainly no Administration has ever enjoyed such immunity from criticism as this one.

And what use has been made of these great assets of leadership?

Has there been a single new idea at home or abroad? Don't say atoms-for-peace, or open sky inspection, or flexible price supports—all of which were Democratic proposals long ago.

Has there been a strong stand on a single difficult issue?

Has there been strong presidential influence for a major reform?

Has there ever been a major informative address to the American people in the past year and a half?

I say the unforgiving minutes are running out here at home and all across the worried world.

I say that what we don't do now will be more costly next year; perhaps impossible in ten years.

But if the Administration has been languid in the people's service, it has fought hard for the Dixon-Yates contract, for tax reductions on the well-to-do, against public power development and real relief for the farmer, etc.

It has fought hard wherever the issue has been, not people, but profit.

This brings me to the third of the things which distinguish the Republican party from the Democratic party—the Republican salesmanship, hucksterism, and merchandising of their record. And you know why—when the package is empty, the label has to be good.

We have had some fine example of this these past four years—and now in this election.

The Republicans don't say they have "lowered" farm prices. They have just made them "flexible."

The Republican tax bill was not designed to reduce taxes for the well-to-do. They tell us it was to "revive business incentives."

When an Eisenhower cabinet officer is found using public office for private business, he isn't charged with wrongdoing, but "poor judgment."

They talk about being "liberal in human affairs and conservative in economic affairs"—but the record is pennywise and people foolish.

And then they just can't make up their minds at all about public policy, they call their inaction "dynamic conservatism."

And when we lose ground abroad, we are assured that all is well, the Communists are on the run and our brinkmanship is brilliant. I sometimes think that the most massive retaliation we have to worry about is verbal and the target is us!

I don't think the American people like this deception. I don't think they like to be told by Mr. Dulles and President Eisenhower that American prestige "has never been higher," when it is manifestly untrue.

The chief Washington correspondent of the New York Times observed last year that, under the Eisenhower Administration there was: "A growing tendency to manage the news."

'Managing The News.'

Sigma Delta Chi, the professional fraternity concluded that "there has developed today the worst abridgment of the American's right to know about the Federal Government in the 168 years of the American experiment with freedom."

And so I say these are the differences between the parties and the really basic issues in this election.

We Democrats are the party of the people, and we trust the people to know and to decide.

These things are clearer now than they were four years ago.

We have had enough of inaction and self advertising.

We Americans are called to great tasks, both at home and abroad.

We Democrats welcome these tasks.

We welcome the challenge to clear slums and build our people houses.

We welcome the chance to build schools worthy of the citizens of tomorrow.

We welcome the chance to enlarge the opportunities, the equalities and the dignitaries that are the right of all Americans, regardless of race or color.

We look forward to better health for all.

We look forward to providing a better life for our older citizens.

We look forward to the struggle for a rightful position for the farmer and the small business man.

We are prepared to face the overriding challenge of the world about us—and the winning of friends for freedom, justice and peace.

These challenges — the challenges of justice, of equality and of peace — can be met. They can be met with firm leadership. They can be met by a party with a heart as well as a head, a party that cares about people. They can be met by men and women who do not fear new ideas and new solutions.

We have had enough of complacency and stagnation. The time has come to resume our onward march toward a new America.

LABOR OPPOSITION TO JUDGES ASSAILED

Jacob Lashly Calls Union Stand Attack on Non-Partisan Court Plan.

Action by some Missouri labor groups in opposing retention in office of three state Supreme Court justices appears to be an attack "pointed at" the state's nonpartisan court plan, Jacob M. Lashly, St. Louis attorney and former president of the American Bar Association, said today.

Lashly, addressing a regional meeting of the Association at Baltimore, asserted the reason advanced for opposition to the judges "is that in their judicial work they have not shown themselves to be friends of labor."

Pointing out that the Missouri Bar, through a poll of attorneys throughout the state, had voted overwhelmingly in favor of retaining the three judges in office, Lashly said in reference to the union leaders' opposition:

"This attack appears to be pointed at the court plan which is designed to select able and conscientious judges and permit them to do their work free from political persuasion or intimidation.

"Long years of experience have demonstrated that the conscience of the court must not be constrained or stultified by extraneous interference, of any kind.

"Under our constitutional plan the judges are not permitted to defend themselves when assailed, and thus it becomes the duty of the organized bar to assert its leadership on behalf of the system which has proven so effective in the administration of justice in our state.

"This the Missouri Bar is proceeding to do by every fair means at its command."

Lashly emphasized the Bar does "not question the right of a labor union representing workers or a chamber of commerce, on behalf of industry and business—or any other group or person—to criticize the opinions and judgments of the courts."

That is a prerogative, he said, that is given under the Constitution to the "public generally," not only to the losing party in a case before the court.

The three judges whose names will appear on the ballot in the Nov. 6 election to determine if they should be retained in office are Henry J. Westhues, Clem F. Storckman and Henry I. Eager. The Teamsters Union and Central Trades and Labor Union, representing 125,000 union workers in the St. Louis area, has announced its opposition to them.

Something new under the sun! This is an experimental Bell Solar Battery installation at Americus, Georgia—where, for the first time, the sun is furnishing power directly to a telephone line.

New idea! Sun power for your telephone calls

by Don Davis, Telephone News Reporter

DON DAVIS

Remember how you used to flash messages with a mirror on a bright, sunny day? Or burn holes in dry leaves? Well, you were using "sun power." A simple form of it, yes—but it was still power converted from the greatest source of energy man has ever known—the sun.

For centuries, men have been intrigued with the idea of capturing and storing up Old Sol's limitless energy. But up until just recently, no one had found a practical way to do it.

Now telephone scientists have come up with the first workable device to do the job. It's called the Bell Solar Battery. Not since the birth of atomic power has any discovery promised more benefits. Certainly, no other form of power starts with greater natural advantages. Sunshine is super-plentiful and it doesn't cost a dime.

LOOKS ARE DECEIVING

The Bell Solar Battery isn't nearly as awe-inspiring in its appearance as it is in its potential. It looks like a square tray full of small disks, each about the size of a quarter.

The heart of the Bell Solar Battery is sand — common, ordinary sand. From sand, specially prepared silicon disks are produced (and this is where it took years of hard work and a lot of know-how) which are capable of converting sunlight directly into electrical power.

NOW BEING TESTED

How will this remarkable invention affect your telephone service? And how soon? It's still too early to say exactly. Right now, some of the answers are being worked out in the town of Americus, Georgia, where an experimental installation of Bell Solar Batteries is supplying power to amplifier stations on rural telephone lines. And doing it very well, it might be added.

Simple in appearance, this Solar Battery is made up of 432 wafer-thin silicon disks electrically linked together. There are no moving parts to wear out nor any corrosive chemicals.

OUT OF THIS WORLD

Like many telephone inventions, solar batteries will have uses in other fields. Indications are that they can be used as a power supply for low-power portable radios and similar equipment. And like so many other telephone inventions, the Bell Solar Battery is dramatic proof of the lengths to which telephone scientists will go to find new ways of improving what is already said to be the finest telephone service in the world.

This time, they've even brought the sun into the act.

because Libby's are so much SMOOTHER!

EVEN DAD finds the going a lot easier when he feeds baby the baby foods that go down smooth—Libby's Baby Foods. You see, coarse fibers and tiny lumps annoy babies . . . and they're likely to resist their food. But when you feed them Libby's you can be sure their food is smooth as can be. For instance, Libby's Carrots are three times smoother than any other brand. That's because only Libby's Baby Foods are strained and then homogenized. This extra smoothness makes the transition from liquid formulas to solid foods easier for baby. So don't take a chance on making a little problem-eater of your Jimmy or Susie or Kate. Today Newsweek launches a significant new development in the field of business and economic research:

THE NEWSWEEK CONTINUING STUDY OF CAPITAL APPROPRIATIONS

Conducted among the 1,000 Largest Manufacturing Industries by the NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE BOARD

FOR TWO YEARS straight, capital-spending has been driving the nation's economy to record highs . . . but can it keep up the pace?

On the answers depend the big decisions of consumers—whether to take that trip or wait till next year; whether to buy that new car or make do with the old; whether to build that house in the suburbs, or stay in town.

On the answers, just as surely, depend the big decisions of industry—whether to make that new product, or build that new plant, or buy that new division.

Today NEWSWEEK and the NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE BOARD, the nation's leading fact-finding organization for industry, launch a new statistical service designed as a barometer of future business rather than a thermometer of today's business conditions.

The new quarterly Study of Capital Appropriations among the country's 1,000 largest manufacturing companies is a pioneering series of reports on how much money the vital manufacturing industry has actually and formally decided to spend in the future on plant and equipment . . . how much it already has spent, how much it has cancelled, how much still remains to be spent. The study differs significantly from studies by the government and other organizations which are based on individual judgments rather than on corporate records.

Armed with such information, economists will be able to make more accurate estimates of general business trends, capital-goods producers will have a better idea of the kind of orders they can expect, the financial community will have another clue on how much new money industry will need, and investors can learn how highly individual industries rate their chances of keeping pace with the growing economy.

This unparalleled new service, conducted under the financial sponsorship of Newsweek, is the latest of many significant Newsweek contributions to the fund of business knowledge . . . contributions which have brought Newsweek to the outfront position among weekly news and business magazines as the medium for inter-business communication at the executive level.

N. O. NELSON CO. LOAN PAYMENTS BLOCKED

Referee Orders No More Remittances on $3,600,000 Obligation.

An order directing Elliot H. Stein, temporary receiver of N. O. Nelson Co., to make no further payments on a $3,600,000 loan from a Chicago firm was issued today by Referee in Bankruptcy William O'Herin.

In granting a petition by Stein to allow use of the firm's accounts receivable for operating expenses, Referee O'Herin noted that otherwise the Nelson firm "will be forced to discontinue business."

Yesterday in another phase of the tangled history of the St. Louis plumbing supply firm, which he said had been "looted," Referee O'Herin ordered the removal of Keith Munroe as president of Nelson Co., E. N. Noel as treasurer and named William Charles, St. Louis civic leader, president of the concern.

Today's order also enjoined Walter E. Heller Co. of Chicago from attempting to collect on the outstanding balance of the loan under a "purported lien" on Nelson's accounts receivable. Stein's petition alleged that collections from accounts receivable were going to the Heller firm as payments on the loan.

Munroe testified today he had warned that the Nelson firm "could not exist" under the burden of the loan and its interest rate of 12 per cent. His warning was given to Bellanca Corp. shortly after it acquired control of Nelson last August, he said.

Munroe testified that to secure the loan from Heller, which now has been reduced to $1,300,000, liens and mortgages were placed against Nelson assets valued at $5,441,000.

The former company official related that a dividend of $33 per share of common stock, declared by the Nelson board of directors last spring, never was paid to stockholders. Testimony in previous phases of the firm's tangled affairs has brought out that $3,400,000 of the dividend was credited to Bellanca, which owned 97.8 per cent of Nelson common stock, to offset most of the loan Bellanca had obtained from Nelson.

FCC PROPOSES SHIFT OF TV CHANNEL HERE

Would Transfer Channel 36 to Illinois, Give New Position to KTVI.

The Federal Communications Commission in Washington yesterday proposed shifting Television Station KTVI's ultra high frequency channel 36 to Springfield, Ill., and switching KTVI to another channel. Interested parties were asked to make known their stands on the proposal before Nov. 15.

Under the plan, Springfield would become an all-UHF television city. The FCC has also proposed assigning Channel 39 to Springfield and shifting Springfield's very high frequency Channel 2 to St. Louis.

The commission noted that Station KTVI, operated by Signal Hill Telecasting Corp., is now picked up by many receivers between St. Louis and Springfield and would have to change to another channel if the proposal is made final. Just which channel this would be was left open.

Harry Tenenbaum and Paul Peltason, co-owners of the Signal Hill concern, declared they felt the plan was distinctly in the public interest, saying that the change would make St. Louis an all VHF city in television, obviating the need for converters here.

Asked whether he felt the commission would assign Channel 2 to KTVI, Tenenbaum said, "We have given the people of the St. Louis area continuous television service for three and a half years and we feel sure the commission will give that fact proper consideration."

In a prepared statement on the proposal, Peltason and Tenenbaum said:

"These proposed channel changes are part of an over-all plan instituted by the commission last July 25, in an effort to bring about a better and more competitive system.

"This rule-making procedure, if adopted, would shift allocations so that St. Louis would have an all-VHF television service and central Illinois would have an all-UHF, or a predominantly UHF, service.

"The proposed channel shifts are being suggested primarily to preserve existing UHF operations in Springfield, but the allocation of Channel 2 to St. Louis would provide this market area with a fourth VHF station."

Other shifts suggested under the new proposal would substitute Channel 49 for 29 at Jacksonville, Ill., and Channel 68 for 36 in the Davenport-Rock Island-Moline area in Illinois. The idea of assigning Channel 39 to Springfield would be dropped.

ST. LOUIS STILL LARGEST INLAND PORT IN TONNAGE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEMPHIS, Oct. 12—St. Louis remains the largest inland port on the Mississippi river in the amount of tonnage handled each year, United States District Engineers here announced today.

River cargo handled in St. Louis last year totaled 6,810,940 tons, it was reported. Memphis was in second place with 4,005,544 tons.

New Orleans reported handling 47,000,000 tons and Baton Rouge, La., 16,500,000 tons, but both of these ports have direct ocean-going traffic in addition to inland freight operations."

BRITISH TO EASE RENT CURB

LLANDUDNO, Wales, Oct. 12 (UP) — Housing Minister Duncan Sandys said today the government plans to abolish Britain's rent restriction act which has controlled house rents since World War II.

He said new rent ceilings will be established which "should bear some reasonable relation to current values and maintenance costs."

FIRMS SELLING SERUM ACCUSED OF PRICE-FIXING

Charge Is Made in Stormy Session of House Inquiry Into Polio Vaccine.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP) —Representative Chet Holifield (Dem.), California, charged today that the drug firms which sold polio vaccine to the Government "engaged in collusive practices and in price-fixing."

Holifield made the accusation at a stormy House subcommittee hearing after Representative B. Carroll Reece (Rep.), Tennessee, unsuccessfully sought to have the hearings postponed until after the November election.

The Government Operations subcommittee, headed by Representative L. H. Fountain (Dem.), North Carolina, is investigating whether the Government was overcharged for vaccine bought under the $53,000,000 program to supply free shots for needy children.

During a heated 20-minute row, Reece made a motion to postpone the hearings and to charge all subcommittee expenses so far incurred to the Democratic National Committee. He was the only Republican present and sought to second his own motion "on behalf of the children of America."

Fountain ruled Reece's motion out of order. Holifield charged that Reece's motion was "a brazen attempt to inject politics into an investigation."

Holifield charged that the evidence uncovered by the subcommittee showed that "six pharmaceutical firms have engaged in collusive practices and in price-fixing."

He said that was "prima facie evidence that the Sherman anti-trust law has been violated."

The six firms which submitted bids on vaccine for the Government are Eli Lilly, Parke-Davis, Pittman-Moore, Sharp & Dohme, Wyeth Laboratories and Cutter Laboratories.

The subcommittee has disclosed that the firms submitted almost identical bids on three different occasions.

Holifield charged also that officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare failed to call the attention of the Department of Justice to what he said was a "collusive" series of bids.

He said also the department "approved certain patterns of trade distribution and pricing" which he said should be referred to the Federal Trade Commission for investigation.

Holifield said department officials had separate discussions with drug firm representatives as a "mechanical device to avoid the charge of conspiracy and violation of the anti-trust laws."

U.S. NOT NAMING LAWMAKERS WHO GOT FREE CRUISES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP) —The Government admitted today it picked up the tab for free Caribbean cruises last year by about 90 members of congressional parties.

It was not ready yet to name them despite President Eisenhower's assertion yesterday that he saw no reason to conceal the passenger lists.

Some of the junketing House and Senate members, staff aids and dependents presumably mixed work with pleasure on the 15-day tours aboard Panama Line ships to Haiti, Panama and back.

An official audit showed only that the publicly-owned Panama Canal Co. picked up a $22,154 check for congressional travel aboard the line's three luxury cruisers in the 12 months ending last June 30.

An earlier General Accounting Office report covering the Panama Canal Co.'s operations in fiscal 1953 noted that the line issued "free passes" for travel worth $64,000.

The company's board of directors will meet here tomorrow and will consider whether to reverse its long-standing policy against all public disclosure on free congressional travel.

TV HELPS CHICKEN BUSINESS

FORT WORTH, Tex. Oct. 12 (AP)—J. O. Kumpe, Bentonville, Ark., yesterday credited television with an increase in chicken consumption.

He said a main reason for the increase is the frozen, prepared dinners which housewives sometimes serve so they can catch their favorite early evening TV programs. Many of these dinners have chicken as a main course. Kumpe is president of a group of poultry and egg dealers.

"All of a sudden, I see Avis Rent-a-Car wherever I go"

21 months ago there were only 330 Avis offices. This week we have opened our 1000th station in Evansville, Ind.

"All of a sudden, I see Avis Rent-a-Car wherever I go," a businessman wrote us. "Airports, railroad stations, hotels! These offices weren't there a year or so ago. Where did they come from all of a sudden?"

Fresh new ideas have been responsible for the growth of this world-wide system that includes 650 American cities. Brand-new rental car services like these met with immediate response from the traveling public.

"RENT IT HERE—LEAVE IT THERE" SERVICE

For the first time you can rent an Avis car anywhere in the nation and leave it at any other Avis office for a modest return charge. An Avis exclusive.

AVIS FLY & DRIVE TICKET

Now you can buy an Avis Fly & Drive Ticket for $10 along with your air reservation from the nation's 22 leading airlines. Automatically, a fine new car is reserved at your destination—to use for a full day, drive at least 50 miles without paying another cent. Avis has offices at 251 airports.

AVIS SPECIAL HOTEL SERVICE

Avis is the official car rental system for all Hilton, Statler, Sheraton, Fields, Myer and Manger hotels, as well as 45 independent hotels. At these hotels, you can reserve an Avis car when you make your hotel reservation.

These are some of the reasons for Avis' growth. New ideas . . . plus the assurance you always get a car you are proud to drive—new, spotlessly clean, properly serviced.

HIGHER STOCK CLOSE ON LIGHT TURNOVER

Columbus Day Holiday Prompts Many Traders to Make It a 3-Day Weekend.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—The stock market staged a moderate advance in slow trading today.

Leading issues rose from fractions to a point or so. A few specialties raced well beyond this. There was a liberal array of losers.

The market was mixed in early trading. By afternoon it had pushed ahead slightly on average. Thenceforth there was a gradual improvement in prices which were about at their best at the close.

Turnover was very light and was cut down by the Columbus day observance. Banks were closed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $1 to $180 with the industrials up $1.40, the rails up $1,10 and the utilities up 30 cents.

Of 1056 issues traded advances outnumbered declines by 493 to 307. There were 22 new highs for the year and 24 new lows.

(Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 490.19 up 2.13 points the 20 rail 160.79 up 1.47 and the 15 utilities 66.49 up .02.)

Great Northern Railway skipped ahead around 3 points at one time as its dividend was raised. American Hawaiian Steamship added around 7 points at one time to its rise of 4 yesterday.

oBeing, Douglas and United Aircraft gained fractions and Anaconda and Kennecott Copper made similar advances at times.

UNCERTAINTY AT LONDON

LONDON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Uncertainty prevailed in the London stock market today in the face of lack of progress in the Suez canal talks and the absence of other incentives.

British Government bonds, however, remained firm with small gains scored in a mild response to the early closing of the London County Council £15,000,000 5½ per cent stock issue list.

Oil shares were unsettled and mostly lower where changed. Industrials were irregular but a better tone was seen for some of the leading issues, notably Imperial Chemicals, Dunlops, Borax deferred and International Nickels.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 12 (AP) Cotton futures moved over a narrow range here today. Evening-up operations for the week-end and last October notice day, Monday, dominated the trading.

Closing prices were steady, 95 cents a bale lower to 15 cents higher.

Trading was generally quiet. No October notices were issued, but that month declined under long liquidation by holders that were jittery due to reports that the big spot house that has been supporting that month had liquidated its position.

Distant months remained steady at small advances throughout the session. A small amount of buying being induced by expectations the soil bank program would be a dominating factor next season.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 12 (AP)—New Orleans cotton market:

HOW FALL BUSINESS IS FARING

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP).

NOW that the World Series is settled the country can take stock of how fall business is faring and where it's headed.

Sam Dawson

1. For the first time ever the average hourly pay of factory workers has risen above the $2 mark.

2. The number of those out of work is the lowest in nearly three years.

3. Sales of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers continue to rise and in August were $1,500,000,000 above last year's mark.

4. Farm surpluses are shrinking a little as exports top last year's totals by a good margin.

5. Interest rates continue to rise and are at the highest level since 1932—but confident business men borrow more all the time.

6. And the some confident merchants and manufacturers continue to pile up inventories for the twentieth straight month.

BUSINESS MEN REPORT THAT RISING PRICES on finished goods so far haven't met with much sales resistance. Retail trade is running above last year and appears headed for its biggest Christmas. With unemployment below 2,000,000 for the first time since November 1953, and with the total of wages and salaries well above a year ago, merchants in most sections of the land are in a confident mood. Non-agricultural employment is at a record 52,100,000. Average weekly earnings of factory workers climbed to a record $81 in September. New wage boosts and longer work weeks are expected to bring it even higher as the fall boom continues.

TOTAL BUSINESS SALES IN AUGUST reached $55,100,000,000, $1,500,000,000 more than in August 1955, the Department of Commerce reports. But business inventories also rose by $300,000,000 in August to total nearly $85,500,000,000. In the first seven months of the year the monthly gain averaged $300,000,000. Rising inventories bespeak business confidence. But they also worry those economists who fear that the huge pile of goods and materials may become a weak spot if the pace of retail trade should falter.

TIGHT MONEY ALSO WORRIES THOSE who fear it may discourage further business expansion plans, just as it is accused of holding down the number of new homes being built this year. Interest rates inched higher while most folk were noting only the ball scores. The United States Treasury one day paid more than 3 per cent on its 91-day bills. You have to go back to the bank holiday of 1933 to find a higher rate. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reports that in September business borrowers paid an average of 4.14 per cent interest on short-term loans from New York banks. This was the highest average since August 1932. Back in the 1920s, however, they paid as much as 6 and 7 per cent. But the rising rate this fall isn't discouraging borrowing. New York bank loans are at a record volume.

NIXON ACCUSES DEMOCRATS OF 'A CRUEL HOAX'

Rakes 'Get-Rich-Quick Promises' to Farmers in Speech at Columbus, Nebr.

COLUMBUS, Nebr., Oct. 12 (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon accused Democrats today of "a cruel hoax" to snare the farm vote.

The high rigid price support policies they advocate, Nixon said in a talk prepared for the national mechanical corn picking contest, would slam a lid on what he termed "the upward trend in farm income."

To farmers, considered by both parties to be restive this election year, Nixon said:

"The get-rich-quick promises that our opponents have made . . . are just as impossible to keep with the type of program they advocate as would be their promise to guarantee rain in the drouth-stricken areas."

Pleads for Support.

Nixon urged farmers to put their faith in the Administration program that includes flexible price supports, a soil bank plan under which farmers can qualify for benefits by taking some land out of production, and efforts to increase markets for farm products.

This program, Nixon said, "is working and will continue to work because its cuts right to the heart of the problem."

Nixon's talk on the farm issue followed by a day his retort to Democratic candidate Adlai Stevenson's charge the Republican Administration has shown indifference to the interests of labor, the unemployed and other segments of society.

The Vice President stepped up his campaign pace with a speech at Boulder, Colo., last night in which he described Stevenson's proposals for the economic future as "Alice in Wonderland" economics, "a costly grab-bag of government goodies" that would cost 15 to 20 billion dollars annually, raising the average family's taxes $320 a year if the budget were to be balanced.

'Reactionary' Policy.

He said Stevenson's economic policy is "reactionary," and would revert to measures "which in 20 years were never able to produce prosperity except in war."

President Eisenhower's program, he said, has made the last three and a half years "the best in our lives."

Nixon took a similar line on farm problems today, saying: "All that the opposition offers is a return to a program which was one of the major causes of the surpluses that have depressed farm prices. This program produced high farm income only in wartime."

He said that the Democrats only warmed over "bankrupt schemes" that would mean "strict controls over farmers."

Nixon said he does not expect the American people to agree with what he termed complaints by "some of our opponents" that "the President's new drouth aid program is politics."

Nixon said, $550,000,000 since 1953 have been dispersed and I can assure you we are not putting a price tag on what we will do to help those who are suffering through no fault of their own."

Ex-Convict Kills 16 Persons.

MANILA, Oct. 12 (UP)—An ex-convict ran amok and killed 16 persons in the village of San Nicholas in Roxas, Palawan, central Philippines, it was reported today.

KEFAUVER SAYS FARMERS HAVE BEEN BETRAYED

Accuses Eisenhower of Breach of Faith in Scheduled Speech at Nebraska Event.

COLUMBUS, Nebr., Oct. 12 (UP)—Senator Estes Kefauver today accused President Eisenhower of betraying the American farmer, in a speech prepared for delivery at the national corn picking contest.

The Democratic vice presidential nominee was scheduled to speak less than three hours after Vice President Richard M. Nixon addressed the same farm gathering.

Kefauver quoted the speech of Mr. Eisenhower at Kasson, Minn., in 1952. The speech, Kefauver said, put Mr. Eisenhower on record in favor of the Democratic-sponsored program of price supports at 90 per cent of parity.

"How many times does a man break faith with you and still retain your trust and confidence?" Kefauver asked.

The President, Kefauver said, set his seal on a breach of faith with the American farmer," when he vetoed the Democratic-sponsored farm bill in the last Congress. The bill did "nothing more" than carry out Mr. Eisenhower's 1952 campaign promises," Kefauver said.

The Senator said he was "glad" the farm audience had a chance to hear the Vice President.

He said Nixon, as a House member, voted against soil conservation and rural electrification. As Vice President, the Senator said, Nixon cast one of two tie-breaking votes against fixed price supports at 90 per cent of parity for wheat farmers.

"He is not a friend of the American farmer," Kefauver said.

The Senator said the Eisenhower Administration did a "wicked thing" in trying to create the impression that farmers "want to be pampered." He said the Administration has tried to "set city people against farm people . . . the farmer against labor."

Kefauver also jabbed at Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. He said Benson has a key role in the forthcoming referendum on curtailing corn production.

"You can vote to let Ezra Taft Benson set the support price of corn wherever he wants it or you can vote for supports —which Mr. Benson would probably set at 75 per cent—along with drastic corn acreage allotments," Kefauver said.

"In other words, you have a choice of slashing your own throat or letting Mr. Benson do it," he said.

Kefauver had a recurrence of his sore throat trouble today and delayed his departure from Des Moines, Ia., for Lincoln, Nebr., about two hours so that he could see a doctor. His aids said however, that they believed he would be able to go ahead with his major speaking date at the corn picking contest. His aids said that despite the delay, he would be able to reach Columbus in plenty of time.

RISK is a dangerous word

Yes, it is.

But if you have money, just try to escape it.

Even if you bury the money in your own back yard, you've still got a risk—the risk that your money won't buy as much if prices continue to rise.

And that risk is dangerous. Because it's hard to see, easy to ignore.

To minimize that risk, a good many people today are putting their money into common stocks.

Of course, there's a risk in owning stocks. Bonds too, for that matter. But the risk in owning securities is a risk you can see—one you can measure from day to day. And a risk you can measure is a risk you can control.

For example, suppose you had some extra money—maybe $1,000—that you wanted to invest. You think you'd be satisfied with a return of maybe 4% or so, but at the same time you'd like to feel that your money would be right where you wanted it whenever you needed it.

In that case, you might buy a high-grade bond. That is, you might lend your money to some company like Minneapolis-Honeywell, or Procter & Gamble, or Pacific Telephone & Telegraph. They'd promise to repay your $1,000 on a certain date and pay you $38 or $43 interest each year in the meantime.

Of course, you could sell your bond any time you wanted to, and since bonds like these rarely vary more than a few dollars a year in price, you'd certainly feel that your money was safe.

Or you might decide that you'd like to earn a little better return on your $1,000—say, 4½% or 5%—without too much risk to your capital.

You'd still want conservative securities, so you'd probably consider cumulative preferred stocks.

But when you buy common stocks, you buy an actual ownership interest in the company concerned . . . get an owner's share of any profits the company may distribute as dividends.

"Preferred" stockholders are always assured of preferred treatment, and that means they get first call on dividends —ahead of common stockholders. "Cumulative" means that if a company can't pay its preferred dividend in a certain year, that dividend automatically carries over.

That's why you'd expect the prices of good preferred stocks to be relatively stable—and they are.

A high-grade cumulative preferred like Consolidated Edison, for instance, which currently pays about $47 a year on a $1,000 investment, ranged in price last year between $108 a share and $111.75 a share. While a medium-grade one like Tennessee Gas Transmission currently pays about $54 on $1,000 and ranged last year between $100.50 and $105.25 a share.

Next on our "risk scale" might come common stocks. Now, there are literally thousands of these to select from; so, it's hard to talk about them in general terms. Some may return 10% on your money; some 1%. Some have never paid a dividend; some have never missed one.

Just to give you an idea though. Last year 1,076 common stock issues were bought and sold on the New York Stock Exchange. Of these, 982 paid dividends, and the dividends averaged 4.6% of their year-end prices; some 500 of them have paid dividends every year for at least 20 years.

So, even when it comes to common stocks, you have a lot to say about how much risk you want to take. You might want to hold that risk to a minimum, so you'd pick some leader in a stable field. Some company with a solid record of sales, earnings, and dividends, perhaps a company like Pacific Lighting that has paid dividends for 48 years. A stock like this should return you $55 or so on a $1,000 investment, and during all of last year it fluctuated only between $37.25 and $42 a share in price.

Or, you might increase your risk slightly to get a return of $60 or more on your $1,000 and invest in some company like United Fruit. Here, the earnings and dividends can fluctuate over a wider range. But United Fruit has paid dividends for the past 58 years, is in a strong financial position, and last year its price varied only between $51.12 a share and $60.

Then there are companies like Borg-Warner. A representative company with an excellent record in several lines of business that are highly competitive . . . where revenues and profits depend on many variables.

Such a company pays liberal dividends during good years but may be forced to reduce them in bad. Right now, for instance, Borg-Warner should return over 5% on your money, but its price might fluctuate 25% or more after you buy.

And finally, like a great many people, you might decide to buy for price appreciation rather than dividends. You would look for some well-managed company that hadn't begun to develop its full potential . . . one that looked like a real bargain at present prices, because over a period of time you might double or triple your original investment.

Here, obviously, the risks to your $1,000 are greatest. Such stocks vary widely in price, and like Radio Corporation of America last year, can swing between a high of $55.38 a share and a low of $36.75. Depending on what price you paid for this stock, of course, that swing could have meant either a sizable gain, or a sizable loss. That's why when you buy is always important too. The present business outlook, world situation in general, and overall level of prices for any particular kind of security can all influence the relative risks involved when you buy one class of securities instead of another.

Now this isn't the full story on the risks and rewards of investing, of course. That would take a book. But we don't think we've minimized the risk or overstated the rewards.

Just which securities you buy, of course, just which are the best available for the rewards you seek, will always depend on just one thing—facts. Fresh facts about a company's sales and earnings, about its policies and management, about its competition, outlook, and a dozen other factors.

Keeping abreast of those facts on hundreds of companies in dozens of industries is a big part of our business.

So, if you'd like to know what we know about a particular stock or company—or if you would like us to suggest investments for your extra money, whether it's $500, $5,000, or $50,000, just ask. There's no charge, no obligation, whether you're a customer or not. Simply address—

WILLED $200,000 BY BOSS, WOMAN STAYS ON THE JOB

DETROIT, Oct. 12 (UP) — Helen M. Eaton, who has been left a $200,000 fortune by her late employer, still is working because "there is so much to be done."

Miss Eaton, who served as Charles A. Bray's secretary for 19 years, was willed the money by Bray who died Sept. 12.

She said the bequest came as a "complete surprise" but meant little because "I have lost a friend and nothing can compensate for that."

She still is working at Bray's office because "so much has to be done and the money isn't going to change things a bit."

VIOLATES GARDEN RULES BUT GROWS PRIZE FLOWERS

MADISON, Wis. Oct. 12 (UP)—Nobody around here will ever tell Stan Bokelmann he doesn't have a "green thumb."

Cannas and dahlias are among the flowers that grow from bulbs instead of seeds. They are sensitive to cold weather and have to be dug up in the fall and replanted in the spring to keep them from freezing.

Bokelmann didn't dig up his bulbs last fall and didn't expect any cannas or dahlias this year, but the heat from his outside chimney was enough to keep the bulbs warm. So the cannas came up five feet high and the dahlias four feet.

Rightist Movement for Andrews Puts Virginia in Delicate Balance But Stevenson Apparently Leads

Third-Party Activity Centers in Richmond — Word From Byrd Might Well Turn State One Way or Another — He Is Under Pressure.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 12.

A SUBTLE AND complicated struggle for Virginia is unfolding in the atmosphere of outward unconcern but inner passion that characterizes this state.

In the contest for the Old Dominion's 12 electoral votes—perhaps the closest contest in years—Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic nominee for President, seems to have a slight edge at this moment.

But there is more here than the mere question of whether President Eisenhower will carry Virginia for the second time or whether the state will return to its traditional Democratic alignment.

At issue also is a test, perhaps a decisive test, of the ultimate power of the far right-wing third-party movement of the South represented by the presidential candidacy of T. Coleman Andrews, a States' Rights Democrat who served in the Eisenhower Administration.

Involved, too, is a crisis for Virginia's powerful Democratic patriarch, Senator Harry Flood Byrd.

Byrd, one of the most influential and respected leaders of ultra-conservative thought in the United States, had much to do with causing Virginia and three other southern states to bolt the Stevenson ticket in 1952. The other states were Texas, Tennessee and Florida.

Suspended in Balance.

Tennessee now seems clearly ready to return to the Democratic side. Virginia is suspended in delicate balance—a balance that Senator Byrd with a single sentence might well turn one way or another.

Although he has taken a sharp thrust at the Republican party's stand on civil rights—a stand more liberal than that of the Democrats—the Senator at the moment is preserving an enigmatic silence as to his intentions.

If he comes out even mildly for the Stevenson ticket, after having rejected it four years ago, a Democratic victory in this state will be the odds-on probability.

If he does not, he will undoubtedly endanger future Democratic control over the Virginia statehouse. And, in such an event, he would greatly enhance President Eisenhower's chances of carrying the state.

All this has been rather well established by a New York Times survey of Virginia. Here, as elsewhere, times reporters have talked to many people, but grass-roots opinion in Virginia is not so meaningful as elsewhere.

Hierarchial Power.

This is not a "boss state" but it is a state of hierarchial power. That power resides primarily in Senator Byrd, but is now being challenged from several quarters.

All has been made more complex by the fact that the race issue is so acute here. Virginia can be described without exaggeration as caught in an agonizing inner debate.

The Legislature has passed a "package" of legislation that amounts to a declaration of policy to close the public schools rather than permit the integration of white and Negro schools.

Senator Byrd and an overwhelming majority of the regular Democrats of the state have backed this course.

Now however, into this fertile field Andrews, the former federal Commissioner of Internal Revenue, has brought his third party, his hope is that here and elsewhere he may gather enough votes to deny either President Eisenhower or Stevenson a majority. He would thus throw the election into the United States House of Representatives for decision there.

It is agreed on almost every hand that normally Andrews's efforts would amount to little. Virginia, however, is not in a normal state of mind.

Eyes on Richmond.

All over the Deep South the acute politicians are watching Richmond, as the headquarters and the intellectual center of the Andrews movement. If it appears to go here, it almost certainly will gain momentum elsewhere.

The movement, among other things, demands local control of school problems and the adoption of constitutional limitations of the treaty-making power of the President (embodied in the so-called Bricker amendment, opposed by President Eisenhower and defeated in Congress).

Andrews's forces are holding a "national" convention in Richmond Oct. 15, and they expect to put his name on the ballot in 14 states.

In present circumstances inquiries by members of the New York Times team in every main section of Virginia have indicated that, on balance, the third party will injure President Eisenhower more than Stevenson.

However, in one section—the "southside," with its heavy Negro population — some harm may be done to the Stevenson candidacy among white voters.

Byrd Under Pressure.

Senator Byrd's statement, when it comes, will advance or strongly retard the third party. In the meantime, Byrd is under heavy pressure—actual or implicit—from his Democratic organization associates to return to the regular Democratic affiliation.

These associates, for the most part, are already in the field for the Stevenson ticket, not gladly in many cases, but stoically.

They fear that unless the Democrats win Virginia from top to bottom, they may well lose the governorship next year to the Republicans. A Republican candidate, State Senator Ted Dalton, ran uncomfortably well in 1953, polling about 45 per cent of the vote.

Senator Byrd, for his part, is in a dilemma. He is obviously troubled by what many conservative Virginians consider to be the increasingly liberal line of Stevenson on civil rights. On the other hand, the Senator feels a responsibility to his Democratic associates and a deep anxiety not to see Virginia go Republican at the statehouse and below. The belief among his friends is that in the end he probably will take some step amounting to an acceptance of the Stevenson ticket.

Personal Crisis.

Senator Byrd is facing a personal crisis as well. Mrs. Byrd lies gravely ill in the Senator's great country house, Rosemont, near Berryville.

Finally, Byrd and nearly all those of his generation in Virginia are fighting to hold onto a personal and a political way of life—characterized by the separation of the races—that is dying before their eyes.

An then, ironically, there is the fact that the most extreme leaders on the race issue have about them more than a touch of the outsider. Andrews, although a Virginian, is not of the aristocratic school. The chief journalistic spokesman of the far right-wing in general, J. J. Kilpatrick, a Richmond editor, is not a native at all but a transplanted Oklahoman.

There is essentially little feeling of sympathy between the Byrd traditionalists and the third-party people.

It is in all this maze of political and human values that the eventual strength of the third party movement now lies hidden. If it captures less than a tenth of Virginia's total vote, it is widely reckoned that the outcome will be Stevenson victory. If the movement should climb to, say, 20 per cent of the total it could cut deeply into Stevenson as well as Eisenhower strength. As of now, the States' Rights leaders are mainly those who voted for Gen. Eisenhower four years ago.

Truman Won With Minority.

In 1948 Strom Thurmond, the "Dixiecrat" third-party candidate, probably saved Virginia for President Harry S. Truman by splitting the conservative anti-Truman vote. Truman won with 47.9 per cent—a minority—of the total vote.

This year any bitter racial incident in this state, in combination with any hardening of Stevenson's civil rights position, might lead to an emotional stampede to the third party.

Segregation and the race question in general constitute the one great issue in this state. The farmers are not complaining nearly so much as in the Midwest, and there is no big unemployment problem.

Significant defections back to the Democrats among the "Eisenhower Democrats" of four years ago are turning up. There is within the Eisenhower forces far less of the crusading spirit than in 1952. Vice President Richard M. Nixon is unpopular. In a less intense way so is Senator Estes Kefauver, the Democratic vice-presidential candidate. The President's health is being rather widely discussed.

A Republican committeewoman in Norfolk, Mrs. Cynthia Zimmerman, remarks, "I'm scared. There has not been the interest and enthusiasm of four years ago."

A Portsmouth druggist who voted for Gen. Eisenhower in 1952: "I wouldn't vote for Ike with Nixon hanging on his tail. He may have had another heart attack while I'm talking to you."

Backing for Andrews.

As to Andrews, random conversations in the Virginia "southside" make it clear that he has a good deal of backing.

A business man: "I'm on the

Democrats Cutting Eisenhower's Lead in Southern California

Better Organization, Gains in Registration Boost Stevenson Hopes — Democrats Often Vote Republican There, However

By GOULD LINCOLN
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA and its huge population in Los Angeles county can, and probably will, settle the presidential race in this state between President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson. Indeed, this section of the state as a rule casts more than 60 per cent of California's total vote. And it is to Southern California that the Republicans have looked for victory.

Judging from all available tests of sentiment in this area now available, Mr. Eisenhower has the lead, but he may have trouble maintaining it until Nov. 6.

Paul Ziffren of Beverly Hills, Democratic national committeeman, put it this way today: "If we Democrats make the same kind of progress during the next three weeks that we have made in the last five weeks, we'll carry the state for Stevenson."

Two Encouraging Factors.

Two things particularly encourage Ziffren. First, the Democratic organization is really working effectively, he said. Second, the final registration figures for the coming election.

"During the last two years, since the 1954 campaign, the Democratic organization in California has been steadily building up," he commented. "And I make this prediction: No matter what happens on Nov. 6, the Democratic party will take over California in 1958, from Governor on down the line.

"The new registration figures, now complete, show that the Democrats not only have held their former 3 to 2 advantage over the Republicans, but they have increased that advantage. This means that we have done better than the Republicans in putting new voters on the rolls."

Ziffren admitted that the outcome of the election will depend upon some factors beyond the control of the Democrats. One of these is the kind of campaign that President Eisenhower and the Republicans put on in California — perhaps on whether the President comes here to campaign himself. Other such factors include the President's health, unfavorable economic changes in this country, and world events.

G.O.P. Chairman Confident.

Republican State Chairman Alphonzo E. Bell of Los Angeles expressed quiet confidence that Mr. Eisenhower would carry the state—because, he said, the voters like and have confidence in the President. He admitted the Republican campaign had been slow getting under way, but expressed confidence that it would be pressed now to a successful end.

Here is what the final registration figures show for the state and for Los Angeles county, as compared to the registration in 1952, the last presidential election. The total state registration today is 3,575,635 Democrats and 2,646,249 Republicans. Four years ago the Democrats numbered 3,312,668 and the Republicans 2,455,713. Today's is a record high for registration in the state.

In Los Angeles county, today's registration is 1,486,727 Democrats and 1,108,479 Republicans. Four years ago it was 1,362,104 Democrats and 1,033,222 Republicans.

The gain in the state for the Democrats was a slight increase in the 3-to-2 margin of Democratic strength over Republican. The Democratic strength increased over 1952 by 262,967, and the Republican, by 190,536. The Democrats have put 516,356 on the rolls since the June registration for the primary election, and the Republicans 369,803.

Democrats' Difficulty.

Any way you look at it, the Democrats have increased their party registration situation. Their difficulty, however, is to get people to vote as they are registered. Hundreds of thousands of registered Democrats have repeatedly voted for Republican candidates in recent years.

There is permanent registration in California, and thou-

Variety of Polls Give Advantage To Eisenhower

Many Indicate Smaller Margin Over Stevenson Than in 1952.

NEW YORK (AP).

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER is leading Adlai Stevenson in a wide variety of presidential polls, but often by a smaller margin than he did in 1952.

A compilation of polls shows that to be the general trend whether in nation-wide samplings by professional public opinion experts or in regional straw ballots. There were some exceptions, however.

In Vanderburgh county in Indiana, Mr. Eisenhower was reported to be polling 63.2 per cent compared with his actual vote of 58.5 per cent in the 1952 election.

But a poll as of Sept. 18 among farm people only by the Wallace's Farmer and Iowa Homestead, a weekly farm magazine, indicated the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket led the Eisenhower-Nixon slate 43 per cent to 35 per cent, with 22 per cent on the fence.

Reversal of 1952.

This was an overturn from September 1952, when the Wallace poll showed 53 per cent of the farm people favoring Mr. Eisenhower to 25 per cent for Stevenson, with 22 per cent undecided.

In some cases there were no comparative polls for 1952. How right the pollsters are cannot be know until the Nov. 6 election returns are in.

The Eisenhower-Nixon ticket polled 55.4 per cent of the major party vote in the 1952 election.

The most recent Gallup poll held that as of Oct. 1 Mr. Eisenhower was leading Stevenson 52 to 40 per cent, with 8 per cent undecided.

On Sept. 21, four years ago, Gallup reported: Eisenhower 55 per cent; Stevenson 40 per cent, and 5 per cent undecided.

Kenneth Fink, a professional poller, said his findings for New Jersey as of Sept. 26 this year were: Eisenhower 53.4 per cent; Stevenson 43.4 per cent; undecided 3.2 per cent.

Fink's figures for Sept. 18, four years ago, were: Eisenhower 53.8 per cent; Stevenson 44.2 per cent, and undecided, 2 per cent.

Young First-Time Voters Going Along With Views of Parents

Preferences Reflect Economic Backgrounds — They Are Split 6 to 5 in Favor of Eisenhower.

By SAMUEL LUBELL
Political Analyst and Poll-Taker.
(Copyright, 1956.)

ALTHOUGH BOTH the Republicans and the Democrats have advertised themselves as "the party of the future," neither can be said to have gained a clinching hold on the nation's youngest voters.

Thus far in this campaign the youths with whom I have talked and who will be casting their first presidential ballots in November are divided 6 to 5 in favor of President Eisenhower. In 1952, the first-voters I interviewed broke 5 to 3 for Gen. Eisenhower.

What is most striking about these younger voters is how closely their preferences parallel those of their parents and of the social and economic class they come from.

In farm areas, reflecting the angry turn against the Republicans, Adlai Stevenson is winning two of every three farm youths who will be voting for the first time this November.

Young Negroes for Stevenson.

Similarly the Democratic solidarity of the Negroes can be seen in the 10 to 1 edge Stevenson holds among Negro first-voters.

How younger Negroes feel about the two parties was summed up fairly well by one Los Angeles college student. "We've had quite a few political discussions around the house," he told me. "Being rich men, the Republicans want to keep the Negro in his place. The Democrats try to give the poor people a break."

In the suburbs and non-Negro precincts, Mr. Eisenhower fares best, showing a three-to-two edge among the first-voters.

A fair part of this support reflects the feeling voiced by one young housewife in Detroit. "My husband was about to go to Korea when Eisenhower ended the war," she said.

This year's ranks of first-voters are also being swelled by the refugees who fled from Soviet-controlled Eastern Europe at the end of World War II and who have been in this country long enough to acquire citizenship. Most of the ex-DPs I have talked with are going Republican. A Ukrainian in Minneapolis felt "a military man is needed in this troubled world." In Chicago, a young Lithuanian boasted, "I'm a card-carrying Young Republican. The Democrats aren't anti-Communist enough for me."

But by far the biggest difference between the first-voters who are for Mr. Eisenhower and those for Stevenson will be found in their economic background. Most Stevenson first-voters came from worker families or work in factories themselves. The Eisenhower first-voters are drawn most heavily from clerks and salesmen or from families where the head of the household is either in business or holds a white collar, salaried post.

Taken on the whole, the net conclusion one comes to is that there really is no such thing as a "young" vote, which is distinctive in itself.

Despite the personal appeal that Mr. Eisenhower is supposed to have, how the youth divides reflects the identical forces and trends which are shaping the voting of the rest of the country.

One reason for this, of course, is the simple fact that many young voters take little interest in politics and usually follow the voting pattern that prevails in the family. Asked why they favor one party over the other, younger voters are likely to shrug off the query by replying, "No one ever asked me that question before," or, "I guess I was raised that way."

Economic Realignment.

But how the first-voters divide also testifies to the strength of the realignment of party loyalties on economic grounds that is taking place.

In this realignment, which reflects, in the main, whether one's sympathies are with business or labor, the Republicans do seem to be gaining something of an advantage.

"The Republicans are for business and I'm all for it."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

For Interested Consumers

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The editorial "A Dilemma in Food" states the case for a consumer organization very well. If consumers are informed and interested they can demand passage of legislation which would increase the budget and the work of the Food and Drug Administration.

Concerned consumers could also ask for legislation placing the burden of proof that a food product is harmless.

There is such a provision in the drug law, pretesting. Until such necessary legislation is enacted a manufacturer may use a chemical additive in foods and market his product until the Food and Drug Administration can prove said product harmful for human consumption.

This is a lengthy and costly process, with the very real possibility of danger to the consumer in the interim.

The St. Louis Consumer Federation at 1823 Hickory is concerned about the problem of chemical additives whose long range effect on the human body is completely unknown.

We are concerned with all phases of consumer welfare and welcome the participation of others so interested.

MRS. FREDERICK FAUST,
President.

Cats in Jewett

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

There is a mysterious disease killing all the cats in this community. The disease strikes quick and they are only sick about two days. There is no evidence of pain. The first symptom noticed is a loss of appetite. Is this a general thing in the country, or only pertinent to this locality? REGULAR READER.

Preventing What Fires?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I am aware of Fire Prevention Week because I've read about it in the newspapers. I have seen it on television and my 12-year-old daughter brought home a detailed form on the subject which I dutifully filled out and returned.

But while I'm at it, I would like to call attention to a big vacant lot of six to eight foot weeds in my block which have been there all summer. They were also there last summer until two fires started in them.

Despite reports to the Police Department this year, nothing has been done beyond the usual visit by the department and the taking-down of notes. Last Sunday, a group of small boys started another fire among the drying weeds. The department was called and one fireman admitted that the lot constituted "a hazard."

Monday, a spokesman at the Department of Streets and Sewers said the property was owned by more than one person and it was difficult to do something about it. While the 'phone was down, a voice could be heard in the office ordering someone out to an address on Portland place where "somebody's burning leaves in the backyard."

Fire Prevention Week is all right, but if the much publicized compulsory weed cutting campaign is no more effective than the problem we've had getting a vacant lot cleared, we're not preventing much.

She screamed so that no one could hussia:
"Nixon's President!—Wait!
Knowland's Secretary of State,
Joe McCarthy's our envoy to Russia!"

His View of the Jubilee

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The Mid-America Jubilee is closed and I read that it was a disappointment to the sponsors. It was a disappointment to me as well.

When we arrived at the gate and were obliged to get into an almost two-block line to buy the admission ticket (a slowly-moving line), I would have turned back if it hadn't been for my family.

Once inside it was "get in line" everywhere. A long wait before one got to see what was offered and then get pushed on. No chance to enjoy the exhibition leisurely. Standing and walking gets tiresome and there was not much chance to find seats for a rest.

We went to the beer garden to eat and get refreshments and hear the band. There were some seats and tables free when we got there. But no band, and when we saw the slowly-moving block-long line to buy tickets with which to buy food and drink we walked out again. Kids pounding out chopsticks on the player piano were no inducement to retain us.

We did not relish the idea of walking around all afternoon till the show started in the evening, although we should have liked to see it, so we went home.

We wanted to patronize the bakery but could not get near it to buy or see anything. So that was passed up.

There were nice things there to enjoy, but to me conditions were such that it was difficult to enjoy them.

We were offered a program, or list of attractions, when we left the grounds. H. A. INSINGER.
St. Charles.

For a Clear Answer

Adlai E. Stevenson says he will speak again, probably Monday night, on what he calls "the overwhelming necessity of curbing the use of the atom for war." We hope he will take the opportunity to be completely clear and specific on what he would do, if elected, about hydrogen bomb tests. We hope he will give a detailed and specific answer to President Eisenhower's objections to curtailment of the tests under present circumstances.

Last April, Gov. Stevenson said "we should give prompt and earnest consideration to stopping future tests of the hydrogen bomb. . . . Of course, I would call upon other nations to follow our lead."

On Sept. 5, he described his proposal as "to halt further testing of large nuclear devices, conditioned on adherence by other atomic powers to a similar policy."

On Sept. 21, he spoke in terms of "the United States taking the lead in promoting curtailment by all nations of hydrogen bomb tests."

On Sept. 29, he used the words "a moratorium on the testing of more super H-bombs," and on Oct. 3 he urged the "renunciation of large scale nuclear tests by the great powers."

The time has come for Gov. Stevenson to clear up any confusion on exactly what he is proposing. Is he suggesting that we open negotiations with Russia for an agreed ban on tests, or that we act unilaterally?

Gov. Stevenson ought also to make perfectly definite and specific how far he would go in limiting bomb tests. Does he want to stop them altogether, or does he want to stop only the "large-scale" tests to which he sometimes refers? Does he want a "curtailment" or a "halt"?

President Eisenhower has frequently avowed his Administration's willingness to restrict and control nuclear testing as part of a general disarmament agreement which provides for foolproof international inspection. This does not squarely meet the issue raised by Gov. Stevenson, however, for it is the latter's argument that a ban on H-bomb tests is something that could be safely imposed without waiting for a comprehensive disarmament pact. He has argued that inspection would not be necessary to enforce such a ban, because if any nation resumed testing this would be instantly detected by radiation counts everywhere in the world.

But the President has raised objections on other counts. He says that though tests could be detected, the long months of research which must precede a test could not. Thus he contends that other nations might continue their H-bomb research during the ban on testing and then break their pledges and resume tests—by which time, he argues, our "commanding lead" in the field might be reduced or weakened. What is Gov. Stevenson's answer to this objection?

The President also argues that recent tests have helped us learn how to defend cities against air attack, and how to reduce fallout. Thus he is saying that H-bomb tests are not entirely addressed to the development of bigger and bigger bombs. What is Gov. Stevenson's answer on this score?

Now that the Democratic nominee has opened the discussion—a proper one for public debate—it is up to him to give specific details on how he would implement his proposal if elected. The longing for peace is so universal that he has touched on a responsive chord. But Americans also want to be sure about national security. Can H-bomb tests be suspended without endangering national security? Gov. Stevenson owes the people a clear answer.

Welker Next?

The President's press conference of Oct. 11, 1956, will go down in the history books. Just four years after Mr. Eisenhower made common cause with Senators McCarthy, Jenner and Malone in the 1952 campaign, he finally got around to saying that in seeking support for a program for the good of the country he could not look to these G.O.P. Senators from Wisconsin, Indiana and Nevada.

Thus the President has discarded another one of his rules—not to engage in "personalities." Whether he did it at last because he wanted to clear himself or because he felt it would improve him with independent voters no one can know.

Now if the President will similarly disavow Senator Welker of Idaho who is on the Nov. 6 ballot with him, something really notable will have come to pass. Senators McCarthy, Jenner and Malone all are holdovers whose terms have two more years to run.

Harry Riehl's Good Business

Harry W. Riehl's leadership of the Better Business Bureau of St. Louis, Inc., for the last 33 years has been vigorous, courageous and imaginative. It is therefore no surprise, though it is a pleasant confirmation, to see him honored by the Conference of Better Business Bureaus for meritorious service.

As president and general manager Mr. Riehl has built the St. Louis bureau from 40 members to 2526. Under him it has exposed fraud and deception mercilessly, and worked with zeal for sound, ethical business practices.

Consumers in this area have been saved many hundreds of thousands of dollars by the protection which Mr. Riehl and his co-workers have supplied against attempts to victimize or misinform them. The recognition he has received is more than well deserved.

British-European Unity Ahead?

Are European nations ready to apply for associate membership in the Commonwealth, under a plan proposed in Parliament? That idea would seem more attractive to territories like Singapore, Hong Kong, Malta, Gibraltar and perhaps even Cyprus. But what long has attracted Europe is some form of economic union with Britain. By such means as the lowering of tariffs, this could mean a mass market on a level close to that of the United States.

Britain in the past has been somewhat cool to such "unification" proposals largely because of its Commonwealth ties. It built up the sterling bloc as a counterweight to the area in which the dollar is supreme. At the same time, it retained its close connections with the United States. And most Europeans hold the opinion that the various proposals for continental integration would get nowhere without Britain.

So it is significant that London rather than a continental capital is taking the initiative in putting new life into a concept for which hope has been declining at least since the formation of the European coal and iron combine. The "expanded commonwealth" idea may be too radical, but some of its details—for example, wider participation in the Colombo plan—are possibilities.

The British and French prime ministers have been discussing the idea, and Harold Macmillan, chancellor of the exchequer, has spoken up for it. On the continent, Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany is its chief spokesman. The economic advantages are so great that it seems they should overcome all political and traditional doubts. As for the United States, surely it would be to our advantage to see a strong if somewhat more independent European grouping in place of a collection of more or less weak nations.

T. Coleman Rides Yet Again

Many Americans may not even know that T. Coleman Andrews is running for President. Fewer still are likely to vote for him. But Mr. Andrews is an amazing fellow whose record can be examined with interest and even consternation.

As one of President Eisenhower's first appointees he served as Commissioner of Internal Revenue from 1953 to 1956. Only after becoming chief collector of the federal income tax did he reveal that he had been opposed to it for 20 years. "Federal income taxes should be abolished," he declared. "Everyone is kept poor." He said the tax was "vicious and evil" and violated the constitutional right of American citizens to be secure from unreasonable searches and seizures. "I doubt whether anyone can patch it up in such a way that we can live with it."

But that is only the start about the Constitution party candidate who is running for the presidency on a platform of state's rights, individual freedom, and repeal of the income tax. Mr. Coleman took over the commissionership to a loud fanfare proclaiming that he would mop up the mess in the Internal Revenue Service and make the place as clean as a hound's tooth.

"Take to the hills or the storm cellars," the Richmond News Leader, in Mr. Andrews's home town, advised any remaining 5 per centers. "T. Coleman rides again!"

A couple of months later T. Coleman, still riding hard, rode smack into a $25 fine levied by the Virginia Department of Taxation for delinquent filing of his state income tax return. From then on Mr. Andrews's career as commissioner consisted of running into first one thing and then the other.

A $12,000,000 tax claim against the American Distilling Co. which had been pending for nine years was settled for 10 cents on the dollar with Mr. Andrews's accounting firm as the distillery's auditors.

When the Internal Revenue Service was investigating the tax difficulties of Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin, Commissioner Andrews introduced McCarthy to an audience in Richmond as one of the "greatest living Americans."

Senator Williams of Delaware, who had smitten the Truman Administration hip, thigh and mink coat over the internal revenue scandals, criticized the Internal Revenue Service under Andrews for not pressing tax delinquency cases.

When Mr. Andrews resigned the commissionership to become chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the American Fidelity and Casualty Co. of Richmond, Representative Eberharter of Pennsylvania aired charges that Andrews had done that company a favor in a $5,000,000 tax case.

Since then, as the Madison (Wis.) Capital Times observes, T. Coleman Andrews has become "much in demand as a speaker at meetings of people who would rather spend their money fighting income taxes than paying them." He supported the proposal by Senator Dirksen of Illinois to amend the Constitution so as to bar estate and gift taxes and limit the income tax to 25 per cent unless Congress should by three-fourths vote increase it not more than 15 per cent.

Now, as in 1953, when he took his hound's tooth to Washington, T. Coleman is again in the saddle. No realist expects him to get much farther from the post than if he were hitched there. But however short a distance he rides, he seems likely to do it furiously.

New Cars, Bigger and Better

The news is out about the new 1957 automobiles, and again we are impressed by the solicitude of the manufacturers for their customers. Most of the new models will be at least a few inches longer than the '56s; some will be even more elongated.

With Detroit's production goal at about 7,000,000 cars, a bit of quick calculation indicates that these extra inches will eat up 662 miles of parking space or enough for 233,333 cars of the vintage now going out of style.

Even though automobiles may be harder than ever to park, think of the extra splendor represented by more lamps, different upholstery, changed windshields, new chrome designs, fancier instrument panels, iridescent paint jobs and what not. If Detroit cannot make every man a king, it is well on the way to making him feel like one.

For those still interested in such plebeian considerations as ease of parking and economy of operation, we point to the new German BMW-Isetta. While the new Continental Mark II is 218¼ inches long, the imported auto is only 89.

Clarence Birdseye, Ladies' Man

Making 30 or 40 or 50 million dollars does not draw as much attention now as it did in the days of J. P. Morgan and Andrew Carnegie. Prosperity has become too common, it seems, to make news except in the campaigning season. But how a man came by his money still makes a difference.

So we note the passing of Clarence Birdseye, a good Gloucesterman and friend of anybody willing to join him in tracking down a whale off Cape Ann. He became interested in this sport, good for a long boat-ride, in his days as a fur trader and missionary with Dr. Wilfred Grenfell along the Labrador coast. It was then that he also got his idea for freezing foods, the idea which made him wealthy and which, considered from the day-in-, day-out angle, probably is working a bigger change in American life than is the H-bomb.

There are, no doubt, many women—and some men—who still give long hours to cooking as an art. But Clarence Birdseye did more than the inventor of the tin can to make cooking, in its utilitarian aspect, a matter of minutes. Gone are the days when food had to be cleaned and carefully prepared for pot or pan. Recite your menu for the day or the week, and the grocer will produce it ready-frozen—anything from biscuits to stew. And you can have strawberries in a snow-storm.

This is why women have become such good bridge players and why department store sales continue to rise. And it is why the weary wage-earner, no matter how the cartoonists draw him, does not have to wait hours for dinner. If the unions won the 40-hour week for men, then Clarence Birdseye repealed the rule which held that woman's work is never done. And what may yet come of this we hesitate to say.

Since he gave women more time to spend with their children, we may have fewer delinquents. Since he gave them more time for the Lady Voters League and the precinct meetings, we may—by and by—have a woman in the presidency. Oh, Birdseye started things moving—just like the man who invented the wheel.

NEVER HAD IT SO GOOD

The Debate on Natural Resources

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Democrats say Republicans neglect hydro and atomic power, give offshore oil to states and timberlands to private companies; Republicans say they are sympathetic to private enterprise because it made America, cite St. Lawrence Seaway accomplishment.

Tom Myer in the American Observer

The Democrats Say:

Adlai Stevenson recently declared that the Eisenhower Administration, "instead of turning our natural resources to the public good," has allowed them to be "raided for private profit."

Recent Democratic Administrations built dams and developed federal hydroelectric power projects along some of the nation's great rivers, so as to provide large amounts of electricity at reasonable prices.

The Eisenhower Administration shows comparatively little interest in developing cheap and abundant electric power from America's rivers. It seems to be more deeply concerned with helping private companies to reap big profits.

Along the boundary between Oregon and Idaho, the Snake river flows through a great gorge known as Hell's Canyon. Democratic leaders have long favored the construction of a huge federal dam in this canyon.

The Eisenhower Administration has overruled any such plan, and has taken steps to let a private company build and operate some smaller dams in Hell's Canyon.

The people of the Pacific Northwest will receive about half as much electricity from this private undertaking as they would have received from the large federal dam, and the power they do obtain will be more costly.

The Attack on TVA

G.O.P. leaders seek to weaken TVA and hold back its normal expansion.

Instead of having this agency expand its facilities, the Eisenhower Administration negotiated with a private group of companies known as Dixon-Yates to build a new plant and sell the Government additional electricity it needed. Democratic opposition blocked this plan.

Democrats believe that there are important roles, in the power field, for government agencies and for private companies as well.

They agree that a very large share of this nation's electricity can and should be furnished by private concerns.

But the job of generating hydroelectric power on America's great river systems should be done by the Federal government, since these river systems belong to our people as a whole.

Turning to the field of peacetime atomic-power development, here is what a New York Times article says: "This new source of power has gone deliberately untapped through three and one-half years of the Eisenhower Administration."

The Times writer points to the "steady advance in peacetime (atomic) development on the part of Britain, France, and the Soviet Union."

G.O.P. and the 'Giveaway'

Interior Department officials have let a private firm go into a national forest in Oregon and cut timber which the Federal Government was supposed to protect. The company paid Uncle Sam a little more than $2200 for this privilege, while the stand of timber it received was worth about $250,000.

In 1953, under G.O.P. leadership, the U.S. Government gave up its claims to sizable offshore oil deposits near the nation's coast line. A few coastal states thus received clear title to these deposits, which should have been kept under federal management for the benefit of all our people.

Republicans point out that the majority of Democrats supported Eisenhower on this issue. However, a great many more Democrats than Republicans voted against giving this land to the coastal states.

Only 27 Republicans in both Houses of Congress opposed this "giveaway" program, whereas 114 Democrats did.

The Republicans Say:

The G.O.P. certainly does have a sympathetic attitude toward private business in general. Free private enterprise is what made America great and prosperous.

"The best natural resources program for America," says President Eisenhower, "will not result from exclusive dependence on federal (officials). It will involve a partnership of the states and local communities, private citizens, and the Federal Government, all working together."

The St. Lawrence Seaway project is a good example of partnership between national and state governments.

This seaway development project was indorsed by six Presidents in succession, from Harding to Eisenhower; but Eisenhower is the one who finally got Congress to approve it.

Hell's Canyon and Dixon-Yates

In cases where private firms are ready and willing to carry out beneficial hydroelectric power projects, the Government shouldn't interfere. At Hell's Canyon, the privately owned Idaho Power Co. intends to harness the Snake river with three dams and turn out great quantities of electricity for the Pacific Northwest. This enterprise will be more economical than the single large dam—federally owned and operated—which Democratic leaders favor.

Democrats accuse the G.O.P. of trying to "dismantle" or "wreck" various public power projects, including the Tennessee Valley Authority, which already exist. This is not true, though the G.O.P. definitely does oppose any needless expansion of federal activities.

That is why the Eisenhower Administration considered the possibility of having the Dixon-Yates power companies furnish the additional electricity that the Government wanted for its atomic-energy activities.

After careful study, however, it was decided not to give these companies the business. Democratic opposition had nothing to do with the decision.

As to the Atomic Program

President Eisenhower and his followers heartily indorse the new United States river-development project, which will provide water storage and electric power, in the Upper Colorado River Basin. Administration leaders secured congressional approval of this enterprise just a few months ago.

Here was a case where a river-development job needed to be performed, though no private concerns were seeking to do it. Under such circumstances, the Federal Government should act.

President Eisenhower asked Congress to approve another Rocky Mountain project to furnish additional water for irrigation and hydroelectric power in the upper Arkansas Valley. Democrats in Congress blocked this proposal. The Democrats themselves do not always favor federal dam projects.

We are carrying out a peacetime atomic research and development program large enough to meet our own needs, and we are helping other countries to develop theirs.

The Eisenhower Administration has granted timber rights on only a very limited scale and only when it felt that such action was in the best interests of the public. An area half the size of Rhode Island has been added to our national park system since Eisenhower took office.

The coastal states have a much stronger historical and legal claim to offshore oil property than does the Federal Government. Over half of the Democrats who voted on this question in Congress supported state ownership (118 approved, 114 disapproved).

Between Book Ends

Bare Bones of a Family

THE WONDERFUL SIBLEYS, by William Maier. (Scribner, 368 pgs., $3.95.)

Here is a portrait we can all recognize. The wonderful family: distinguished father, wealthy mother, five able, attractive and promising children. Mr. Maier paints them outwardly and then proceeds to uncover the bones. He does so with skill and understanding.

It is through the eyes of Noah, the least successful Sibley, that we see the family. Noah loves them all and is proud of them. Their promising careers are a constant reproach to his own underrated achievements. Their physical beauty underscores his own clumsiness. Their marriages point up his failure with Natalie, the great love of his life.

William Maier

Bit by bit Noah is forced to look more closely at himself and so to examine the family that moulded him. He refuses to believe what he shows himself until a series of revelations focuses the truth for him, and the real Noah Sibley is reborn into maturity and independent confidence that will make his life the kind of thing the Sibleys have always seemed to be.

Mr. Maier writes with humor and perception and tenderness. He has a deep understanding of Noah's humbleness and goodness. He is able to show the emotional quality of the family. He highlights the concealed sting in a seemingly simple episode, the cruelty behind the smiling assurance, "It's for your good." His picture of Natalie and her difficult marriage is true and revealing.

Mr. Maier has most certainly known the wonderful Sibleys and he presents them to his readers with almost painful clarity. ANNE O. BASSAGE.

Country Called Vinland

EXPLORATIONS IN AMERICA BEFORE COLUMBUS, by Hjalmar R. Holand. (Twayne Publishers, 350 pgs., $6.)

America could have been discovered in 986 had it not been for the stubbornness of one Bjarni Herjulfson, who made up his mind to spend the winter in Greenland. Seventeen years later, in 1003, Leif Ericson landed in New England, and, enthused over the abundance of grapes, called the land "Vinland" ("Wineland the Good"). From then on, for the next four centuries, Norsemen crossed and recrossed the dangerous waters and colonized America. From their last journey, in 1362, a monument, the Kensington Stone, was left, whose authenticity has for long been a major bone of contention among scientists.

On the surface Mr. Holand's book might appear as a popular story of discovery and adventure. The reader can soon discover that this is not so. Into the pages of this fascinating book 48 years of thorough research have been crammed with the painstaking method of a jigsaw-puzzle solution. Author Holand makes no statement without giving it a firm foundation based upon geographical, archeological, linguistic or geological evidence. With the persistency of a detective, Authur Holand follows the various clues and claims until, in the end, he can firmly say that it was so. ALEXANDER NIVEN.

From Deer to Ducks

HUNTING ANNUAL, 1957 EDITION. (Sports Afield, 120 pgs., 50c.)

All hunters greet this season with a special pleasure; as the trail of doves leads on toward quail and ducks and so on. So Sports Afield magazine welcomes the season with its Hunting Annual, a magazine-size illustrated handbook on the pursuit, shooting, dressing and even eating of game. The new guidebook covers all the familiar game from ducks to deer, with such special articles as one on budget safaris in Africa and the big game center of America.

Nobody Need Lose Suez Debate

WASHINGTON.

THERE HAVE BEEN from the beginning two Suez questions. One has had to do with the operation of the canal itself and how to insure the rights of the nations using it. The other has had to do with the threats and the challenges made by Col. Nasser.

In his speech at Alexandria on July 26 he announced the seizure of the Suez Company That speech was a declaration of cold war to be waged throughout Africa and the Middle East. The main problem of Western diplomacy has been how to deal with these two questions, whether together or separately, and if separately, in what order. The French view has been that it is essential to deal with Nasser's cold war before negotiating a settlement about the operation of the canal. The American view has been that, putting first things first, the right course was to work towards a settlement for the canal which would be legally and morally binding.

Nasser

Egypt More Reasonable.

The British, it seems fair to say, have been acutely conscious of both questions, anxious for a workable settlement and at the same time determined not to let it be a "surrender" by the West or a "victory" by Nasser.

At the U.N. the prospects are good that a settlement can be negotiated which involves no surrender and no victory for anyone. This is plain enough even in the public statements which, as everyone knows, are usually not conciliatory and are usually meant to appease the extremists in the speaker's native land.

Dr. Mahmoud Fawzi, the Egyptian Foreign Minister, is willing, so it appears, to negotiate a treaty that sets up a regime under which the Egyptian canal authority would operate.

No Essential Difference.

This does not in principle differ from the essential demand of the West, as defined by Mr. Dulles, that Egypt must not use the canal as an instrument of Egyptian national policy. If the Egyptian operation must be in accord with rights and standards set down in an international treaty, then the canal is not an instrument of Egyptian national policy.

The problem, then, is how, when a code of rights and duties has been set down in a treaty, grievances are to be heard, composed or adjudicated. It will not be good enough to say that disputes should be taken to the U.N.

The distance between Suez and New York is too great, and there is need for an organ or an agency at the canal itself which can deal with grievances. Such an organ or agency can, it seems to me, be developed out of Dr. Fawzi's proposal of "co-operation" between the Egyptian authority and the users' association.

Rights of the Users.

The great value of a settlement along these lines could come from the fact that it had the voluntary support of Egypt, of India, of the Soviet Union, as well as of the Western powers. The regime of the canal would have universality.

If the code of rights and duties is clear and comprehensive, and if the grievance machinery is adequate, a gross and willful violation of the users' rights would be so obvious that it could not be done without provoking a world-wide reaction. The users would then be entitled to enforce their rights.

What the Western powers would have conceded in such a settlement is the demand for an international agency to operate the canal. I wonder whether we are not well rid of it.

If one tries to imagine how such an international agency would be set up, is it not evident that it would have to be representative of the great blocs into which our world is divided? Would international administration of the canal work any better than did international administration of the city of Berlin?

Backed by the World.

No doubt, the prospects are good for co-existence in the world today. But are we anywhere near the point where a complicated utility like the Suez Canal could actually be administered by a mixed international board?

There is a disposition in France and Great Britain to regard the negotiation of a new international regime for Suez as a defeat. Is it necessary to be so defeatist?

We should, I submit, look at this negotiation as an opportunity to construct in the heart of the Middle East an international system which stems from the United Nations and has the support of world opinion.

That is a great deal better, and is a lot more inspiring, than anything we were thinking about when this whole affair exploded.

34 PAINTINGS SHOWN BY MARGERY DODSON

Artist's First Solo Exhibit Features Western, South American Scenes.

Western and South American scenes form the subject-matter for many of the 34 oil paintings, watercolors and drawings by Margery Dodson, St. Louis artist, whose first one-man show will be on view through Nov. 5 at the Monday Club, 37 South Maple avenue, Webster Groves.

Ten of the 23 oils were done in 1956, and none of the works are earlier than 1951. The exhibition permits a study of Miss Dodson's artistic development over the last five years and indicates an increasing interest in nature as well as growing skill in the use of color.

One of the most appealing pictures is "Mother and Child," a 1956 oil in which the smiling mother, seen in profile, holds an infant at her shoulder. The baby's head is juxtaposed to that of the mother, which is inclined toward the viewer. Miss Dodson's design is compact and powerful ,the mother's strong hands contrasting with the tiny hand of the child.

Another painting that takes the eye is the large "City Garden," an oil also done this year. This is a girl in blue leaning pensively against a pillar and surrounded by a riot of blooms in pink and yellow. The colors are vivid but soft and harmonious, an effect that is enhanced by the rather flat, dull finish of the artist's canvases.

In "The Andes Mountains and the River Cauca," which shared the Richard D. Weil prize at the Missouri Show at City Art Museum this year, and in the 1955 oil, "Orchid Garden of Senor Gomez," dark tones are employed to achieve an impression of Hispanic melancholy. On the other hand, "Orchids in Bogota" is a sunlit floral scene in brilliant hues.

Miss Dodson, who attended Washington University School of Fine Arts and studied under Fred Conway and Philip Guston, has said that a painting should contain an element of mystery. Much of her work has this element, in a pleasant way, even when she addresses herself to such prosaic subjects as city traffic lights.

If Miss Dodson's paintings of 1952 and 1953, "Central City, Colorado," and "The Moon and the Rock," are compared with her newer ones, the observation might be made that her treatment of landscapes has become more serene.

Miss Dodson taught sculpture and painting at John Burroughs School from 1948 to 1955. She formerly was director of the Martin Schweig Gallery of Modern Art. W.K.W.Jr.

WALTER J. G. NEUN

WALTER J. G. NEUN, EX-ALDERMAN, DIES

Was President of Board From 1923 to 1935 and Candidate for Mayor.

Walter J. G. Neun, president of the Board of Aldermen from 1923 to 1935, died last night of a stroke at his home, 5825 Eichelberger street.

Mr. Neun, 75 years old, had just returned home after making a speech at the Scottish Rite Cathedral. He had been working in his law office during the day.

Mr. Neun was the unsuccessful Republican candidate for mayor in 1933, losing to Bernard F. Dickmann. In 1941 he was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor, losing to William Dee Becker.

During his three terms as president of the Board of Aldermen he sometimes served as acting mayor, especially during the second term of Victor J. Miller. At this time Miller was physically and mentally incapacitated.

In 1931, Mr. Neun brought about settlement of a streetcar strike by summoning company and union representatives to his office and insisting they remain there until an agreement was reached.

He was author of plans for a $4,600,000 relief bond issue in 1932. The bond issue was paid off by tolls on motor traffic using the Free Bridge (now the MacArthur Bridge).

The first political office Mr. Neun held was that of assistant circuit attorney in 1909-10. He was a short-term circuit judge, elected in 1918. In 1921 he was vice president of the St. Louis Bar Association.

Following his defeat in the 1941 primary, Mr. Neun devoted himself primarily to his law practice, Masonic activities and charity work. He was a thirty-third degree Mason and had been Potentate of the Shrine in 1921.

He served as the secretary for the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children and as president of the Carrie Elligson Gietner Home for elderly women and of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension.

Surviving are his wife and two sons, Walter J. G. Neun Jr., 5 Valley View place, Ladue, and Frank A. Neun, 5600 Bancroft avenue. Frank Neun was formerly an assistant city counselor.

The body will be at the Alexander & Sons undertaking establishment, 6175 Delmar boulevard, tonight. At noon tomorrow the body will lie in state at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, 3637 Lindell boulevard, where Rose Croix funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Burial will be in Oak Grove Cemetery.

CHRYSLER PAINTINGS DUE TO ARRIVE TODAY

Art Museum to Exhibit 101 European Masterpieces Oct. 20 to Nov. 19.

A group of 101 paintings from the Walter P. Chrysler Jr. collection by outstanding European masters of the sixteenth to the twentieth centuries was to arrive today at City Art Museum, where they will be exhibited Oct. 20 through Nov. 19.

The paintings, valued at $3,500,000, were being transported here by truck vans from Minneapolis, where they have been shown. They first were exhibited last spring at Portland, Ore.

The Chrysler exhibit presents a comprehensive look at the work of major painters of France, England, Italy, Spain and the Low Countries from the Renaissance to the present day.

Among the many works included are notable, grand-scale pictures by Titian, Veronese, Caravaggio, Rembrandt, Rubens, Van Dyck, Gainsborough, Goya and many large paintings by French masters from Boucher and Fragonard to Georges Braque and Henri Matisse.

A preview showing of the exhibit will be given for Friends of the City Art Museum at a reception next Friday. Arrangements for bringing the traveling exhibit here were made by Charles Nagel, museum director, and William N. Eisendrath Jr., assistant director.

From here the exhibit will be taken to the William Rockhill Nelson Gallery in Kansas City and then to the Detroit Institute of Arts. After showings at major museums in the East next year, it is planned to take the exhibit to Paris.

MRS. ROOSEVELT TO SPEAK AT DEMOCRATIC RALLY HERE

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, will be principal speaker at a Stevenson-Kefauver campaign rally at 8:15 p.m. Nov. 2 in Kiel Auditorium Opera House, it was announced today.

United States Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr., Democratic candidate to succeed himself, and Lt. Gov. James Blair, candidate for Governor of Missouri, also will appear on the program. The meeting will be sponsored by the St. Louis Volunteers for Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver.

Mrs. G. J. Nooney, co-chairman of the local volunteers, said free admission tickets to the rally will be distributed by volunteers and will be available at their two offices, 409 North Ninth street and 7526 Forsyth boulevard, Clayton.

UNITED LUTHERANS TO MOVE EDUCATION HEADQUARTERS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 12 (AP)—The United Lutheran Church convention voted yesterday to move its board of higher education from Washington, D.C., to New York where it could be in closer touch with other church agencies.

It took the action despite a protest by Dr. Henry Bagger, president of Lutheran Theological Seminary of Philadelphia.

"I'm opposed to putting all our eggheads in one basket in one city," said Dr. Bagger.

John J. Dowling Off for Ireland To Be Made Knight of St. Gregory

St. Louisan Honored for Raising Funds to Build Church in Roscommon Village.

John J. Dowling, president of a realty company bearing his name, left today for Roscommon, Ireland, where he will be received Sunday as a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Gregory the Great, second highest honor the Pope can bestow on a layman.

Investiture into the select 70-member order will take place in St. Mary's Church, a 200-year-old structure soon to be razed to make way for a new church, financed by contributions raised by Dowling.

Dowling's interest in the County Roscommon village parish goes back to his boyhood, when he was impressed by the decrepit condition of the church and school during a visit there. He decided to help erect new buildings.

Part of his ambition was fulfilled three years ago, when the new $35,000 four-room school opened, and the remainder will be fulfilled at cornerstone laying ceremonies preceding the investiture.

Dowling, of 4525 Lindell boulevard, has been raising funds for various Catholic hospital, church, school and convent drives for 50 years. In appreciation of his work in Ireland, clergymen there worked for his elevation to the Order of St. Gregory.

JOHN J. DOWLING

"Whenever my friends see me coming, they throw up their hands and say, 'How much does he want this time'," Dowling remarked.

He will be accompanied on the trip by his son, John J. Dowling Jr. of Ladue, and two daughters, Mrs. John O'Neill Closs of New York and Mrs. Robert F. Quinlivan of Coral Gables, Fla.

COLUMBUS DAY TO BE OBSERVED BY PARADE SUNDAY

A parade in observance of Columbus day, which is today, will be held Sunday by the Knights of Columbus and the Italian Society. Beginning at St. Elizabeth's Academy, 3401 Arsenal street, at 2 p.m. marchers will go to Tower Grove Park, where a wreath will be laid at the statue of Columbus.

All city offices and police courts were closed today in observance of the holiday, as well as offices in the courthouse at Clayton, except those of the circuit clerk, sheriff and the prosecuting attorney. Circuit courts in the city were open, but remained closed in the county.

Federal offices, the stock and grain exchanges, banks and stores also were open. All state offices were closed. Catholic elementary and high schools were closed, but public schools opened. Religious and community groups of Fenton will participate in a parade there tomorrow.

TEMPLE ISRAEL TO HOLD FOUNDERS' SERVICE TONIGHT

Founders' Day Services will be held today at 8:15 p.m. at Temple Israel, Kingshighway and Washington boulevard, marking the seventieth anniversary of the establishment of the temple.

Among those who will be honored tonight are three original members of the temple, the late August Frank, first founder of Jewish Hospital; and the late Elias Michael and William Stix, after whom two public schools here were named.

Rabbi F. M. Isserman will conduct the services.

J. PERCY PRIEST, TENNESSEE MEMBER OF HOUSE, DIES

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 12 (AP)—Representative J. Percy Priest, a member of Congress from the Fifth Tennessee district for 16 years, died here early today. He was 56 years old. He was operated on for an ulcer several days ago.

Priest was chairman of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce during the past session. He had served as Democratic whip for several years.

He was opposed for re-election by Republican George Spence of Nashville. The Davidson county (Nashville) Democratic Executive Committee will choose a nominee to replace Priest.

HORSE SHOW AT COLLEGE

The first Monticello College Open Horse Show will be held at 9 a.m. tomorrow on the campus near Alton.

About 100 horses have been entered for the show, including some animals from the August A. Busch Jr. stables. Mounts will be ridden in the following classes: working hunters, green working hunters, open jumpers, saddle horses and saddle seat and hunter seat equitation. Admission will be free.

GIRL SCOUTS ELECT MRS. H. R. PRICE JR.

Ladue Woman Again Named Chairman of Six-State Region VIII.

Mrs. Holton R. Price Jr., 48 Godwin lane, Ladue, was re-elected chairman of Region VIII of the Girl Scouts today at the twenty-fourth biennial conference of the region at Hotel Statler. She will head the group, which comprises six states, for a term of two years. Mrs. Price also is first vice president of the St. Louis Girl Scout Council.

Others elected regional officers were: Mrs. Winston S. Howard of Denver, first vice chairman; Mrs. Ray Woodard of Saguache, Colo., second vice chairman, and Mrs. Howard Frank, Oskaloosa, Ia., secretary.

In a business session it was reported the new Girl Scout 11-story national office, now under construction at Fifty-first street and Third avenue in New York City, will be ready for use by next September. Present national Girl Scout mebership is $2,600,000, it was announced. About 600,000 of these members are adults, 30,000 of whom are men.

The three-day meeting ended today with an address on "Believing, Belonging, Building Together" by Miss Oleda Schrottky, special adviser of the national field staff, and a report on finances by Mrs. J. Roger DeWitt, member of the national finance committee.

"Scoutorama," a pageant portraying the history of Scouting in St. Louis since 1918 in a series of skits, songs, dances and tableaux, was presented last night in the Opera House of Kiel Auditorium as a feature of the conference.

The pageant, in which several hundred Scouts participated, opened with a street setting from the year 1918. Mrs. Boyle O. Rodes, a member of the first St. Louis troop, played the role of a 1918 Scout leader.

The pageant, written for the conference by Mrs. Ben H. Wells, 5115 Westminster place, ended on an inspirational note with a cantata called "The Brotherhood of Man," featuring three soloists and a choir. The program was directed by Wayne Arnold of the John Burroughs School dramatics department.

Earlier in the evening more than 300 Intermediate and Senior Girl Scouts sang a repertoire of 16 songs on the steps of Soldier[illegible]

FATHER KENNY, OLDEST JESUIT IN U.S., REACHES 92

The Rev. Laurence J. Kenny of St. Louis University, oldest active Jesuit priest in the United States, celebrated his ninety-second birthday anniversary today. Remarking how short the nation's history is, he pointed out that he was born when Abraham Lincoln was President, and his grandfather, whom he knew, was 15 years old when George Washington died.

To this background, Father Kenny has added an intense interest in politics. He has never failed to vote, he said. "I consider myself an independent voter," he added. "I've voted Democratic locally but Republican nationally."

Father Kenny lamented the modern political campaign with its wide use of radio and television, and recalled the exciting torchlight parades for candidates in the past.

Father Kenny, who taught history at the university for 46 years until he retired in 1952, has a role in the university's own history. He is a member of the first class to be ordained at St. Francis Xavier (College) Church in 1900, and was the university's first registrar. He is considered the only living link with the university's founders.

Born in Zaleski, O., he joined the university faculty in 1900. He has been a member of the Jesuit order for 73 years and a priest for 56 years. His principal birthday celebration today was saying 5:30 a.m. mass at the altar of the Blessed Virgin at the church where he was ordained.

Frederic G. Hoffherr Dies.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—Frederic G. Hoffher, head of press and information services for Gen. Charles De Gaulle, leader of Free French forces in World War II, died in a hospital yesterday at the age of 68. He was professor emeritus at Barnard College.

WILLIAM L. REINGRUBER FUNERAL IN SANTA FE, N.M.

Funeral services for William L. Reingruber, a salesman at Greenfield's clothing store for 40 years, were held today in Santa Fe, N.M., where he died Wednesday after an operation. He had been visiting a daughter, Mrs. Charles Barba, of Taos, N.M. Private services will be held here Tuesday at New St. Marcus Cemetery, where he will be buried.

Mr. Reingruber, 84 years old, had been retired for two years. He had lived half of each year recently with his daughter in New Mexico and the other half here with a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ramming Jr., 633 Sherwood drive, Webster Groves. He had left St. Louis the last time in June.

A native of Lancaster, Pa., Mr. Reingruber spent most of his life in St. Louis. Surviving besides his two daughters are a sister, Mrs. Caroline Wilson of West Palm Beach, Fla., and four grandchildren.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR MISS FRANCES TAYLOR

Funeral services for Miss Frances Miltenberger Taylor, 4496 Maryland avenue, a retired school teacher and member of an old St. Louis family, were held today at St. Francis Xavier (College) Church, followed by burial in Calvary Cemetery.

Miss Taylor, 76 years old, died Wednesday at City Hospital after a brief illness. She taught kindergarten for 22 years at Henry and Blair elementary schools and earlier had taught at several other schools. She retired in 1948.

Surviving are an aunt, Mrs. P. R. Cain, 13 North Spring avenue, and two sisters, Mrs. Alice Saylor, Bedding, Calif., and Mrs. Louise Green, Honolulu, T.H.

Shake-Well Cubs Name St. Louisan Scheffing Field Manager

Familiar Faces in New Jobs At Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 12 (AP)—Bob Scheffing, who directed Los Angeles to the Pacific Coast League pennant this year, today was named field manager of the last-place Chicago Cubs, succeeding Stan Hack.

Scheffing's appointment by the new general manager, John Holland, completed a reorganization of the Cub front office and field leadership started yesterday with three top-level resignations and naming of two new vice presidents.

Holland said the three Cub coaches who served under Hack, Ray Blades, Dutch Leonard and Pepper Martin, would be asked to submit their resignations.

Scheffing said he would soon name a staff of two or three coaches but he declined to identify them before he has a chance "to see who is available."

Asked if signing a one-year contract might be a hazard in the obvious task of having to rebuild the last-place Cubs, Scheffing said:

'Don't Expect Miracles.'

"I don't think they (the Cub organization) expect miracles—I've worked for this organization quite a while. I am confident they'll treat me right."

Scheffing, 41, is a native of St. Louis. He is a former Cub catcher. Holland, as general manager, worked with Scheffing as an executive-field boss team at Los Angeles this year.

Scheffing had taken the Los Angeles job May 25, 1955, after serving as a Cub coach in 1954 and part of 1955 under Hack, who resigned yesterday along with Personnel Director Wid Matthews and Business Manager Jim Gallagher.

Holland said that Scheffing had been "in the picture" as far as the Cub reorganization was concerned as long as he (Holland) had been.

Scheffing took over at Los Angeles for the ailing Bill Sweeney a month after the 1955 Pacific Coast League race started, and brought the Angels to a third-place tie, just two games out of first. This year Scheffing's Angels won the pennant by 15 games.

Actually, Scheffing has had three years experience as a manager. The St. Louis Cardinals made him manager of the Washington (Pa.) club in the Penn State Association in 1939. The rugged catcher the previous year had broken a shoulder when he blocked a runner at home plate while playing for Mobile in the Southern Association.

At Washington, Scheffing played first base, batted .330, led the league in RBIs, with 96, and directed his club to the championship playoffs triumph after it finished second in regular season play.

Scheffing's shoulder mended by 1940 and he caught for Rochester that year. In 1941 he went to the Cubs, for whom he played until 1950, when he was traded to Cincinnati for Outfielder Ron Northey.

Ex-Browns Coach.

Scheffing was with the Redlegs and St. Louis Cards in 1951 when he retired as a player. He became a coach for the St. Louis Browns in 1952. He remained with the Browns until 1954 when he returned to the Cubs as a coach.

In appearing in 517 major league games Scheffing had a life-time batting average of .263. He served in the Navy from 1943 to 1945. Scheffing is married and has a 14-year-old son, Robert Andrew.

There isn't much of a new look in the Cubs' shakeup from front office to the field which started yesterday when Personnel Director Wid Matthews, Business Manager Jim Gallagher and Skipper Stan Hack resigned.

Returning to his third hitch with the club is Charlie Grimm, another native St. Louisan. Joining him in the re-organized front office is John Holland, in baseball 35 of his 46 years and on the Cub pay roll the last 11.

They were given titles of vice president.

Remaining as Executive Vice President of the Cubs is another veteran, 75-year-old Clarence (Pants) Rowland.

The Cubs finished 1956 in last place for the fourth time since 1949 and with 94 defeats, worst record in their history. But the season was only half gone when rumors began that a general shakeup was in the making.

Top-Heavy With Brass.

One veteran Chicago baseball writer tabbed the Cubs' plight as "too many chiefs and not enough Indians—they're top-heavy in the executive department and woefully undermanned on the field."

Matthews was Branch Rickey's "talent man" with the St. Louis Cardinals and the Brooklyn Dodgers when Cub owner P. K. Wrigley hired him in 1950. He is a smiling, 59-year-old gentleman who sincerely thought the Cubs were on the climb and received the brunt of criticism when they kept tailspinning.

No sooner had Wid resigned than Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, said that he "is a very capable fellow and we'd like to have him in our organization."

Gallagher, a former Chicago sports writer, had been with the Cubs since 1940. One rumor has him winding up across town with the White Sox.

Wilt (The Stilt) Ill.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 12 (INS)—Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain has laryngitis and will not be on the floor when the Kansas U. basketball squad starts practice Monday. The seven-foot Philadelphia phenom was stricken a week ago and his doctor ordered another week of rest.

Plane, Passes and Plight Put Bears Up in Air All the Way

Washington University has good reason to expect a barrage of passes from Drake's football team tomorrow night at Des Moines because the Bulldogs have two highly capable throwers in their backfield.

Roger La Brasca, with 19 completions in 49 tosses from the quarterback spot has accounted for 241 yards and Fullback Tom Newell has thrown the ball 26 times, completing 15 for 152 yards. LaBrasca, who missed one game, is twelfth in total offense with 347 yards on 87 plays. He is sixteenth in passing in the nation.

On the receiving end, John Woody has the most catches, 7 for 58 yards, but Roger Aceto has picked up the most yardage, 130 on five catches. Jerry Mertens has caught six for 54, Buford Waterhouse 5 for 40 and Ken Reed 5 for 39.

Washington's top thrower is Ken Miles, 10 completions in 25 attempts for 161 yards. Bob Ladd, with three catches good for 74 yards, and Bob Schudy, four for 60, have been the best receivers. Bill Bouchein, moved up to a starting assignment, now that Mel Dace is on the hospital list, is third, 52 yards on three completions and Don Schlapprizzi is next, two catches being good for 27 yards.

Offense Leaders.

Ladd, with 113 yards gained on 22 rushes, is the best ground gainer, while Miles, with a total of 205 yards, has the best total offense. In addition to the 161 yards he picked up on passing, Ken also accounted for 44 by rushing.

Just how the Bears will fare in their twenty-ninth meeting with the Bulldogs depends upon the improvement of those sidelined by injuries and classified as doubtful starters.

It's easy to count the "regulars," because there are only five—three in the line and two in the backfield. Don Schlapprizzi, Joe Mach and Ed Lind, have been holding down posts at end, right guard and center, respectively. Ken Miles, at tailback, and Bob Ladd, at wingback, also have been starters, but Snavely is not too sure those athletes will be in shape to play.

Bill Bollinger could be considered a starter at guard but he sat out the Missouri Mines game which Washington won, 14-13, and his replacement, Bob Krelick, saw a lot of competition against the Miners and again a week later at Wabash where the Bears absorbed a 27-7 loss.

Bartell Moves Up.

Bill Bartell, next in line behind Bruce Yoder at right tackle, has moved up to the No. 1 spot and Bill Bouchein has been nominated as the right end in place of injured Mel Dace.

Joe Mach will start at right guard and left tackle will be manned by Jesse Horstman, senior, who lost some of his claim as the Hilltop's "Iron Man" by missing the two early games.

The Bears will fly to Des Moines tomorrow morning in a chartered plane. Kickoff for the Bruins' lone night game will be 9 o'clock, St. Louis time.—H. T.

Majors Set Up Emergency Fund To Help Minors

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (UP).

THE major leagues today set up an emergency fund "up to $500,000" to help the struggling low minor leagues stay in business.

Creation of the fund was announced by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, who said all 16 big league clubs had unanimously approved the move which was suggested by a special committee that investigated minor league problems last July.

Frick called the move "the first step in a broad program which . . . will go far toward establishing minor league baseball on a sound and healthy basis."

Hawks Release Four, Squad Is Down to Dozen

By Harold Flachsbart

Four players were released by the Hawks today, following a spirited intra-squad game at St. Charles's new Duchesne High gymnasium, and a team of 12 men was named by Coach Red Holzman for a 12-game exhibition schedule with N.B.A. clubs beginning tomorrow night.

The squad will include: Bob Pettit, Jack Coleman, Ed Macauley, Charley Share and Willie Naulls for the front court, and Jack McMahon, Med Park, Bob (Dutch) Schafer, Irv Bemoras, Cliff Hagan, Norm Stewart and Morris Taft for the back court. Hagan, Stewart, Taft and Naulls are first-year professionals.

Released were Bob Kriegshauser, former Washington University record-breaker; Steve Walawac, a returnee from the service, formerly of Marshall College; Wyoming's Ed Huse and Bob Peterson.

Owner Ben Kerner of the Hawks, said that Huse was to be lent to the Washington Generals, a pro team in the Harlem Globetrotter entourage. Park last year spent some time with the Generals before being recalled by the Hawks.

Walawac probably will return to his West Virginia home, Peterson will return to New York (he came here for a trial from the Knickerbockers) and Kriegshauser is likely to work in a St. Louis county business with his father and would be available for emergency service by the Hawks, if needed.

Holzman had 15 players on a recent Mexican exhibition series, but decided a squad of that size was too unwieldy for training, now that the league opener is only two weeks off. Minneapolis will be the first league rival at The Arena, Oct. 27. The opening game will be "Ed Macauley night."

In last night's rough squad game, the Macauley Whites defeated Med Park's Reds, 106 to 82. Coleman made 23 points to lead the winners and Willie Naulls tallied 22. Cliff Hagan, a good floor man, had 19.

For the Reds Peterson was high with 15.

Cardinals Release Sauer; Acquire Six From Farms

The Cardinals announced today that they have asked for waivers for the purpose of unconditional release on veteran Outfielder Hank Sauer and that they have acquired the contracts of six young players from their minor league clubs.

The youngsters are Catcher-Outfielder Gene Green from Rochester and, from Houston, Pitchers Bob Mabe, Phil Clark and Franklin Delano Roosevelt (Ted) Wieand, First Baseman Prentice (Pidge) Browne and Outfielder Bobby Gene Smith.

"Ordinarily, we don't like to go overboard on the basis of minor league records," General Manager Frank Lane said in making the announcement, "but these youngsters all have outstanding records, and we have had numerous inquiries about them and others from other major league clubs."

Green, a 23-year-old right-handed hitter from Sanger, Cal., attended the Cardinals' "rookie school" last spring at St. Petersburg, Fla., and hit well. At that time, it was decided to convert him from an outfielder into a catcher. Green had a successful season at Rochester, hitting .300. He made 25 doubles, three triples, 23 home runs and batted in 95 runs.

Mabe, at Houston, was the outstanding pitcher in the Texas League this past season, leading the league in innings pitched (264), strikeouts (195) and victories (21). He lost 10.

The Danville, Va., athlete (27), who stands 5 feet, 11½ inches and weighs but 160, also outstanding pitcher in the Texas League playoffs, which were won by Houston, and led to their eventual success in the Dixie Series. Mabe was in training with the Cardinals last spring.

Clark, a right-handed relief specialist, appeared in 40 games at Houston this past season, finishing strong with a record of 7 victories, 3 defeats. He is 25 years old, six feet and one inch tall and weighs 188.

Wieand is a 23-year-old Walnutport, Penn., right-hander, who had a fine season at Houston with 16 victories and 9 defeats. The 6-foot, 2-inch, 185-pounder pitched 223 innings.

Browne is a 26-year-old power hitter from Peeksville, N.Y. He had a .328 batting average at Houston. He scored 100 runs, had 177 hits, 37 doubles, 3 triples, 29 home runs and 105 runs batted in. He was selected to the Texas League All-Star team. Pidge is 6 feet tall and weighs 211.

Smith also was in the Cards' spring rookie school, and and proved a fine center fielder at Houston. He scored 99 runs, had 185 hits, 29 doubles, 6 triples, 21 homers and 109 runs batted in, for a .299 average. The 22-year-old right-hander comes from Hood River, Ore.

Sauer, 37, came to the Cardinals last spring in a deal with the Chicago Cubs for Outfielder Pete Whisenant. This past season, Sauer, used infrequently as an outfielder and pinch-hitter, batted .298.

5350 Parties Seek 3850 Reservations for Blinds at Swan Lake

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 12 (AP) — Missouri Conservation Commission agents today began the drawing of lucky hunters' names for reservations for shooting blinds at the Swan Lake public waterfowl hunting area in Chariton county.

The commission has received 5350 applications, Swan Lake, a goose-hunting area which opened last year, has 55 blinds available for hunting parties of a maximum of four members each. The area thus can handle about 3850 parties during the 70-day season which opens Oct. 27 if the season runs its full length. Last year the season was cut short at Swan Lake because the United States Fish and Wildlife Service ruled too many geese had been killed.

Pointer Is Victor in U.S. Pheasant Trials

BALDWINSVILLE, N.Y., Oct. 12 (UP)—Home Again Mike, a white and liver pointer, owned by William Jones of Franklin, Va., yesterday won the national pheasant dog championship and a purse of $1200.

In an unusual move, judges of the 30-dog field named Rumson Farms' Hayride, the 1954 winner, runner-up with a purse of $300. A runner-up has not been named since the trials moved to the Three Rivers Game Management Area near here in 1950.

Hayride was handled by Earl Crangle of Waynesboro, Ga., in the trials sponsored by the Open National Pheasant Field Trial Association.

Grady Proves Too Much for St. L. U. High

By John J. Archibald

St. Louis University High came within one foot of keeping its no-defeat string alive last night. That's how much short of the end zone a Junior Billiken ball carrier came on a fourth-down play late in the final quarter. The East St. Louis defense was just good enough, however, and the Flyers won the game at Parsons' Field, 19 to 14.

It was St. Louis U. High's first loss in 17 games, although the Junior Bills had been staggered twice in this young season, managing ties with Vashon and Beaumont. In the St. Louis string were 12 victories and four ties.

Nate Grady, a hard-running right halfback, was the man that St. Louis U. High couldn't stop. In every quarter, it was Grady going for yardage—cutting wide around end, slipping through a space wedged open by Flyer linemen, or sidestepping his way past onrushing tacklers.

50-Yard Pass Works.

In a first quarter drive, after St. Louis U. High had taken a quick 7-0 lead on a 50-yard pass play from Mike Fitzwilliams to Wally Cammarata, the Flyers' Steve Blackwell got the home team going with a 36-yard toss to Ronnie Smith. Grady then went 16 yards on one try and 10 more to a touchdown on his second attempt.

The East Siders' Dan Clotfelder intercepted a Fitzwilliams pass in the second quarter and brought it back 25 yards to the St. Louis 15. Grady, Ronnie Smith and Avondus Jackson then drove forward in short spurts, with Smith scoring from the two. Bob Benton kicked the extra point to give East St. Louis a 13-7 lead.

Coach Gene Hart's Junior Billikens, who had been held to a mere 33 yards rushing in the first half, appeared to be out of contention a few minutes after the second half opened when East St. Louis increased its lead with a touchdown in just four plays. After taking the kick-off to the 28, Grady went four yards, Smith 48, Grady 1, and then Grady outran the defense on his right side to go 19 yards to the end zone, to make it 19-7.

St. Louis U. High suddenly found a working combination, however. Fitzwilliams made a fine 30-yard kick-off return. He and Carl Reis then punched forward to the 33. An offsides penalty delayed the Bills, but Fitzwilliams connected with Cammarata on a 23-yard pass play that put St. Louis on the 15. It was Fitzwilliams and Reis carrying again then, and Fitz scored from the four. Lee Pellegrin's successful run for extra point made the score 19-14.

Just One Foot Short.

As the climax to a 43-yard push late in the fourth period, Reis pitched out to Fitzwilliams and Fitz smashed forward into a pile of gray-clad defensemen. Fitzwilliams picked up six yards on the fourth-down play, but the ball was still a foot short of the goal line when his knees hit the ground. East St. Louis took possession, and with Grady doing most of the carrying, moved the ball to midfield, where time ran out.

Coach Fred Cameron's East St. Louis team, which had a 44-game no-defeat string of its own stopped recently, now has a season record of two victories, two ties and one loss. St. Louis U. High, which won't play again until Oct. 26, when it goes to Columbia, Mo., to play Douglass High, has won two, tied two and lost one.

Egypt Withdraws From the Olympics

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 12 (UP)—Egypt officially withdrew today from the forthcoming Olympic games in Melbourne.

A cable received by the organizing committee announced Cairo's action and said a formal letter of withdrawal is en route.

Egypt had planned to send about 100 athletes to participate in the international contest. There were reports it would boycott the games as a result of the Suez dispute.

Rory Calhoun Faces Sullivan In TV Contest

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 12 (UP)—Rory Calhoun of White Plains, N.Y., and England's Johnny Sullivan, a pair of mauling middleweights, meet in a 10-round nationally-televised bout at Cleveland arena tonight. (The bout will be televised by KSD-TV.)

Calhoun, currently sixth-ranked contender, was an 8-5 choice to beat Sullivan and start another winning string. The 22-year-old son of an Atlanta minister suffered his first professional defeat Aug. 29 at the hands of Spider Webb. The loss, a split decision, ended a string of 23 victories since Calhoun turned professional two years ago. Twelve of his victories were knockouts.

Sullivan, 23, has 60 victories, 20 losses and three ties. He knocked out 35.

Boss Finds Newk Kept His Touch

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12 (AP).

NEWSMEN asked Dodgers president, Walter O'Malley if he is going to keep his eyes peeled for any promising players when he takes some of his Brooklyn players on a baseball tour of Japan.

"One promising player I'm going to look at is named Don Newcombe," O'Malley said. "He borrowed $100 from me the minute he got on the plane yesterday and promised to pay it back."

O'Malley said the big 27-game winner, who was "lost" for a time after being taken out of the final World Series game against the New York Yankees, boarded the plane in New York with no baggage.

Yankees Sign Stengel for 2 More Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (UP)—The New York Yankees today signed Casey Stengel for his fifth two-year contract as manager of the club.

Stengel, 66, has just won his seventh American League pennant and sixth World Series since he took over the job in 1949.

Stengel, who signed for a reported $80,000 annually, said he "was pleased" with the terms.

Stengel failed to win the Tmerican League pennant as Yaneke manager only in 1954 when his club finished second to the Cleveland Indians, although it won 103 games.

The Yankees lost the first two games of the 1956 World Series to the Brooklyn Dodgers at Ebbets Field but they came back to sweep the next three games at Yankee Stadium, getting a perfect, no-hit no-run game by Righthander Don Larsen during the rally. They lost the sixth game back at Ebbets Field but easily won the decisive game, 9-0.

Stengel cleaned his personal belongings out of the Yankee stadium club house this morning and said he planned to return to his Glendale (Calif.), home to rest after "one or two more days of business" in New York. Signing a new contract was the major part of that business.

BOWLING

by John J. Archibald

No Breeze Likely For St. Louis Bowlers.

THE 16 St. Louis men and eight women who will bowl in the qualifying rounds for the state match game tournament at Kansas City this weekend are likely to face stiff competition. Except for the scores rolled here by some of the Budweiser entrants, the Kansas Cityans appear to be about equal on the basis of local qualifying totals. And they will have the advantage of being familiar with the tournament alleys.

Of the 32 men shooting, just 12 will go into match play the following weekend. That too will be in Kansas City. It will be the results of the match game meet that will determine Missouri's five male representatives and one woman qualifier in the All-Star Tournament in Chicago the first week of December, where the national match game champions are crowned.

Four of the Budweisers don't have to worry about the outcome of the state meet, because they are seeded into the Chicago event on the basis of past performances. They are Ray Bluth, Dick Weber, Don Carter and Tom Hennessey. Assuming that they will reach the final group of 12, that would mean that five of the other eight would qualify for Chicago.

One of the Buds, Pat Patterson, will be concerned with his scores for he'll have to battle all the way to get in the Chicago event.

Other St. Louisans who will bowl a total of 24 games (eight Saturday night and 16 Sunday) are: Chuck O'Donnell, Bill Tucker, Sonny Fitter, Earl Sterling, Bill Holmes, Jerry Tharp, Bob Lindsay, Bill McCullough, Woody Hulsey, Glen Campbell and Talbert Scott.

The women going to Kansas City, who will bowl 18 qualifying games, are: LaVerne Carter, Flossie Argent, Angela Mica, Betty Schneider, Marge Yost, Bea Goldstein, Wilma Shirley and Anna Mae Evanek.

Not Many 200 Averages.

OF THE St. Louis men qualifiers, five ou of 16 averaged 200 or better. Kansas City also had five 200 average men among its 15 qualifiers. The other entrant will be from Columbia, Glenn Nelson, whose qualifying scores aren't known.

A few of the Budweisers' averages are well above anything shot in Kansas City—Weber's 217, Hennessey's 209, Patterson's 208 and Carter's 207—but after that there is little to choose. Kansas Cityans' averages start at 203 and range down to 192 for 20 games. After Carter, the St. Louis averages for 24 games go from 202 to 191.

The women are much the same. The top Kansas City woman averaged 178 for 18 games, and the lowest was 170. St. Louis's best mark, 184 by Flossie Argent, was quite a bit better, but after that our totals were much the same, going as low as 171.

One of Kansas City's best woman bowlers, Mrs. Lorane (Rip) Craig, who won the W.I.B.C. singles title here in 1952, failed to qualify for the state meet. She missed by more than 100 pins.

All of the state shooting, both this weekend and next, will be held at houses which have automatic pinsetters.

Last Chance to 'Beat Champ'

TOMORROW will be the last day for bowlers to try to earn an "I Beat the Champ" medal by outscoring Bill Lillard or Anita Cantaline, the national match game champions. Bowl three games at any Bowling Proprietors' Association house, and your handicap, based on the champions' averages, will be added on.

Lillard and Mrs. Cantaline will roll their three games as part of a "National Bowling Day" celebration Sunday on an NBC nationally-televised show. The program will not be seen in St. Louis.

A free clinic for youngsters will be held at Sports Bowl at 10 a.m. tomorrow, with some ofthe city's top bowlers instructing. There will be another teaching session the following Saturday, after which junior leagues will be organized.

$24,824 Refunded on False Start in 2nd Race at Woodbine

TORONTO, Oct. 12 (AP) — A false start in the second race at New Woodbine Park yesterday resulted in all money being refunded when the stewards declared the event "no contest."

The accident resulted when Risky Fay released all the gates by hitting the front of her stall with her nose. Starter Sam Hall didn't even have the gate switch in his hand when the accident occurred.

Flagman Henry Palaez kept his flag in the air, indicating a false start, but some the riders couldn't restrain their horses. Crewhall, ridden by Pat Remillard, completed the six-furlong run as did Back Hoe, ridden by Ron Behrens.

Several jockeys were thrown or jumped from their mounts as the field left the gate. No one was injured although Jockey Len Pong was shaken slightly.

The Ontario Jockey Club refunded $24,824 which had been wagered on the second race. The daily double pool of $16,893.20 was divided among the 2284 who held tickets on Count Maple, winner of the first race. Each holder of a $2 ticket received $7.10.

Jaycee Tennis.

All players competing in the Jaycee tennis tournament must finish their first round matches tomorrow at the Tower Grove Park courts. Tourney contestants range from 8 to 15 years of age.

Illini's Mitchell Appears Ready to Face Ohio Powerhouse

Several Changes In Lineup

By Robert Morrison
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 12—Ohio State, shooting for a fourteenth consecutive Big Ten victory, one short of the record, sends its formidable ground-gaining football machine against Illinois in the 1956 conference opener for both teams here tomorrow.

The new Buckeyes of Woody Hayes, who have left little doubt as to their power in victories over Nebraska and Stanford, are variously rated as even or 13-point favorites over Ray Eliot's Illini.

Eliot and his men are in no position to argue the merits of that quotation for they have not shown enough class in a victory over California and a loss last week at University of Washington.

There is one development that may help Illinois when it plays before a home crowd of some 60,000 in the continuation of this tough series. Halfback Bob Mitchell seems ready to make his first appearance of the season.

Old Speed in Workouts.

Mitchell, who became a sophomore flash in the latter part of last season, showed his old speed in workouts this week as he tested a knee that was injured before the season began.

"He had as much speed as ever; he ran and cut, was tackled, and did about everything," a sideline watcher reported. "The only point is that after so little work, he isn't in top condition, so he'll probably be just a spot player in this game."

Other Illinois changes will have Peoria junior Ken Sutter at center, in place of Capt. Jim Minor, disabled by knee injury, and soph Bob Allen at right guard for Percy Oliver, ailing with leg injuries.

Not at all satisfied with the Illinois offense, Eliot apparently will stay with Hiles Stout at quarterback. There was too much passing when there should have been running at Washington last week, the coach had noted.

The time for experiment is well past. Illinois has a tough row of league games coming up. Surprising Minnesota follows Ohio and in order the Illini then oppose Michigan State, Purdue, and Michigan in a string of games that would test the best organized team, much less one that is not settled.

Ohio Second in Rushing.

Ohio, featuring its new soph flash Don Clark at starting left half where Hopalong Cassady used to gallop, currently is second only to Oklahoma in national rushing statistics (359 yards per game, compared to Oklahoma's 424).

Scout Leo Johnson of Illinois has detected passing potential in the Buckeye ranks, too, even though the Bucks haven't thrown very frequently. It is noteworthy that though Ohio has tried only eight passes in two games, it has scored two touchdowns in its three completions.

Clark threw one of the scoring passes against Stanford last week. In that game in which he scored two TDs himself, Clark earned a starting berth ahead of Don Sutherlin, who originally replaced the graduated Cassady. Also moving up this week was Galen Cisco, taking over at fullback for Don Vicic. Cisco helped Ohio beat Illinois, 27-12, at Columbus a year ago. Two years ago at Champaign the score was Ohio 40, Illinois 7.

Betty Jameson's 71 Paces Arkansas Open

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 12 (AP)—Betty Jameson, a platinum blonde from San Antonio, Tex., shot a five-under-par 71 to take the lead in the opening round of the first annual $5000 Women's Arkansas Open golf tournament here.

Miss Jameson, one of 24 women professionals entered in the four-day tournament, was one under par on four holes and two under on one. Her double-birdie came on the 408-yard par five fourteenth hole at Hot Springs.

Five pros were grouped at 73. They were Betty Bush of Virginia Beach, Va., Mary Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., Ruthie Jessen of Seattle, Wash., and Marlene Bauer Hagge of Grossinger's, N.Y.

No. 16 for Buchans.

NANTES, France, Oct. 12 (UP)—The Seattle Buchans put the crowning touch to their five-week European basketball tour last night by beating Nante, 97-55. America's amateur basketball champions chalked up 16 victories out of 17 games played. They dropped a game to Milan last week.

Flying Dutchmen Swoop Down on a Goldbug

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

JOE MINTON, carrying the ball for McKinley, is stopped by Cleveland players in the beginning of a pile-up in second half of Public High League game at Public Schools Stadium. The Dutchmen came out on top in the score, too, 26-9.

Cleveland Whips McKinley; More League Action Today

By Harold Tuthill

Public High football teams had trouble scoring points and winning tuneup games outside their circuit, but in two days of league play they've made up for their early scoring deficiency.

Cleveland yesterday defeated McKinley, 26-9, at the Public Schools Stadium, to follow Central's 20-7 triumph over Southwest, which means nobody has been shut out thus far. There will be more league action today—Beaumont vs. Vashon at 1:30 — and a doubleheader tomorrow—Soldan vs. Sumner at 1 and Hadley Tech vs. Roosevelt at 3—to complete the first round.

68-Yard Punt Runback.

If the others follow the early pattern they will score early and often. Central got a two-touchdown jump on Southwest and Cleveland also took a 12-0 lead in spectacular fashion.

Ray Cliffe's Dutchmen scored their first TD on a 65-yard pass play from Lefty Rich Pilas to John Claiborne. Then, near the close of the first quarter Bob Kraemer returned a McKinley punt 68 yards for another tally.

McKinley made it 12-2 with a safety in the second period when Pilas was dropped in the end zone by Julius Blanke's alert Goldbugs.

Cleveland set up its third-quarter TD on a 45-yard pass from Bob Garrison to Claiborne to place the ball on the McKinley 30. Later Cleveland was halted on a pass interception but the Orange and Blue recovered a fumble at the 18 and seized on the opportunity with their third tally on a pass from Pilas to Claiborne. This time Claiborne converted and Cleveland led, 19-2.

Pass Scores for Goldbugs.

McKinley, sparked by Paul Gordon's 29-yard run early in the final quarter, added a touchdown, the payoff coming on a pass from Charles Miller to Ron Rollings, good for nine yards. Miller converted with a placement.

Cleveland had one more long sprint left. Carl Cresswell, speedy back, grabbed the Goldbug kickoff after the touchdown, out-raced the opposition and ran 85 yards down the west sideline for the tally. Claiborne converted but Cleveland was penalized 15 yards. This time Claiborne booted the ball over the cross bar about 35 yards away from where the placement was set on the ground.

Cleveland's victory was its second straight, coming after two opening losses. McKinley now is 1-3 overall.

Scott Frost Scores By 3½ Lengths in $30,000 Trot Race

YONKERS, N.Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—Scott Frost, one of the great trotters in the history of harness racing, made his 1956 farewell to the East last night with a performance that outclassed 10 rivals in the $30,000 Gotham Trot.

The West Coast flyer, owned by Sol Camp of Shafter, Calif., turned on the jets in the final three-sixteenths of a mile at Yonkers Raceway and scampered home an easy winner.

It was the sixteenth straight victory of the year for the son of Hoot Mon, winner of the 1947 Hambletonian — a race Scott Frost himself copped a year ago.

Canadian Joe O'Brien, driving a waiting race, remained well back of the pace until the last time around in the three-trip spin on the half-mile oval.

Lady's First, owned by the Ohio Valley Stables, Hamilton, O., had taken the lead after the first mile of the 1½-mile event, but Scott Frost whizzed by her as if she were standing still.

Scott Frost zoomed around the final bend, putting the chiller on everyone except his many backers in the crowd of 18,476, and finished 3½ lengths ahead of Lady's First. He paid $2.90 for $2.

Third was Scotch Valley, owned by the Brown Valley Farms of Detroit, Lord Steward was fourth, followed by Galophone, Wayghost, Jeffrey Scott, Bengzi, Tag Me, Newport Star and Popular Perry.

The time of 3:09 3-5 was a full second slower than the track and stakes record set by Kimberly Kid a year ago.

Hearn Is Sold to Phils by Giants

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—The New York Giants, who have promised their followers a new look next season, have started by selling a veteran pitcher to the Philadelphia Phillies and purchasing two promising farm hands from Minneapolis of the American Association.

Jim Hearn, 33-year-old right-hander who had a 5-11 record last season, was sold to the Phillies. In a companion deal, Minneapolis Millers purchased the contract of Stu Miller, another righthanded pitcher with a 4-9 mark, from the Phillies.

In the deal with the Millers, the Giants obtained outfielder Willie Kirkland and righthanded pitcher Curt Barclay. Kirkland, 22, hit .293 and drove in 120 runs while collecting 35 doubles, 12 triples and 37 home runs for the Millers. Barclay, 25, finished with a 15-11 record.

$10,333 Turned Over To Olympic Fund

CHICAGO, Oct. 12 (AP)—A check of $10,338.40 was turned over to Kenneth L. Wilson, chairman of the United States Olympic committee, by Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago to help defray expenses of sending the Olympic team to Melbourne.

The money represents receipts from an international sports and folk festival sponsored at Soldier Field Sept. 15, by the Mayor's All-Chicago Citizens' Committee.

It Looks Like Tiger Romp in Dakota Game

By a Sports Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 12—In Don Faurot's book, none of his foes looms as a breather, but the Missouri Tigers are expected to win by just about the margin they desire against North Dakota State tomorrow afternoon at Memorial Stadium here.

That will be a treat for approximately half the Mizzou students who haven't had an opportunity to see a Tiger football victory.

The Bisons, scheduled after Missouri and Maryland cancelled for obvious reasons, appear undermanned to tackle the Tigers, although weightwise their first string isn't bad and scouting reports speak highly of Quarterback Lynn Parkel, Halfback Dean Sharp and Right End John Campagna.

Parkel, however, is injured and may not play, and his loss might prove more serious than the impressive injury list Faurot has produced. He lost Bob Lee, regular right tackle, for the season last week and, among others, has four fullbacks on the ailing list.

Lee's absence promoted Paul Browning, East St. Louis, Ill. guard, to a starting post at tackle, with Jim Martin replacing Browning. Otherwise the line-up will be the same as that used last week against Southern Methodist. Injuries, however, will show up as the No. 2 team takes over as Ken (Stub) Clemensen will work at quarterback in place of David Doane, Ray McMichael will back up Martin at Guard, and Joe Wynn, who hasn't played all season because of an ankle operation may fill in at fullback unless the nod goes to Pat Fischer, a converted center.

The Tigers, who have lost to Oregon State, Purdue and Southern Methodist, despite a good attack, will tune up for six conference foes against the Bisons.

The visitors have a 3-1 record, with wins over Valley City Teachers, Concordia and Augustana. They lost a last-minute decision last week to Morningside.

Campanella to Have Thumb Operated On During the Winter

BROOKLYN, Oct. 12 (AP)—Roy Campanella, Brooklyn Dodger catcher, said before leaving on a trip to Japan he would have an operation on the thumb of his right hand during the winter.

"I'm going to have an operation and the sooner the better," said Campanella. "However, I committed myself to this trip and I'll have to wait."

Campanella said the thumb was broken about three months ago and had made it very difficult to grip a bat. In the series, Campanella batted only .182 with four hits in 22 at bats. There was only one extra base hit, a double. His regular season average was .219.

Gonzales, Trabert Win.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 12 (AP)—Richard (Pancho) Gonzales of Los Angeles, took two hours and 54 games to beat Australia's Frank Sedgeman in a professional tennis match here last night, 14-12, 15-13. In another professional match, Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, defeated Rex Hartwig of Australia, 6-2, 12-10.

Green, Franks And Flam Added To Davis Team

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (UP)—Mike Green of Miami Beach, Fla., and Myron (Mike) Franks of Santa Monica, Calif., two promising 19-year-old tennis players, today were named to the United States Davis Cup team that will journey to Australia for matches there in December.

Also picked for the squad which will meet India in the inter-zone finals at Perth, Dec. 6-7-8, were Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Sammy Giammalva of Houston, Tex.

Green and Franks, fellow students at U.C.L.A., wound up on the team through a series of circumstances. First, the selection committee failed to talk former cup star Dick Savitt out of his semi-retirement, then Ham Richardson announced he would be "unavailable" because of his studies at Oxford University, where he is a Rhodes scholar.

The selection committee declined to state whether Richardson could be added to the squad later for the challenge round matches against defending champion Australia, should the United States defeat India to earn that right.

"Richardson informed us that he would be unavailable for the matches against India because he could not be absent that many days from his studies at Oxford," one official explained.

However, it was learned that the United States attempted to have the dates for its matches with India changed, ostensibly for Richardson's sake, and when that failed the young scholar-player was left off the team.

Nashua to End His Career in Gold Cup Race Tomorrow

$100,000 Futurity Scheduled

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (UP)—Nashua, the world's leading money-winning thoroughbred, was entered for the final race of his career today when seven horses were named for Saturday's running of the $50,000 added Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont Park.

The colt, who has won $1,251,965 in 29 previous races, takes on Flying Fury, Third Brother, Mister Gus, Riley, Moneys Alibi and Salmon in the two-mile race he won a year ago.

If all seven start, the Gold Cup will be worth $25,000 to the winner and through victory, Nashua could raise his record earnings to $1,287,565.

Jockey Eddie Arcaro, who has handled the son of Nasrullah in almost all his starts, rides Nashua in his swan song. Nashua, as do all the older horses, carries 124 pounds, while the three-year-olds, Riley and Third Brother, tote 119.

The sixty-seventh running of the Futurity Stakes, won by Nashua two years ago in world record time, drew a field of 14 two-year-olds headed by Bold Ruler and Nashville. Arcaro rides Bold Ruler.

In his last start, Nashua was beaten by Mister Gus, who earned the reputation as "Swap's Shadow" by finishing second to Nashua's great rival three times this year in California. Mister Gus will be ridden by Jockey Ismael Valenzuela in an attempt to hang another defeat on Nashua's record of 21 victories ,five seconds and one third in his 29 races.

But at the testing two-mile distance, Nashua ruled a prohibitive favorite to bow out of racing in a blaze of glory.

Riley, reecnt winner of the Lawrence Realization Stakes was given a good chance to score an upset for three-year-olds have won the last nine renewals of the oGld Cup. He will be ridden by Ted Atkinson.

No rider was named for Flying Fury, winner of the Manhattan Handicap but Angel Valenzuela will handle Third Broth. Willie Shoemaker will ride Honeys Alibi, and Johnny Choquette will ride Salmon.

Nashville will have a running mate in the Futurity in Blue Spruce, Missile Encore, Tar Man, Bakht, Nearctic, Amarullah, Iron Liege, Miquelet, Beauguerre, Cohoes and Greek Game complete the field.

If all start in the six and one-half furlong dash down the Widener straightaway, the Futurity will carry a gross value of $125,345 with a net purse of $91,645 going to the winner.

Just One Murphy After Another

It should be many years before the Kutis Soccer Club runs out of Murphys. Above are brothers TOM, TIM and RUSS MURPHY, all of whom will see some action in tonight's game at Carondelet Park as well as in tomorrow night's game at Public Schools Stadium. Tom, latest of the Murphy clan to join Kutis, has just turned 19; Jim, playing his third season, is 20 and Russ, back from two years in the Army, is 23. And there are two younger brothers ready to play as soon as they can get soccer shoes their size.

Kutis Team Opens Muny Loop Soccer Play in Game Tonight

By Dent McSkimming

Local soccer passes another milestone tonight when two games of the Municipal League are played at Carondelet Park under the recently installed flood lights. This marks the first attempt at night soccer in the public parks here.

A 16-weeks schedule for the seven-club league, as released by the Municipal Soccer Association, shows night doubleheaders on four dates, as follows: Oct. 12, and Oct. 19, at Carondelet; Oct. 26 at Fairground, Grounds One, and Nov. 9, at Carondelet. All other Muny League games will be on Sunday afternoons. The regular schedule runs through Jan. 27.

Tonight's schedule: 7:30 p.m., Kutis vs. St. Louis S. C.; Jadran vs. Spanish, 8:45 p.m.

Sunday afternoon, at Fairground, Grounds Two, Kutis Muny plays the Hawks. The Cal Gage team withdrew.

Two of the better clubs of the league meet in the opening game of tonight's doubleheader, Kutis (national amateur champion) opposing St. Louis Sport Club (formerly Meramec). Although they may not play full time, four players who have won places on the United States Olympic team will be in the Kutis lineup. Th y are Herman Wecke, Bill Looby, Ruben Mendoza and Harry Keough.

One reason the Olympic stars may be used sparingly is that the Kutis team plays again tomorrow night, opposing the Vikings of Chicago at Public Schools Stadium. Another reason they will not play full time is the Kutis management must quickly build up a starting team that does not include the four stars. Manager Nick Jost has a large squad from which to draw replaceemnts who will see regular service while the four stars are away from home.

Henry Kuster, one of the city's leading goalies, will be playing for the St. Louis S. C. against Kutis. Other proved players are Gunther Reinholdt, center forward, Sepp Lorenz, Willie Seim and other regulars of the old Meramec club. New players signed by Manager Harry Wipperfurth include Forwards Bill Manion and Dick Flannery and Back Faeth Martin.

Two Charley Courtney Memorial cups will be presented to champion teams in a between-halves ceremony. A three-man committee composed of Mnsgr. Joseph McMahon, Jim AcAteer and Joe McLaughlin, will present one trophy to the Carondelet Sunday Morning Athletic Club, Municipal baseball champion of the Carondelet division, and another to the Spanish Society, Muny soccer champions of St. Louis last season.

Probable Lineups.

Polly Riley vs. Californian in T-M Golf Play

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Oct. 12 (UP)—Defending Champion Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., meets Mrs. Ruth McCullah, Los Angeles, today in third round match play in the twenty-sixth annual trans-Mississippi women's golf tournament.

The lone star swinger was setting a hot pace. She was two over par for 16 holes yesterday when she defeated Mrs. William Hartson, Piedmont, Calif., 3-2, while Mrs. McCullah was beating Mrs. W. C. White, Phoenix, Ariz., 6-5.

Other pairings today include: Wiffi Smith, Orange, Tex., playing Mrs. Staddon Loveys, Los Angeles. Wiffi, who is currently British and French women's amateur champion, had a three over par yesterday when she beat Dorothy Stamps, Oakland, Calif., 5-4. Mrs. Loveys, meantime, beat Mrs. Edward Milde, San Jose, 3-up.

Barbara Romack of Sacramento, who defeated Mrs. Cory Briggs, Castroville, 6-4, yesterday, faces Mary Sargent, Pebble Beach, Calif.

Miss Romack has twice won the California State title. Miss Sargent defeated Mrs. William Valentine, Palo Alto, Calif., 3-2 yesterday.

Barbara Williams, Richmond, Calif., will meet Mrs. James Ferrie. Miss Williams defeated Lanny Cranston, San Marino, 6-4, in the second rounds while Mrs. Ferrie was beating Mrs. Fred Wetmore, San Jose 4-3.

Harrison Gets 71 in Western Golf Tourney

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12 (AP)—A tightly bunched field of tournament veterans took out today after a pair of relatively obscure 68 shooters in the second round of the Western Open golf tournament.

Defending champion Cary Middlecoff of Dallas shot a two-under-par 70 in his opening round to stay within easy reach of the front running Californians who burned up the windy Presidio course in four under par figures yesterday.

Chula Vista professional Bill Casper and Alameda amateur Johnny McMullin set out to show whether their initial 68's were flashes in the pan, or whether this was their time to take the big name contingent.

Right up there, with 69 for a starter, was pro Don January, of Lampasas, Texas, former North Texas state college ace. He won the Dallas centennial tournament, a $6000 show, last May and is the eighteenth ranking money winner among the pros.

Tied with Middlecoff at 70 were George Bayer, giant slugger from Grossingers, N.Y., Jay Hebert, Sanford, Fla., amateur Ed Castagnetto of San Francisco, big Mike Souchak of Durham, N. C., Ron Nicol, Los Angeles; and Lloyd Mangrum, Apple Valley, Calif. E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, the old tournament veteran now playing out of St. Louis, Mo., led the 71 shooters. Grouped with were Mike Fetstranahan, Toledo, O.; Paul Harney, Bolton, Mass., Don Whitt, Alameda; Virgil Shreeve, Daly City, Calif.; Dick Mayer, St. Petersburg, Fla., and Joe Mozel, Portland, Ore.

Harvie Ward, the national amateur champion, was spraying his shots and wound up with a so-so 75 for his first round. Ken Venturi, California amateur titlist, had putting troubles and lost a ball in a tree to card a one over 75.

Pirates Obtain Trio Of Hollywood Players

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates today traded outfieldere Jerry Lynch and catcher Harding Peterson to their Hollywood farm club of the Pacific Coast League in return for three players.

Hollywood gave up outfielder Dick Stuart, pitcher Roger Sawyer and catcher Dick Rand. Stuart played for Lincoln (Nebr.) in the Western League the past season and set three new league records by hitting 65 home runs, driving in 158 runs for a total of 383 bases.

Fischbach Rolls Perfect Game

Gib Fischbach, a member of the B-B team in the All-Star League, bowled a perfect game of 300 on the Arcade Lanes, last night. He had a 702 total for the series.

The 300 was the sixth rolled in St. Louis this season.

Pinelli Will Scout For Cincinnati Club

CINCINNATI, Oct. 12 (AP)—Ralph (Babe) Pinelli, who retired as an umpire with the completion of the World Series, was signed as a scout by the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Pinelli was an infielder for the Redlegs before becoming an umpire. He umpired in the National League for 22 years.

Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cincinnati club, said Pinelli will scout in California. He is a resident of San Francisco.

AAA Tests Prove New Power-X Eliminates Power-Robbing Engine Deposits

TESTS of new Sinclair Power-X Gasoline with X-Chemical were conducted by the American Automobile Association. Using both new and old cars, tests were equivalent to 4 years of typical driving.

Exclusive X-Chemical in Sinclair Power-X
Increases Power in Older Cars
Retains Peak Power in New Cars

PROBLEM: Photo shows how carbon or other harmful combustion deposits build up on pistons. These hard, crusty deposits, which can form in as little as 3,000 miles, cause knock and loss of power.

SOLUTION: The new X-Chemical in new Sinclair Power-X Gasoline attacks hard, crusty deposits—changes them into harmless, powdery material. Result—increased power, lower operating costs.

CUTS OPERATING COSTS IN ALL CARS—Because it eliminates power-robbing engine deposits, new Sinclair Power-X Gasoline increases power, cuts operating costs as you drive.

90% MORE EFFECTIVE than any other gasoline additive in preventing spark plug fouling. (Other gasoline additives actually build up harmful deposits of their own.)

70% MORE EFFECTIVE in preventing power loss from preignition. After just 3 tankfuls of new Sinclair Power-X, you can feel the improvement in power and performance.

ALL CARS NEED IT—ONLY SINCLAIR HAS IT! See your Sinclair Dealer and power up with new Sinclair Power-X.

Detroit Beats Chicago Six in Hockey Opener

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (UP)—With such old-timers as Sid Smith, Ted Lindsay and Metro Prystal figuring prominently in the scoring, the new National Hockey League season opened last night on two fronts.

Smith's third period goal enabled the Toronto Maple Leafs to gain a 4-4 tie with the Boston Bruins, while Lindsay and Prystal carried the Detroit Red Wings to an uphill 3-1 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks.

Now playing his tenth season with the Leafs, Smith picked up a loose puck in front of the Boston cage at 8:46 of the third period and beat goalie Terry Sawchuk with a neat shot that earned Toronto the standoff. Tod Sloan scored two earlier goals for the Leafs and rookie Gary Aldcorn added the other. The Boston sharpshooters were Allan Stanley, Jerry Toppazzini, Don McKenney and John Peirson.

The Red Wings spotted Chicago a first period goal by Hank Ciesla, but tied the score early in the middle period on a goal by Norm Ullman. Prystal then put Detroit ahead 10 minutes later and Lindsay added the clincher in the third period.

The Hawks' defeat ruined the coaching comeback of Tommy Ivan, who took over the Chicago reins following the recent retirement of Dick Irvin. Little Tommy directed the Red Wings to six straight N.H.L. pennants before moving on to Chicago as the Hawks' general manager two years ago.

Betty Hicks Retires From Pro Golf Play

Miss Hicks, here from Corona Del Mar, Calif., to give golf lectures in connection with the William H. Tucker intercollegiate golf meet, announced her retirement in a letter to the Albuquerque Tribune.

Miss Hicks said she is quitting because of illness, although she outlined several other reasons for her retirement from Hicks competition.

"The professional tournament game is for the well-heeled, the nerveless, the young or the carefree. I am none of these," Miss Hicks wrote.

A director of the United States Ladies Pro Golfers Assn., a year ago, Miss Hicks is now making personal appearances for a golf equipment firm and is also writing articles for magazines and newspapers.

Series Tied.

TOKYO, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Nishitetsu Lions roared back to tie the "Japan World Series" at one apiece by outslugging the Yomiuri Giants, 6-3, in the Korakuen Stadium before 20,000 baseball fans.

VARIETY OF POLLS GIVE ADVANTAGE TO EISENHOWER

Nixon 49 per cent; Stevenson-Kefauver 47 per cent; refuse to say, 1 per cent; no opinion, 3 per cent.

The poll, for the comparative period in 1952, gave Eisenhower 54 per cent; Stevenson 40 per cent; refuse to say, 2 per cent, and no opinion, 4 per cent.

The Tribune, which lists itself as independent, backed Mr. Eisenhower in 1952 but has not yet declared this year.

The Des Moines Register's "Iowa poll" in the last week of September gave Eisenhower 46 per cent; Stevenson 36 per cent; and 18 per cent undecided. A similar poll for the same week in 1952 gave Eisenhower 48 per cent; Stevenson 27 per cent, and, undecided, 25 per cent.

The Watertown (N. Y.), Daily Times, conducted a poll of voters in the upstate New York area and said the returns showed: Eisenhower 747, Stevenson 262.

The ballot appeared in the newspaper nine times. The Daily Times said Mr. Eisenhower did not run quite as strongly as he did in a similar poll four years ago. It said, however, his margin of about 2¾ to 1 exceeded the normal upstate ratio of Republican nominees over Democrats. It said this ratio generally is considered slightly more than 2 to 1.

Los Angeles Poll.

The Los Angeles Mirror-News said this week a poll of "hundreds of voters in all walks of life and sections of Los Angeles county" showed: Eisenhower 51.2 per cent; Stevenson 38.4; undecided 10.4. The poll was conducted by Walter H. Eaton & Associates, described by the newspaper as an independent commercial research firm.

Salt Lake City radio station KSL said a poll of persons attending the Utah State Fair showed: Eisenhower 6905; Stevenson 3437.

The Evansville (Ind.) Press said a poll in Vanderburgh county gave Eisenhower 63.2 per cent and Stevenson 36.8 per cent. Vanderburgh county has voted for the winning candidate in every election since 1896.

The Press said the poll figure represented a 1.7 per cent gain by Stevenson in the last few days.

In 1952, the Press estimated on its final poll returns that Mr. Eisenhower would get 52 per cent of the county votes. He got 58.5 per cent.

The poll is conducted by sending postcards to persons selected by mathematical formula from voter registration lists.

The Indianapolis Star, supporting Mr. Eisenhower, said a state-wide spot check conducted by interviewers for Midwest Surveys, Inc., as of Sept. 23, gave Eisenhower 53.2 per cent and Stevenson 42.1 per cent, with 4.7 undecided.

Michigan Sampling.

The Lansing (Mich.) State Journal, Republican independent, polled occupational groups and reported these results:

Among state employes—Eisenhower 215, Stevenson 75 or 3 to 1; among factory workers—Stevenson 307, Eisenhower 253, or 6 to 5; among business and professional people—Eisenhower 360, Stevenson 12, or 31 to 1.

Farmers and housewives were to be polled later.

The Lynchburg (Va.) News, which supported Mr. Eisenhower in 1952 but has not announced this year, conducted a poll by telephone and reported these results:

A similar telephone poll in 1952 gave: Eisenhower 831; Stevenson 352; undecided 322.

Andrews, former Internal Revenue Commissioner, is backed by various independent organizations, including pro-segregationist groups.

The Richmond (Va.) News Leader inserted queries in every twenty-fifth newspaper of its two editions. It said it received 1280 replies from the metropolitan Richmond area with this result: Eisenhower 40 per cent; Stevenson 32 per cent; Andrews 19 per cent; undecided, 9 per cent.

State-Wide Poll Close.

The Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch said its poll covering qualified voters in all sections of Virginia gave Eisenhower 30 per cent; Stevenson 29 per cent; States Rights (Andrews) 28 per cent, and undecided, 13 per cent.

It said that, of the voters who supported Mr. Eisenhower in 1952, the poll showed 68 per cent still with him, 12 per cent shifted to Stevenson, and 20 per cent undecided.

Of the 1952 Stevenson voters, it said, 78 per cent still were with him, 6 per cent were for Mr. Eisenhower, and 16 per cent were undecided.

Both the News Leader and the Times-Dispatch supported Mr. Eisenhower in 1952 and have not announced for 1956.

The Norfolk (Va.) Ledger-Star, supporting Mr. Eisenhower this year as in 1952, is polling in two cities. It said Norfolk returns have given Eisenhower 50.6 per cent to 44.3 for Stevenson, and that in Portsmouth the figures are: Stevenson 63.4 per cent and Eisenhower 34.1 per cent.

In Florida, the Fort Lauderdale Daily News (Independent-Democrat) polled 10 per cent of Broward county's registered voters by mail and reported this score:

Eisenhower 72.2 per cent; Stevenson 21 per cent; Andrews 4.5 per cent, and the rest undecided.

Mr. Eisenhower carried Broward county in 1952 with 68 per cent of 37,155 votes.

Among Democrats polled this year, the newspaper said, 61.5 per cent favored Mr. Eisenhower and 29.4 per cent backed Stevenson. It said that, among Republicans, 95.1 per cent were for Mr. Eisenhower and 3.3 per cent for Stevenson.

6-County Kansas Poll.

The Atchison (Kan.) Globe, listing itself as independent, reported Sept. 29 that a straw ballot in six northeastern Kansas counties gave Eisenhower 585 and Stevenson 310. There was no 1952 poll for comparison.

The Hutchinson (Kan.) News Herald, also classing itself independent, said a poll at the Kansas State Fair last month gave Eisenhower 2863 votes to 1219 for Stevenson. This was about 70 per cent for Eisenhower, compared with 78 per cent in a similar poll four years ago.

The Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman reported that survey in four Payne county cities (Stillwater, Cushing, Yale and Perkins) gave Eisenhower 211 and Stevenson 170. A poll in the same cities in 1952 gave Eisenhower 179 and Stevenson 128.

Radio station WFBR in Baltimore is using about 50 college political science students to conduct a presidential poll in Baltimore, making inquiries at various times and localities.

It said that in the first three days of the poll this week 47.9 per cent of those queried said they favored Eisenhower; 36.2 per cent favored Stevenson and 15.8 per cent were undecided.

Poll of Country Editors.

A poll of 1030 country editors by the American Press, a magazine for hometown newspapers, showed 68 per cent for Eisenhower, 29 per cent for Stevenson, and 3 per cent undecided.

The same poll in 1952 gave Eisenhower 75 per cent, Stevenson 20 per cent, and undecided 5 per cent. The 1952 poll drew replies from 617 editors.

The Daily Campus, University of Connecticut student newspaper, polled 247 college editors across the nation and reported that 190, or 77 per cent, predicted an Eisenhower victory.

Dr. John M. Claunch, government department head at Southern Methodist University, said a poll there gave Eisenhower 7744 and Stevenson 530. Freshmen and sophomores favored Eisenhower 5 to 1, juniors 2½ to 1, seniors 3 to 1, and graduate students 2 to 1.

FIRST VOTERS FOLLOW PATTERN OF THEIR PARENTS

declared one 22-year-old railway clerk in Detroit. "Years ago no one ever believed a fellow could own a fairly heavy cruiser. Now lots of my friends have them. I like the way things are going."

Again, in Los Angeles, a 23-year-old student, whose father was a purchasing agent, explained, "I used to think the Democrats were the party of labor, but they are not that any more. I'm for Eisenhower because he's kept the country together."

Differs With Father.

Occasionally one runs into someone like a 24-year-old factory worker from Tennessee who declared, "My father's a Republican because he doesn't want to admit he's a working man. If he knew what was good for his pocketbook, he'd vote Democratic."

But, more generally, the first-voters who differ from their parents are white-collar employes who have turned Republican even though their fathers, who are workers, "are straight Democrats."

All in all, of the young first-voters who went for Gen. Eisenhower in 1952, nine out of 10 are sticking with him. Many of these younger voters have prospered in the last four years and they credit their gains to the Republican party.

ANDREWS FORCES PUT VIRGINIA IN DELICATE BALANCE

fence. I voted for Eisenhower before, but I don't like Nixon. And I don't like Stevenson. I want to hear more. What I hear, though, I kind of like the way Andrews sounds."

A jeweler: "I'm for Andrews. You walk down the street, you see those niggers crowding white people off the sidewalk and you'll see what we're up against. We got to teach those folks up North to let us alone. We can settle our own problems."

In northern Virginia, where Alexandria, Arlington and Fairfax serve as a sort of bedroom for Washington, much as Queens serves Manhattan, people appear to be staying with the Republican allegiance they showed in 1952.

Switches either way are readily found, but the net seems to be that northern Virginia will go substantially for President Eisenhower again.

There is in northern Virginia a good deal of criticism of Stevenson for his suggestions on ending the military draft and halting hydrogen bomb tests.

Other Comments.

Other comments offer a wide range of views. A housewife thinks the President "went overboard for the big boys." A woman Government employe says the Democrats treat federal workers better.

A Republican woman declares Stevenson will be "another Lincoln" if elected and intends to vote this time for him.

The owner of a new home in Fairfax puts it this way: "I voted for Stevenson last time, but I'm for Ike now. No real reason; just personality, I guess. I think we need a leader."

Interest is high in the state generally and the most interesting—and the most unreadable—campaign personality is perhaps that of Andrews. Campaigning goes on largely by word of mouth, and in street corner discussions.

Nevertheless, Virginia's total vote is widely expected to be below the 619,000 votes cast in 1952.

There is every prospect of a comparatively heavy Negro vote; Negroes are under no more legal restrictions than whites in voting in this poll-tax state. There is, however, no reliable way to estimate the relative or absolute size of this Negro vote. As of last spring there were 83,098 Negro voters registered, as compared with 792,329 whites.

Some Negro intellectuals and other leaders suggest that President Eisenhower will benefit from the Supreme Court Decision outlawing segregation and Negro resentment against the policies of the Democratic Legislature and state administration.

Economic Reasons.

The Negro rank and file, however, speaks of voting Democratic for economic reasons.

Victor J. Ashe, a Negro lawyer and member of the Democratic Central Committee of Norfolk, says he foresees a Negro shift to the Republicans for local reasons and because of "the Eastlands, Byrds and Olin Johnstons on the national scene."

Senators James O. Eastland of Mississippi and Olin Johnston of South Carolina have taken up more bitter pro-segregation positions than has Senator Byrd. They—and particularly Senator Eastland—are the focus of a great deal of Negro resentment.

All the same, inquiries indicate that the following comments are probably more descriptive of what the Negroes are likely to do:

The best available information indicates no strong likelihood of any net change in the state's present partisan division of eight Democrats and two Republicans in the House of Representatives.

Stravinsky Recovering.

MUNICH, Germany, Oct. 12 (AP)—Igor Stravinsky, 74-year-old composer, last night was reported recovering in a hospital from an attack of grippe and sciatica.

DEMOCRATS CUT EISENHOWER LEAD IN LOS ANGELES

sands have not cared or bothered to change their party registration.

A poll just published by the Mirror-News of Los Angeles indicates Mr. Eisenhower is in the lead over Stevenson in Los Angeles county. Mr. Eisenhower is given 51.2 per cent, Stevenson 38.4 per cent and 10.4 per cent answered "undecided."

A poll taken by the same agency at the time of the Stevenson-Kefauver race in the presidential primary, gave Stevenson 69 per cent and Kefauver 31 per cent, in the county. In the primary election, Stevenson polled 67.2 per cent and Kefauver 32.8 per cent.

The voters were asked to give their reasons for choices. At the top of the list of reasons for supporting Mr. Eisenhower were: He has done a good job, he is honest and sincere, he ended the Korean war, and he is more experienced.

For Stevenson, the top reason for voting for him was: He is a Democrat, and as Democrats they will vote for him. Other reasons: He will do more to help the working people, they are concerned about Mr. Eisenhower's health, and they do not like Nixon.

Differences Over Nixon.

Here in Southern California, Nixon's bailiwick, there is difference of opinion about the Vice President and whether he hurts or helps the Eisenhower ticket. In the main, however, the testimony is to the effect that he has improved his status with the voters in the present campaign, and that if he hurts the ticket, it is to a very small degree.

The uproar over the Vice President, his supporters insist, was started by Democrats who do not like Nixon and was given a certain impetus by Republican Gov. Knight's attacks on him. Knight, whatever he thought of Nixon at one time, is now out campaigning for him vigorously.

The Nixon people say that Knight never said anything as derogatory about Nixon as former President Truman said at the Democratic National Convention about Stevenson, nor as harsh as Senator Kefauver said about Stevenson in the California primary campaign.

Race fo. the Senate.

Of great interest to both Democrats and Republicans is the race for the Senate, with State Senator Richard Richards as the Democratic candidate against Senator Thomas H. Kuchel, Republican. To most observers, and even to the political leaders on both sides of the fence, it is a "horse race," with either candidate having chance of victory. The Mirror-News poll gives Kuchel 45 per cent, Richards 43 per cent, with 12 per cent undecided. A poll taken five weeks ago, showed Kuchel with 40 per cent, Richards 38 per cent and 22 per cent undecided. In the poll, Kuchel has held on to a 2 per cent lead. That margin, however, is too close for comfort and the Republicans are working hard to hold this Senate seat.

Kuchel was appointed to the Senate by Gov. Earl Warren, now Chief Justice of the United States, in December 1952, to fill a vacancy caused by the election of Nixon to the Vice Presidency. Two years ago, Kuchel was elected to fill out the balance of the Nixon term. He won with a lead of 302,765 over former Democratic Congressman Yorty.

Democrats' Best Bet.

In the primary, Kuchel cross-filed for both the Republican and Democratic nominations. In the Democratic column, Kuchel received 400,000 votes. Richards filed only for the Democratic nomination. Republican leaders say that they expect most of the Democrats who voted for Kuchel in June to vote for him again in the general election. If they do, Kuchel should win. Many Democrats consider Richards too leftist. Kuchel's campaign has not caught fire—but he may win, particularly if Mr. Eisenhower does well here.

IN SCHOOL DISPUTE

Mrs. Mary L. Schoenheit giving violin lesson to her daughter, Mary, at her home at Centertown, Mo., yesterday as she continued to defy Moniteau county authorities on the matter of sending the child to school. Mrs. Schoenheit regards schools as "antiquated institutions" which turn children into "trained seals" and asserts she is not violating Missouri law by teaching the girl at home. Authorities disagree and plan a court action. Mary, 7 years old and planning to marry Britain's Prince Charles, thinks school is a bore. She is looking forward to playing her violin for a judge.

WHITE HOUSE CALLERS

President Eisenhower chatting with Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco at the White House yesterday. Routine visit shook even veteran staff members, accustomed to seeing the great and near-great. Some missed lunch in order to see the former Hollywood star and her husband and even Mr. Eisenhower appeared to be flustered. Looking for a souvenir for the visitors, he turned up a cigarette lighter for the Prince but failed to find anything for the Princess.

WRECKERS AT WORK IN OAKLAND STADIUM

Scene at Oakland stadium yesterday as wrecking crews proceeded with major demolition project. Stadium, sold last June after St. Louis University was unable to find a buyer to maintain it as a sports center, is being razed to make way for at least three office buildings in the 5200 block of Oakland. It had a seating capacity of about 10,000 and was the scene of football games, soccer matches, circuses, automobile races and political and religious gatherings in the 26 years of its operation.

Drouth, the Farmer's Grave Problem

By Leonard Hall

SOMETIMES we believe that of all the vicissitudes which the farmers suffer—and goodness knows there are plenty of them—drouth is probably the worst. Most other forms of natural disaster strikes swiftly and are over, even though they leave devastation behind them. Flood takes the first planting of corn; lightning kills the prize herd bull; a windstorm lifts the roof from the barn and deposits it in the next county; a plague of new insects takes the first cutting of alfalfa. These are things which seem to be happening constantly to farmers. Yet they happen and are finished; we can sit down after the event, assess the damage, make emergency plans and start again. Corn can sometimes be replanted, the neighbors come and reroof the barn, there's a second cutting of alfalfa on the way and maybe we can buy another bull on credit. We roll with the blow like a boxer and come back fighting.

Drouth is a different kind of disaster. It works by attrition—by a wearing-away process. There comes a season when moisture is less than normal and we realize it because pastures give out and crops are short. But we can't plan on drouth lasting forever. We have no alternative but to accept the axiom, "Sure, it's going to rain again. It always has." So we plant the fall crops—and by spring it is plain they aren't going to make enough to harvest, so we plant again. This time we hedge with some emergency seedings that help take the edge off the worst shortages. But still no rain comes and again in autumn we plant, because there's bound to be winter moisture; but again the winter is dry.

ALONG ABOUT THE THIRD YEAR we notice it is no longer possible to dig holes for fence posts; that subsoil moisture has dropped perhaps three feet since the drouth began. Shallow ponds go dry by midsummer and the flow from springs and some wells is diminished. It is in the third year, too, that we notice the deterioration of permanent pastures; the clover dies out and some of the orchard grass, and their places are taken by annual weeds which can live without regular rainfall. Once more we say to ourselves: "This is the season it has to break; this is the season it will rain." But of course it doesn't. Even the deep ponds go dry during the fourth year, while springs quit flowing.

When old folks die during the hot months, the grave diggers tell us they find no moisture. Creeks stop running and become a series of pools. Yields of all crops are down and, even despite the use of silage and emergency pasture, feed supplies run short. This year some of the smaller farms are closed out, not because their owners weren't good farmers, but because they didn't have the reserves to hang on longer. Some larger farmers find part-time work, though there's just as much work to be done at home as ever. Some leave for full-time jobs in the city while their wives and youngsters hang on and carry on as best they can.

THE DROUTH ROLLS INTO THE FIFTH YEAR, and now, even though a fellow can scrape together enough resources for seed and fertilizer, the ground has become so dry and hard that it can't be worked. Perhaps this is just as well, for if the fields were plowed and the crop planted, the seed would either lie dormant in the dust all winter or it would sprout and die. Now you hear not only of pastures, but of whole farms, which are out of water. One farmer after another starts feeding his livestock, weeks before the normal feeding season starts, and wonders whether his hay and grain will hold out until another spring.

The whole effect of these conditions is immensely depressing. Here it is, mid-October, and one hot sunny day follows another without a break. Grass crackles underfoot like matchsticks when you walk across the fields. Millions of trees die and even those which survive can be heard rattling in the wind as though their leaves were made of stiff paper. Streams are lower than at any time since the white man came to the Ozarks in the early 1800s—and each day drop lower still. Cattle which should stay on the farms are shipped away to market at losses which will be hard to retrieve. And all day long and every day the wind blows until you are tired of the sound and feel of it.

SOMEHOW, DESPITE THESE CONDITIONS, you hear almost no real complaint, and certainly no talk of giving up. Here are thousands of farmers literally losing their shirts because of conditions which they could neither foresee nor prevent—and yet every one of them fully expects to stick it out, one way or another, and stay with the farming business. You hear them talking somewhat dispiritedly about farm prices, which have sunk steadily lower for four years despite the ballyhoo of candidates; but this is a different matter. Some of them are beginning to understand—not all of them, but at least some—that farming can never prosper under a farm program which guarantees almost limitless profits to a small minority of landowners who raise mostly surplus crops— and guarantees nothing at all to the vast majority of farmers. For the trouble with farming today is not that we have a farm program, as some would have us believe, but that we have a farm program which can't work because it is custom-built for the benefit of a few pressure groups in agriculture.

Farming is a strange business. It is a manufacturing business in which the owner and chief stockholder is also the labor force. It is a business in which a man builds up a considerable capital investment, but feels himself fortunate if he can earn from it a modest living wage. It is a business filled with all the risks that the elements can bring to bear against it. It was to help even out these risks—to help farmers achieve a place in our economy compatible with their investment of labor and capital—that our farm program was originally conceived. Nothing could come farther from accomplishing this than the farm programs we're hearing and reading about; or the one which is in effect today.

Elbow Bending Among Teen-Agers

Youth of Today Begin Drinking at Early Age—Many Start Right in Their Own Homes

By Eugene Gilbert

THERE is a growing indication that hit-the-bottle may be replacing spin-the-bottle as a diversion among teen-agers of the modern generation. The youth of today learn early how to bend a friendly elbow and down a sociable glass. And, surprisingly enough, many of them learn right in their own homes long before they get to college.

Dad may have had his first sip at a fraternity smoker or football celebration, but Junior and Sis may be old hands at the guzzling game before they get their high school diplomas.

Our survey of more than 5000 boys and girls between the ages of 15 and 17 in 90 communities across the country shows that 79 per cent have had one or more alcoholic drinks in their young lives.

The sampling included teen-agers in large cities, suburban areas and small towns, with no appreciable difference in drinking habits by population grouping.

Only 15 per cent say they never had a drink and the rest declined an answer.

Where did they usually obtain their drinks?

Right at home, answered 56 per cent. Tied for second place, at 33 per cent each, were parties and neighborhood bars.

Twelve per cent said they had a drink in a night club and 9 per cent listed various other places.

It is interesting to note that considerably more than one-third of these youngsters sometimes drink in bars and night clubs, although no state in the Union allows serving alcoholic beverages to persons under 18.

The heavy percentage of home drinkers may account for the teen-agers' scorn of "sly drinkers." An overwhelming 76 per cent of the boys and 80 per cent of the girls thought it was dishonest to drink without their parents' knowledge.

Yet, despite these figures, teen-agers were far quicker to blame the tavern keeper than the parent for cases of drunkenness in their own set.

THE question asked was: "Whom would you punish if a teen-ager got drunk—the teen-ager, the tavern keeper or the parent?"

Punish the tavern keeper, answered 56 per cent of the boys and 52 per cent of the girls. Girls would tend to be harder on the teen-ager than the parent. The opposite was true among boys. Eleven per cent of the girls but only 6 per cent of the boys would blame the teen-ager. But 9 per cent of the boys and only 4 per cent of the girls would blame the parent.

Even more significant, 18 per cent of the boys and 25 per cent of the girls said they would blame no one.

"I've only been drunk once," said a Minneapolis youth. "And even then I got home all right."

But an 18-year-old Kansas boy delivered this strong indictment of a tavern keeper serving liquor to minors: "There is nothing lower than a grown man contributing to the corruption of minors. I know, I had a little trouble myself back when I was 15."

Drinking statistics jumped astronomically when our surveyors moved from high school to college youth, proving that collegiate habits have changed little since the days of the Student Prince in old Heidelberg. School days quickly become skoal days on the modern campus.

Our researchers, visiting 10 campuses in nine states, found that only one out of 10 college boys does not drink at all and only one out of eight does not drink hard liquor.

Among the girls, only one out of five does not drink at all and one out of two does not drink hard liquor.

Only 12.7 per cent of the boys but 47.1 per cent of the girls never drink straight whisky. As for beer, 9.4 per cent of the boys and 21.1 per cent of the girls said they never drank it, but 56.5 per cent of the boys and 38.8 per cent of the girls said they drink it "often."

Cocktails and soft drinks spiked with liquor were downed "often" by about 35 per cent of the boys and less than 20 per cent of the girls, with the spiked soft drink having a slight edge in popularity.

Reasons given for the preference for beer over other types of alcoholic beverages include price, size of glass and beer's less inebriating features. Many said they preferred the taste of beer to other drinks.

Most young people today, in common with their elders, are positive that their friends drink more than they do. This contention, if true, would increase percentages by about 25 per cent in all categories of drinking.

For instance, if a 17-year-old boy says that he takes about three drinks in an evening, he would answer that most of his crowd has between five and six.

High school students seeking freer drinking privileges seldom find allies in their brothers and sisters at college. The college group looks with disfavor on drinking by the younger set. Where high school teen-agers are concerned, the collegians tend to sympathize with the complaint of Gov. Robert Meyner of New Jersey about non-uniformity in state drinking laws.

MEYNER says that youths barred from drinking in his state until they are 21 drive over the border to New York State where the legal limit is 18. He would like to see New York and other states join in strictly enforcing uniform minimum age limits to prevent border hopping.

Some New York taverns are installing "electronic age detectors" to combat the problem of under-age drinkers. The device takes photographs of those suspected of being under age and at the same time photographs the identification card they produce to prove they are 18. The gadget tends to scare off bluffers for fear of being caught telling a lie.

College boys and girls, in general, feel that the 18-year-old limit is not strictly enforced in many places, allowing teen-agers several years below the limit to pass themselves off as 18.

One college boy suggested the various states issue "drinking cards," certifying the bearer is 18, to control such abuses.

But where they themselves are concerned, college youth feel that 18 is a safe and proper drinking age, citing youth's old argument about voting: "If we're old enough to fight . . ."

Two Ways To Prepare Roast Beef

By Edith M. Barber

EVERY once in a while, I am asked whether I like to use a high or low temperature for roasting meat. My answer is always, "Either method will give good results." If time is no object, a low temperature can well be used. Sometimes, this is particularly convenient because we can leave the kitchen or even the house for a few hours without worry about overcooking.

If, however, time is an object, the use of the searing method—that is, a very hot oven for 30 or 40 minutes until the meat has begun to brown, then reduction of the heat for the remainder of the roasting period—will cut time greatly. In any case, I confess to a preferance for this method when it comes to roast beef.

One of my favorite pieces of kitchen equipment is a meat thermometer that can be inserted in the thickest portion of the meat, taking care the point does not rest on fat or bone. Then, you do not have to make your own decision in regard to the time when the roast should be taken from the oven.

The time of roasting, of course, depends on the size of the portion. The total time can be estimated by multiplying the weight by the time necessary for each pound, whether it is to be served rare, medium or well done.

The low-temperature method is more important for large quantity cooking than it is for the home kitchen. There is a larger amount of shrinkage if meats of a great weight are cooked at a high temperature. It is comparatively small for the size roast we use for home meals.

Roasting Beef With Searing Method.

Sprinkle roast with salt and pepper. Place fat side up in open roaster. Insert meat thermometer. Roast in hot oven (500 degrees) 20 to 30 minutes until meat has begun to brown. Reduce heat to moderate (350) for remainder of roasting period. Allow 18 to 35 minutes pound for rare, medium and well done, until meat thermometer registers 140 for rare, 160 for medium and 170 for well done.

Roasting Beef at Low Temperature.

Prepare roast according to above method. Roast at 325 degrees until meat thermometer registers 140 for rare, 160 for medium and 170 for well done. Allow 22 to 35 minutes a pound.

Finishing Basement Floors.

OUR problem for today is what to do with a basement floor until such time as you are ready to finish off the basement. If you have such a basement you know that it's sort of foolish to put down a finish floor until you've done the rest of the work and until you have decided just what you are going to do with the area.

On the other hand, just a plain old concrete basement floor can be a problem keeping clean because of its habit of dusting. If you have children and they play in the basement in bad weather, they will often come upstairs looking as if they had been playing in a flour mill. Another disadvantage of a plain concrete basement floor is that it can be stained and once it is the stains are most difficult to remove.

One obvious solution is to give the floor a coat of concrete floor enamel. This looks very attractive and solves the cleaning problem as well as taking care of the dusting. The only disadvantage is that if, at some future date, you wish to cover the floor with asphalt tile or some similar material, the paint will have to be removed before the tile can be cemented down.

People have applied tile over a painted concrete surface but it's risky because if the paint should fail at some future date, the tile will come loose. The same disadvantage holds true of floor wax. The wax will stop the dusting and make cleaning easier but it will have to come off before tile can go down.

If you think that eventually you will want to cover the floor with tile, probably your best bet is to apply a concrete hardener to the floor at this time. This material is not expensive or difficult to apply but it will stop the dusting and reduce the chances of the concrete becoming stained and dirty. Hardeners are available at paint and hardware stores.

One Hit From Retirement

By Sheilah Graham

HOLLYWOOD.

LUCILLE BALL is ready to retire from her career — "After I do one great stage play." Lucy and Desi Arnaz are worth more than $10,000,000 from their TV activities and own three houses—in Beverly Hills, Palm Springs and Del Mar. She's had her fill of toil, and figures she'd enjoy the housewife routine. . . . Cary Grant is resting from his strenuous "Pride and the Passion" movie chore in Palm Springs.

Jane Powell and family are moving to Balboa to get away from the smog. Her picture, "The Girl Most Likely," locations at the resort for a week. . . . Seventy-nine-year-old Charles Coburn has been sporting a monocle in London. Also escorting Joe Mankiewicz's sister Erna. . . . The two stars for "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" when the play opens in London will be Lilli Palmer and Carlos Thompson.

GERMAN STAR CURT JURGENS will arrive at U-I in 1957 for an original movie story with Rock Hudson. . . . Curt's agent, Kurt Frings, still can't get over the cable he received from client Audrey Hepburn, wishing him luck the night her "War and Peace" triumph was launched. . . . Fred Clark has been paged to appear in "The Wayward Bus" at 20th-Fox after he finishes "Pal Joey" with wife Benay Venuta at the Civic Playhouse here.

Dublin is crammed with Noel Coward's buddies for his new play, "Nude With Violin," and the scalpers are making terrific profits on black-market seats. The play, starring Sir John Gielgud, Joyce Carey and Kathleen Harrison, comes to Broadway later in the season.

TOUGH OLD COOT got fed up with having the wife rifle his pockets every night so he captured a couple of rattlesnakes, and slipped one deep into each pants pocket before climbing into bed.

"Yeah, but you're even more broke than usual," she complained. "I looked in both your pockets and there's not a thing in them but snakes."

"Are you sure?" asked Kurnitz. "Sure? Certainement," said the waiter vehemently. "I own it." Then he added, "This miserable place is where I find my customers."

Some 14-Carat Laughs

"THE SOLID GOLD CADILLAC," the George S. Kaufman-Howard Teichmann satire on big business which was a stage success two years ago, has been neatly retooled for the daft, innocent-shrewd comedy style of Judy Holliday in the movie version at the FOX THEATER. With her is her original co-star of "Born Yesterday," on the stage, Paul Douglas, and it's a first-rate team. Not that "Cadillac" is a laugh-producer in the class of "Born Yesterday," but it is an amiable, consistently amusing comedy which doesn't drift as close to burlesque as did the stage play.

The original stage character, done here by Ruth McDevitt and on Broadway by Josephine Hull, was of a naive lady, an actress, well along in years, who happened to inherit 10 shares of stock in a billion-billion dollar corporation, and made herself a nuisance by attending the stockholders' meeting and breaking up the cut-and-dried routine by demanding to know why the corporation's officers voted themselves such huge salaries and bonuses.

Under the facile typewriter of Abe Burrows, who did the movie script, this has been changed to a young out-of-work actress to fit Miss Holliday. And of course, the ex-chairman of the corporation, now handling a big (unidentified) job in the Pentagon in Washington, finally gets over his amazement at her naivete long enough to fall in love with her. This romantic twist comes naturally enough, Douglas, as McKeever, the big-business-man-in-Government, gives solidity and credence to the role.

The conniving corporation officers, caricatures on the stage, are also made more believable but still diverting in their scheming. They are headed by Fred Clark and John Williams, with Hiram Smith in a dry bit as a bone-headed playboy relative who has eased in as a vice president.

Laboring for Humor

Take a nice American Army sergeant on leave in Paris. Take a beautiful daughter of the American ambassador to France who is modeling in a Red Cross charity show at Diors. He mistakes her for a French professional model, and she goes out with him, although she is engaged to a prince, just to prove to a doubting Senator that G.I.s are models of propriety when going out with French models in Paris, so the Senator won't insist on putting Paris out of bounds for soldiers. But there are some mix-ups. The sergeant gets the mistaken impression the girl is a gold-digger trying to wheedle a $600 dress out of an "old goat," who is really the Senator buying the dress for his wife, see, and she gets the mistaken impression the sergeant is spilling wine on her dress so as to lure her up to his hotel room for a change of costume. Can you imagine all the fun this will lead to? Well, in "THE AMBASSADOR'S DAUGHTER" at the ORPHEUM, it leads to a great big yawn.

This comedy, it says here, by Director-Writer-Producer Norman Krasna is so belaboredly synthetic it groans at the seams. One can get away with preposterous plots if they are embellished with either wit or a farcical bounce. This one is just politely tired. John Forsythe has a clean-cut likable personality as the sergeant, but Olivia De Havilland can't come down from an aristocratic manner enough to seem human, and one gets the impression she is doing some dramatic slumming. Others in it are Adolphe Menjou, Edward Arnold, Tommy Noonan and Myrna Loy, back after a long absence as the Senator's wife.

He Broke the Ice for Shows on Skates

Oscar Johnson Finally Licked Public's Indifference and Became a Leading Producer

By John Keasler

The first night his ice show opened on the road, in Tulsa 20 years ago, people thronged elsewhere in swarms. Johnson eyed the house, the scattered few spectators hither and yon in the stands.

Then he looked at his troupe, his glum, downhearted cast, and shouted what is now a famous remark:

"Don't worry kids, we've got 'em outnumbered!"

It's always darkest, however, before the disaster. Two days later the show ran into a raging blizzard in Kansas City, then into raging indifference in St. Louis. One trouble was that, at the time, people weren't sure what an ice show was, precisely.

Well, since then Johnson and his partners have showed 'em what an ice show is, all right.

The Ice Follies of 1957, playing at the Arena through Sunday, have come a long way since the financially wobbly and somewhat ad-lib Ice Follies of 1936, which hit the road with one Greyhound bus and several sets of crossed fingers.

"We were the first show of our kind," said Johnson. "And one of the biggest difficulties was getting across to the public just what we had to offer. 'Ice show?' people would say—and immediately think of skaters going around in a circle, just like out on the neighborhood pond. Or skate racing."

SLOWLY, however, the idea caught on; the cash register quit its funereal gonging of "No Sale." "The newspaper boys gave us lots of ink," said Johnson," "and the people started coming in."

They've been coming every since—the ice show extravaganza is an important aspect of show business now, and even Oscar Johnson, Eddie Shipstad and Roy Shipstad are astonished at what they started—or would be astonished if they had time for such abstract thoughts.

These are the three gents who quit nice secure jobs to pioneer a new trail in show business. Oscar was a chemist at a coke plant. Ray was parking cars in a Minneapolis hotel garage. Eddie was selling typewriters.

OSCAR JOHNSON, CO-FOUNDER OF THE ORIGINAL ICE FOLLIES OF 20 YEARS AGO, DONS A PAIR OF SKATES FOR OLD TIME'S SAKE. HE IS SHOWN WITH CAROL CAVERLY.

Johnson and the Shipstads had been boyhood chums back in St. Paul, ice-skating buddies on Lake Como. Oscar got his first skates on his sixth birthday; by age 16 had an idea he wanted to produce an ice show, whatever that was.

By 1924 Eddie and Oscar had devised an act for the Hippodrome (titled "Spike McDugall and Gas House Anne") and the local gendarmes around Lake Como sighed in relief. Oscar in his amateur days, performing on the lake for free, drew such crowds around him on the ice that the police were kept busy advising people to go away somewhere before the ice cracked.

Eddie's younger brother, Roy, fell heir to some cast-off skates and got into the act. He became a widely acclaimed skating master before he was old enough to vote.

Meantime, Shipstad & Johnson created "Spark Plug," the ice-skating horse—played Madison Square Garden, got a name. The boys' reputation grew—by the early 1930s they approached for the first time the idea of creating a full-scale ice show.

Pooling their assets, they produced a show. Quite a lavish production, as such things went then. Certainly a big deal for the Shipstads and Johnson. Two days before the show was to open the bank holiday hit. The financial shock rocked the nation.

"But we didn't cancel," said Johnson. "We went on with it. We took anything in payment for a ticket, up to and including live chickens."

They even took checks. And not a single one bounced. The show was a whopping success. All three, between engagements and producing local shows, continued to work at their jobs. In 1936 they hit the road, finally, with the Ice Follies of 1936.

"There were 28 of us including the bus driver," Johnson said.

The bus driver, Bert Lundblan, is still with the show, as stage manager. He quit the bus company when the show bug got him.

Now, instead of 28 persons there are 170 associated with the show. Instead of one bus, the show travels in 16 special railroad cars.

THE Shipstads and Johnson, all top acts in their own time, now have hung up their own skates—keep busy scouting all over the world for talent.

This is the first time in 13 years the Ice Follies have played St. Louis, and Johnson, remembering those shaky days of 20 years ago, smiled as he sat in a coffee shop here and gave part of his formula for success in show business. You don't have to be crazy but it helps.

Imagination doesn't hurt a bit either. Nor ingenuity. Nor the willingness to gamble on your own hard work and talent.

"Do you think a shoestring operation, such as yours was, could be born and grow successfully in this day and age?" somebody asked.

"Sure," said Johnson. "If it's good enough. Things don't change much."

He is a slim, trim, unassuming man with a warm smile and a friendly way about him. Now 57, he seldom puts on skates anymore.

Johnson, son of a Swedish immigrant, was sternly instructed by his father, as a boy: "Be ambitious and honest and give this country everything you have and you will be handsomely rewarded."

He thought about this the first time he made an appearance formally before an audience. It was at a carnival. He was young and filled with stage fright.

He was to do a flying cartwheel over some chairs. For reasons now clear to nobody, he was wearing a matador's costume and the band, incongruously, was playing a march.

Young Johnson flew at the chairs, which he had laid on their side, and missed with a resounding bellyflop.

The crowd went wild.

Johnson, with that instinct called showmanship, had stood the chairs upright the second time.

Words, Wit And Wisdom

By William Morris

Party Nicknames.

OUR leading political parties have changed their names from time to time, the Democrats having started as the Republican party, changing early in the nineteenth century to Democratic - Republican and finally, about 1828, becoming the Democratic (note the "ic," Chairman Hall) party. Much more frequent, of course, have been the changes in popular nicknames for the various parties—and that's what interests Mrs. Lucille Hicks of San Bernardino, Calif., who asks me to give her a list of the nicknames, old and new, of the Republican and Democratic parties.

Republicans, of course, are sometimes called the Elephant party, but more often are labeled G.O.P.—for Grand Old Party. Herein we see one of the many inconsistencies which perplex foreigners trying to fathom American politics. The party which proudly labels itself "old" is at least 30 years younger than its rival. On occasion G.O.P. has been translated "Get Out and Push"—a name more popular with Democrats than with Republicans, one must assume.

During the Reconstruction Era after the Civil War, the Republicans were divided into two factions, the Black and Tans, who favored equal representation of whites and Negroes, and the Lily-Whites, who favored excluding Negroes from political representation. Over the years there have been other factions within the party as well as splinter groups which broke off, the most notable being Theodore Roosevelt's Bull Moose party of 1912. Today the conservative element of the party is generally labeled the Old Guard.

Democrats are often referred to as the Donkey party. Reflecting their characteristic factionalisms, there have been many subordinate group labels ——New Dealers, Fair Dealers and Dixiecrats being of such recent vintage as not to need explanation. Before the Republi- party was even born, though, the Democrats had their own Old Guard called the Hunkers. Their radicals were labeled Barnburners.

Care for the Senile

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D.

DEAR Dr. Steincrohn: My father is 68 years old. He has become a great problem. My husband, who is ordinarily a patient man, says that my father will have to be placed in a home or institution. We have three young children, and my husband—and I, too—know that the old man is not the proper influence for them.

DR. PETER STEINCROHN

He is unruly and stubborn. He shouts and goes into a frenzy for no apparent reason. His clothes are messy and unkempt and his toilet habits are those of a young child. Talking doesn't seem to do any good. I hope you will understand that I am not blaming him. You don't have to be a doctor to know that it's not his fault, he's sick. Our doctor said it is due to cerebral arteriosclerosis.

What I should like to know is this: Can he be treated at home? I hear that there are some new drugs that help elderly people. Or, would it be advisable to send him to an institution for a while? We can afford it if he won't have to be there more than a few months. You can understand how frustrated I am. I want to do the best for my father because I am the only one he has in the world. Yet, I have my own family and happiness to consider.

Please do not think I'm whining. I know several friends who tell me I've borne up well. All I'm interested in is the proper and best thing to do. I will greatly appreciate any suggestions you may make. MRS. W. A. Z.

ANSWER: Your problem is becoming more widespread each succeeding year. People are living longer. A larger percentage will become burdens to their children. Yet, from what I have observed, the child continues to honor his parent. Few of us are letting them down.

In your specific case, your own doctor will be better able to advise you of the need for institution vs. home care. That is an important decision to make.

You will be happy to know that the NEW drugs are living up to their early promises in the management of senile problems. For example, I have been reading a report in the Journal of the American Medical Association by Drs. John T. Ferguson and William H. Funderburk of Traverse City, Mich. They studied 215 patients over 60 years of age who had behavioral problems: in personal appearance, eating and toilet habits, socializing, poor night behavior, not co-operating and always being negativistic, and many others. These patients were treated with Serpasil or Ritalin—or both.

HERE ARE THE RESULTS as tabulated by the authors in reference to how many improved: In personal appearance 83.5 per cent; in personal care 82.1 per cent; in eating habits 78.3; in toilet habits 87.9 per cent; in night behavior (going to bed) 86.2 per cent; sleep pattern 79.8 per cent; in socialization 80.6 per cent. There were also several other areas of improvement.

From this study—and many others—it seems conceivable to estimate that Mrs. W.A.Z.'s father has four chances out of five of improving. Those are good odds. And they are especially welcome at a time when the problems of the elderly, as we now realize, are here to stay.

Six Hints On Dress For Men

By Josephine Lowman

SEVERAL times a year I give a day or so to the men who read this column. I think they will be interested in the following tips about dress for men which comes from Francis Pratt, president of the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear. Here they are:

1. Avoid extremes. For example, narrow-brimmed hats are the current rage but they may not suit the shape of your face. Homburgs or wider brimmed hats may be more becoming.

2. Favor blue, dark blue-gray and gray tones if your hair is gray.

3. Go along with current trends if they complement your appearance. Do not think that they were designed strictly for the younger set.

4. Be bold about colors. Unless your selection is too vivid, color is usually on your side in the battle of the ages.

5. Avoid drab, uninteresting selections in sportswear. For instance, sport shirts in plaids are currently the vogue and look well on the 40-plus group.

6. Avoid tight fitting garments, particularly if you are on the portly side. Looser garments, perhaps single breasted styles, may not quite succeed in creating the illusion of a svelte line but will help de-emphasize the middle-aged spread. Pullover sports shirts and sweaters should not hang on you but should not be so snug that you appear to be holding your breath.

Effective Patch

To make an effective patch in wood with plastic wood, allow the plastic wood to extend a fraction of an inch above the surrounding surface. When it is hard, stain it to match the finish on the wood and then use a sharp chisel or razor blade to trim off the excess. A light sanding follows and you'll have a pretty inconspicuous patch.

Contract Bridge

UNDOUBTEDLY Mr. Muzzy, the self-styled expert on finessing, would have gone down one on today's hand. But not Mr. Masters, a real expert at all phases of the game. He knows that one of the principal elements in successful finessing is knowing when not to finesse at all.

In today's deal Miss Brash opened the king of hearts and Mr. Masters ruffed. He picked up the defenders' trumps in two leads. How would you play from this point?

Obviously, the problem is how to prevent the loss of as many as four tricks in the minor suits. The king and jack of diamonds and the queen of clubs are the key defensive cards. The odds are seven to one that one of these cards will be right—that is, favorably placed for your purpose.

But, as Mr. Masters correctly figured, seven to one is not good enough, not when there is another line of play which is an absolute certainty. He could not afford to enter dummy with a trump lead in order to lead a club back for a finesse against the queen.

That would leave him with just one trump, which would be knocked out when the enemy got in and forced him again in hearts.

If he tried to enter dummy with a diamond, he would have two choices. He could go up with the ace of diamonds, which would risk setting up two quick diamond losers if the guarded king and jack were on his right; or he could take a diamond finesse, which would turn the time element in favor of his opponents.

Mr. Masters wisely decided to forget about finesse for the moment. Instead, he simply led a small club from his hand. Miss Brash had no better play than to win with the queen and return a diamond. The ten of diamonds was played from the board and it lost to the jack. Mrs. Keen made her best return, a heart, and Mr. Masters ruffed.

He then led the king of clubs which lost to the ace—and it was all over. He could control any return and discarded the queen of diamonds from dummy on the fourth round of clubs.

Musical Fireplace

By Elizabeth Hillyer

THE BLOMQUISTS have a long fireplace and bookcase built in against one wall of their living room, but it's chimneyless and no place for a fire.

Bob Blomquist saw the deep opening as a fine spot for a speaker for the hi-fi system he was building, however, and he put it there behind a good-looking grass cloth screen, thus taking the yawn out of the opening and making it useful, too.

NOVEL PLACE FOR THE HI-FI SET.

The housing for a speaker, of course, must be the right size for it, and this inclosure contained the number of square feet needed for the standard speaker he used for his system. First he sealed it at the top with insulating board. Then he made a panel for the front of plywood and cut a hole in the center to fit the speaker horn.

Grasscloth over the entire panel made sure the hole doesn't show, and a narrow molding painted black gives it a smart finish.

Elizabeth Hillyer's booklet "What's Wrong with That Room?"—a quick check list of room faults and how to correct them—a booklet that contains so much information it's a short-short course in practical decorating. For your copy, address Miss Hillyer at the Post-Dispatch. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 15 cents with your request.

Dead Leaves

Keep dead leaves from the trees away from woodwork as well as metal. When the leaves become wet they can be most corrosive to metals and also cause even painted wood to rot.

Small Scratches

Marye-Yates Fuller, A. H. Jones Jr. Married

By Karin Hayward

OF interest here is the marriage of Miss Marye-Yates Fuller and Alfred Henry Jones Jr. which took place last Saturday afternoon at All Saints Chapel of Trinity Cathedral in Trenton, Pa. Both families have St. Louis backgrounds. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Yates Fuller of Vagabond House, Yardley, Pa., who formerly lived in Kirkwood, while the bridegroom's paternal grandparents, the late Mrs. Herman Schaus and the late Alfred H. Jones, were St. Louisans. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Henry Jones of Pennington, N.J., and Jamestown, R.I.

The Rev. William B. Stimson, assisted by Cannon Kenneth Rodgers, performed the ceremony. The former Miss Fuller wore an ivory satin gown with full skirt. French lace was overlaid on the bodice and three-quarter sleeves and more of the lace, combined with tulle, fashioned her veil which, worn madonna style over her hair, extended the length of her train. She carried calla lilies and ivy arranged in a cascade.

Miss Nancy Fuller served as her sister's maid of honor while bridesmaids were Miss Marilyn Grimley and Miss Susan Wilson, Yardley, and Mrs. C. A. Sodarno Jr., Newtown, Pa. Jo-Ann Fuller was junior bridesmaid. They wore gowns of champagne and gold delustered satin and held bouquets of gold Fuji chrysanthemums and ivy. Deborah Dunn, Furlong, Pa., served as flower girl wearing a green velvet frock with a lace bertha. She held a basket of chrysanthemums in autumn shades.

Mr. Jones was his son's best man. Ushers were Navy Lt. Charles C. Fleming III; John S. Biddle and William B. Ritter, Philadelphia; W. Nicholas Schaus, Boston; Peter B. Lyon, Providence, R.I., and John H. Yerkes, Buckingham, Pa.

After a reception at the Trenton Country Club, the bride and bridegroom departed for a honeymoon in Bermuda. They will live in Titusville, N.J.

The bride, a former student at Pennsylvania State University, is a provisional member of the Junior League of Trenton. Mr. Jones served three years with the Navy and attended both Brown and Lehigh Universities.

Travelers From England to Visit Here.

TRAVELERS from England en route to Australia will be here next month to visit Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tyler Post Jr., 721 Westwood drive, Clayton. The visitors will be Mrs. Post's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Elsdon Storey of London, and their young son, Elsdon, who will be in St. Louis a month on their way back to their former home in Melbourne.

Dr. and Mrs. Post are receiving congratulations on the birth of their first child, a girl, on Sept. 19. She has been named Karen Gladwell. Before her marriage in Australia last January Mrs. Post was Miss Rosemary Gladwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Arthur Gladwell of Melbourne. Dr. Post is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence T. Post, 44 Portland place. The younger Posts are living on Westwood drive temporarily until their remodeled home on Warson road, Ladue, is ready for occupancy.

Dividing Up Trivial Jobs In the Home

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

MUCH of the trivial, unnecessary and hurtful discord in marriage could be prevented simply by dividing up the trivial responsibilities in advance, agreeing on the division, and then sticking to it. Without this, husband and wife are wasting a great deal of time in disputing about who should do, or should have done, this or that; and a real partnership is destroyed. Perhaps the wife is always told that she is in the wrong; or perhaps, as many husbands believe, it is always the husband who is having to make the concessions and admit that he is mistaken.

You remember the lecturer who was saying, "A man who gives in when he is in the wrong is a sensible man. A man who gives in when he is in the right is . . ."

"A married man!" came a deep bass voice from the audience.

IN COUNTLESS HOMES there are countless conversations that go something like this:

He: "Have you fed the dog?"

She: "Why, no. He isn't my dog any more than he is your dog."

He: "Yes, but you generally feed him."

She: "I thought you said you were going to feed him."

He: "I just said he ought to be fed. I thought you'd take the hint."

She: "I thought you meant you were going to feed him."

He: "It's about time you learned to take a hint."

She: "Why don't you begin to take some of your own hints?"

He: "I don't think it would kill you to feed a dog."

She: "What do you think I've been doing ever since we got married?"

He: "Now look here. . . ."

And so on, and on. Maybe the dog doesn't get fed at all. Maybe he gets fed twice. Anyhow there's a quarrel that doesn't improve the marriage.

ALL THEY NEED is to agree on who shall feed the dog. Then the one who accepts the responsibility must live up to it, except in cases where there is a clear arrangement to meet an emergency. This can be done with 90 per cent of all the routine activities of the home and family, and the husband and wife then have time, patience and good behavior left to deal with the other 10 per cent that involve matters of policy on which there should be discussion.

Try it.

Miss Lesseg Engaged To Lt. Robert A. Daley

THE engagement of Miss Sally Lee Lesseg to Army Lt. Robert Allen Daley has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman H. Lesseg, 454 Pasadena avenue, Webster Groves. The wedding is scheduled for Dec. 8 at Webster Groves Presbyterian Church.

A graduate of Webster Groves High School, the bride-elect attended Lindenwood College and the University of Missouri, each for a year. Her sorority is Pi Beta Phi.

Lt. Daley, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Allen Daley of Belleville, is stationed at Fort Holabird, near Baltimore. He received an A.B. degree from Westminster College where he belonged to Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Mrs. Frederick A. Hudson, who has been the house guest of Mrs. Edwin Werner Clausen, 404 Oakwood avenue, Webster Groves, returned a few days ago to her home in Enid, Okla. Several parties were given for the visitor. Mrs. Clausen entertained a group for cocktails and there were several small luncheons. One was given by Mrs. Simeon R. Tyler at Chalet de Normandie; another was by Miss Catherine and Miss Caroline Annan, 165 Plant avenue, Webster Groves.

Women's Clubs

Given Life Membership by Club

By Fay Profilet

THE Women's Advertising Club of St. Louis presented a life membership, the club's highest honor, to Miss Hazel Ludwig at a dinner meeting last night at the Forest Park Hotel. A member of the club since 1921, Miss Ludwig was president in 1923 and 1924 and later served as president of the Federation of Women's Advertising Clubs of the World.

Last night's announcement was made by Miss Peg Jostedt, in a costume of a town crier, who rang an old fashioned hand bell to attract the attention of the members and guests and then read Miss Ludwig's qualifications and accomplishments from a parchment scroll. The scroll and life membership citation were presented to Miss Ludwig by Mrs. Mabel Henry, president of the club.

Miss Ludwig has served on virtually all of the standing committees during the 35 years which she has belonged to the club. Her life membership had been officially conferred by the club's executive board and subsequently received the unanimous approval of club members at the first regular luncheon meeting of the year. Until last night's presentation, Miss Ludwig was not aware that she was to receive this honor.

In the 43-year history of the organization only three other members have received a life membership. They are: Miss Bea Adams, Miss Gene Ellimger and the late Miss Daisy Nirdlinger.

The presentation ceremony was preceded by a talk by Eugene Gilbert, president of the Gilbert Youth Research Organization of New York and Chicago, whose subject was "The Youth Market — Advertiser's Biggest Bonanza. The research topic was appropriate as Miss Ludwig is in the market research department of D'Arcy Advertising Company.

To Hear Guest Speakers.

THE Woman's Auxiliary to the St. Louis Medical Society will present a program featuring two guest speakers Monday at 12:30 p.m. at the Medical Society building, 3839 Lindell boulevard. Mrs. Harold H. Feller, president of the auxiliary, will preside at the meeting.

Mrs. Vencel W. Hollo, program chairman will present Mrs. John B. Sullivan, a member of Congress from the Third District and Thomas B. Curtis from the Second District. Mrs. Sullivan's subject will be, "How to Help Us Write Good Laws," and Mr. Curtis will discuss, "The Citizen's Responsibility in Government." Mayor Bill Bangert of Berkeley City, will sing a group of songs. Preceding the program luncheon will be served by the hospitality committee.

Mrs. Lilburn C. Boemer, chairman of special parties, and her committee have planned a luncheon and book review to be given next Thursday at 12:30 p.m. at Glen Echo Country Club. Mrs. Edwin G. Eigel will review "Castle Garac," by Monsarrett.

Harris Teachers' College Alumni Association will hold its twenty-fourth annual breakfast and fashion show tomorrow at 8:30 a.m. in the Missouri room of Stix, Baer and Fuller. The committee in charge is composed of Miss Clara Mutchnick, Miss Ellen Essig and Miss Miriam Maier.

* * *

The Tuesday Literary Club of St. Louis will meet at the Artists' Guild Tuesday at 2 p.m. Mrs. Henry N. Andrews Jr., a correlator of special events of a development program at Washington University, will speak on "Promise of a Growing America." Mrs. Joseph Quinn, president, will preside. Presiding at the tea table will be Mrs. Whately L. Chamdler and Mrs. John J. Welkin.

The first board of directors meeting of the newly organized Missouri Association of Legal Secretaries will be held tomorrow at Missouri Athletic Club. The meeting, to be preceded by luncheon at 12:45 p.m., will be attended by representatives of chapters in St. Louis and Kansas City. Miss Frances Denham, St. Louis, is the president.

Martha Carr's OPINION

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Today's column is devoted to teen-agers, who are invited to submit their problems to Martha Carr.

Dear Martha:

I AM 14 and have a boy friend 16. I like him very much, but I don't know whether he likes me or not. The only time I even suspect he does is when he talks to me, since he doesn't talk much at all. Usually all he does is stare at me. I don't see him often because he only sees me when visiting a neighbor. Would you please tell me how I should act when he's around, and whether he likes me or not.

TROUBLED TEEN-AGER.

Sorry, but I'm a little confused at this point. I believe if I were you I'd write him off for the present. If he liked you, he'd show it, so stop thinking of him as a boy friend—which he obviously isn't—and go your way. If you have a chance to see him when he visits in your neighborhood and if it turns out that you like each other, fine. But don't try to manufacture a big romance out of a chance meeting, or you'll just get hurt.

Dear Martha:

I HAVE TWO PROBLEMS. When I write a letter to a boy I always close with, "With love, Mary." My girl friend says I shouldn't unless I really love the boy. This particular boy has been my friend since grade school. Problem two is this: When my steady and my girl friend and I go out in the car, and I am driving, where should we sit? MARY C.

---

Your girl friend is right when she says that one should not sign her letters, "with love," unless there is a feeling of real affection. Otherwise, it is phony and—in the case of teen-agers who are just good friends—often in bad taste. As for your places in the car, and I assume you're speaking of the occasions when just the three of you are together, it really is better for the boy to sit on the outside, although it's natural for him to want to sit next to the girl he's going steady with. It looks better than to have him crowd into the center with another girl on the outside.

IN ANSWER TO Pug: If he liked you, he'd show it, so don't embarrass yourself by chasing after him. The fact that he "hardly pays any attention" to you would indicate, Pug, that he really isn't interested, so why let yourself be hurt?

What to Wear

By Louise Trescott

WITH a long-range viewpoint a first-year college student asks about a coat. There's no reason a well-chosen garment should not last the four years. However, in talking with college girls, I find most hope to replenish parts of their wardrobe for their senior year. This usually includes a coat, both for campus prestige and in preparation for careers the next year. But more power to the girl who can make one coat do, as Star hopes to. She asks:

LOUISE TRESCOTT

"I am in my first year at college. Early in November I plan to buy a winter coat that will last the full four years. Do you feel the new imitation fur coats are too dressy to buy as an all-purpose coat to wear to football games as well as dances? If I do buy one, will it be out of style in four years? And I ask the same question about a cloth coat. I am 5 feet 7½ inches and weigh 105. I have very light complexion and rosy cheeks, platinum-brown hair and hazel eyes."

A good imitation fur coat wears very well. They are youthful and exciting for the college girl and are indeed wearable on all occasions.

If you choose a reasonably full coat with clean lines—no tricks—you need not worry that it will get out of style. This silhouette will combine with any lines you care to wear beneath it.

IF YOU DECIDE on a cloth coat, I recommend the best fleece you can afford, which, in a way, possesses the same luxurious yet practical characteristics of the imitation fur.

This cloth coat has an advantage in that you may use accessories in various ways: a big woolen muffler for sports, (this possible with imitation fur, too), a neat little collar of real fur to be snapped on for some occasions, a cape or stole of imitation fur to be even more glamorous. As for choice of style, the same truths apply as cited for the imitation fur.

Your slim height can take almost any amount of bulkiness. Both coats have merit. It is for you to decide. The best color for this is a natural tone that blends with your hair. Although a light tone, it absorbs soil generally and usually requires only the normal amount of cleanings you would give any coat. Light, frequent brushing will preserve the fluffiness of either fabric, and I urge this care to insure its lasting good looks.

"I'm wondering if a tweed coat in a mixture of several colors would be my most serviceable buy for four winters at college. As I attend a school in Virginia, I have not bought it yet. Please give me your opinion of this choice."

It is excellent. Again, as for Star, I recommend a timeless style that slips over anything easily, not too slim, not too full. Get it in a mixture of your most becoming colors and then have fun choosing dresses, suits and separates in plain versions of the same colors. If this coat serves for your formals, too, glamorize it with velvet scarf and muff—and/or an enormous fake jewel pin. Smart women have been known to take tweeds to a ball, so wear it with an air.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

"MY girl friend has just told me something that I can hardly believe is true, and so I am writing to you to find out if it is really so. It's about women who keep men waiting. Whenever I call for her, I am always kept waiting anywhere from 10 to 20 minutes before she puts in an appearance. When I asked her why she was never ready, she said that it was correct to keep a man waiting so that she won't seem too eager. Will you give me your opinion about this."

I can't imagine who taught her that rudeness is politeness. I agree that if she were to sit out on the front steps looking up the street she might be considered overeager, but to be ready promptly is one of the very first exactions of good manners—at least in her own house. Even if she were meeting you downtown for lunch, she should be no more than one or at least two minutes late. You in this case must be right on the dot because a girl should not be kept waiting for a man in any public place.

Student Takes Year's Look at Europe

By Mary Kimbrough

A YEAR'S study in Europe is admittedly the highlight of her young life so far, but just the same Fontbonne College senior Joan Kilbourne is glad to be home where she can speak English, wear bobby socks and say "Hi" to a friend without a formal bow and handshake.

Joan, whose home is in Elmhurst, Ill., was one of 16 American girls who joined eight European girls a year ago for study at the University of Fribourg, a Dominican school in Fribourg, Switzerland. She had taken her freshman and sophomore work at Fontbonne, and the European project, sponsored by Rosary College of River Forest, Ill., was in lieu of her junior year at Fontbonne.

The contingent of co-eds, among the few girls enrolled at the university, stayed together at a villa owned by Rosary College. There, as well as in their classrooms, they spoke French almost exclusively as that was the common language of the various nationalities represented.

Following the adage, "When in Rome, do as the Romans do," the tall, pretty brunette tried to fit herself temporarily into the European mold. But it wasn't always easy.

"OUR lectures were all in French and even though I had studied French for two years, it still was hard at first to know what the professor was talking about," she said. "But by Thanksgiving everything was fine.

"The young people over there are much more formal than they are here. They would never think of wearing bobby sox. In fact, they call them 'baby sox' and say they're just for infants, not for teen-agers. By the time a girl is 12 or so she's ready to put on nylons and dress shoes.

"And what amazed us most of all was the way everyone shook hands with everyone else. This town where I was studying was small and families were interrelated, so you would see two large families out walking on Sunday—that's the day everyone walks—and when they would meet each other, each member of one family would have to shake hands with each member of the other. Not just when they met but when they parted after a brief conversation.

"So now, it's a little hard for me not to put out my hand right away every time I meet an acquaintance here in the hall at school."

Joan, an English major at Fontbonne, found the young people from other countries sharing the same problems and the same interests. The girls, generally, were concerned about what to wear or whom they might meet at a party. Dating customs, however, differ a great deal, with fewer single dates than in America and more parties to which the girls would go as a group and meet the boys as a group.

"You should have seen us get all dressed up, even in formals, and go together on the streetcar to a dance. But no one there thought anything about it because it's done all the time. And then when we would get to a party there was no standing around waiting for the boys to come up and talk. They were always very courteous and pleasant and eager to show us a good time. And they would always see that we got home. Maybe one boy would take several girls home—and maybe he would go back to the party after leaving us—but we never went home late at night without an escort.

"We were always getting proposed to, but it really wasn't much of a compliment, I'm afraid. Some of the boys came right out and told us they wanted to marry American girls so they could get over here. And such hand kissing!

"But those were superficial things. Fundamentally, we found that people all over the world are pretty much alike. They have their customs and their fears and their social relationships just as we have. As for commercial things, we found the same articles in shops there that we do here. The only thing was that there is a real shortage of facial tissues and, if anyone borrowed one, it was a rule that she had to pay it back.

"BUT I think what really impressed us most was that for the first time we know how it feels to be from another country and among a strange people. We criticize people who come here and cling to their national groups. Yet they have to cling to something when they leave their homelands. I think we're demanding a lot when we ask that they change immediately to our way. It isn't always easy, as we found out.

"When you go on a trip of this kind, you realize that you carry with you the reputation of your own country, because they judge America by the Americans they meet. And, I'm sorry to say, our people don't always make the best impression.

"It would be wonderful if everyone could take this trip and live among those people and learn to understand them and to become their friends. But it isn't enough just to go and see. You have to accept the responsibility that goes with it."

Do Parents Fear Teen-Agers?

By Clarissa Start

ARE parents afraid of teen-agers? A friend of ours thinks they are. At least she's found it impossible to get parent sponsors for a teen-age organization in her community.

Clarissa Start

"All of them say to me, 'We can't cope with teen - agers,'" she says, "and here they are, parents of teen-agers themselves. How are we ever going to keep our teen-agers on an even keel if their own parents admit they can't cope with them?

"There's a real shortage of leaders for teen-age groups and we need volunteers badly. Parents don't seem to mind taking on Brownies or Cubs or even Girl Scouts or Boy Scouts, but once these same children reach their teens, no parents want to sponsor their groups."

What are the reasons other than lack of confidence in their ability to handle adolescent problems? At a recent panel discussion of teen-agers, our friend continued, the youngsters complained that their parents weren't interested in their activities, and the parents on the other hand, continued with the charge that their own teen-agers didn't want them to be active. Another woman we know, an active community worker, backs this theory.

"My 14-year-old is always saying, 'Gosh, Mom, why do you have to be so active in the P.-T.A.? It embarrasses me,'" she insists.

OF COURSE, what the teen-ager says is likely to be subject to change and vacillation. For instance, our friend points out that at this same teen-age panel, one of the young girls came up with the question, "Why do parents let their kids stay out until 2 o'clock?" A question which would cause any parent of a teen-ager to do a triple take.

Our friend who is beating the bushes for sponsors of the local teen-age organization believes that all these things should be ironed out in family council, whether it is the hour for dates to end, or the teen-ager's opinion as to whether Mom and Dad should be active in one of their organizations.

WE OFFERED HER as further ammunition a conversation we'd had with the assistant minister of a church in a large and prosperous suburban community.

"Parents in this church give their children everything except their time," he complained. "The young people have more than enough of the material needs but there's practically no family activity or family togetherness. I visited in a small town recently and went to a church supper on a Friday night and everyone in town was there, all the families together. It was a wonderful experience."

My friend and I concluded that more parent participation would solve the teen-age problems nicely.

"But maybe I'm like the old maids who can tell you how to raise children," she laughed. "My own aren't teen-agers yet."

"Mine isn't either," I said, "but I'm sure nothing could be worse than the stage we're in now."

Or could it?

Unusual Housing Project

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

I MUST tell you of an unusual housing project which I saw in Chicago last Saturday. It is an integrated project, with 12 white family units and 28 Negro.

One building of several floors is occupied largely by older persons—either married or single. The apartments are entered from the outside and there are no inner corridors.

Younger persons live in the corner apartments, and in the development there are a number of apartments with only two floors for young families, both Negro and white. The landscaping is not quite finished but there will be some, and I think there will be room for the children to play without crossing any streets.

THE RENTS are adjusted to the income of the apartment occupants, and an effort has been made to get the co-operation of all the welfare agencies so that the older persons can have medical care and, when they are ill, a housekeeper service furnished by a welfare organization.

It seemed to me that organization of all these different services would make this a rather complicated development to operate. The idea is somewhat similar to one I had seen in Sweden, but in that country the organization is state-operated and does not take all this close co-operation of many groups.

In Chicago I was struck by the fact that the slum areas through which I drove have been cleaned up in the most remarkable way, and I was told this was due to the present mayor. He certainly deserves praise, for the change is quite electrifying to a casual observer driving through those areas for the first time in many months.

THERE WAS an amusing note in the New York newspapers earlier this week on the difference in the travels of the two chief campaigning personalities.

Adlai Stevenson complains because he has to shave twice a day. He is also bothered by a preference for broadcloth shirts instead of the quick-drying ones that most people use for travel.

But none of these things seem to bother the President, for whom everything is smoothly planned when he travels. That is as it should be.

We who are not candidates but unimportant cogs in the campaign machinery may not complain of Stevenson's shaving trials, but we have a few of our own.

One of mine is the weather, particularly when I fly. Somehow there is nothing I can do about it, and I have to develop a philosophy of accepting the inevitable and disappointing audiences if necessary.

The other thing is the people who want autographs when I am trying to shake hands with a thousand people in the shortest possible time.

Outside of that, I am afraid I can't complain of many trials and tribulations, but I was glad to be back in New York until today, when I start out again. Fundamentally, perhaps one's real worry is whether all this traveling brings any results.

Tasty Tricks

There is practically not one single soup which cannot be improved with an herb bouquet. For a robust flavor to flatter vegetable soup, include a garlic clove.

Flowered Patterns

Brocades in all-over flowered patterns are used to fashion some simple but elegant evening dresses. The late-day dress made of a brocaded material also is effective as well as suitable for many different occasions. Lines usually are simple. The sheath with bateau neckline is noteworthy. Necklines that are high at the front but cut to a low V at the back are in vogue this season.

Black Dinner Dresses

Black lace and black silk crepe are combined in dinner dresses that have ankle-length skirts. Several dresses feature a tunic effect with the lace forming an overdrapery. Other dresses have high-waisted bodices of the lace while the wide, draped sash and the slim skirt are of the crepe. Versions of the peg-top silhouette predominate.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

Jon's Chicken

Ingredients: One broiler-fryer (about two and one-half pounds ready-to-cook weight), one-fourth cup flour, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one-fourth cup butter or margarine, one-fourth cup heavy cream, one-fourth cup cooking sherry, one-fourth cup water.

Method: Have chicken cut so there are two wings, two pieces of breast, two drumsticks, two second joints, four pieces of bony back. (Save neck, giblets and liver for use another time.) Mix flour, salt and pepper; roll chicken pieces (after being washed and drained on a towel) in flour mixture. Heat butter in 12-inch skillet; add chicken; cook until golden-brown on both sides; cover skillet and cook until tender, turning once if necessary. (You may have to add a few tablespoons of water to the skillet during the cooking if it does not have a dome cover.) Remove chicken to serving platter. Add cream to skillet and stir over low heat with wooden spoon to get up all browned particles. Add sherry and water; stir and cook gently for a few minutes. Accompany chicken with sauce served in a separate dish. Makes four servings.

Television Notes and Gossip

PETER MARSHALL, who will be one of the stars when "Manhattan Tower," by Gordan Jenkins, is presented on KSD-TV Oct. 27, is a brother of actress Joanne Dru. Besides his "Manhattan Tower" assignment, Marshall has signed to do a new television series, "Shore Leave." To go into television work, he broke up a night club act he had with Tommy Farrell, Glenda Farrell's son.

* * *

"Playhouse 90" wants Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall to star in its version of F. Scott Fitzgerald's "The Last Tycoon."

From 9 to 9:30 tomorrow night, KWK-TV will telecast the birthday party for President Eisenhower. Segments of the telecast will come from Hollywood and Washington's Statler Hotels as well as from the White House. James Stewart will be master of ceremonies and among those taking part, besides the President and his family, will be Eddie Fisher, Irene Dunne, Nat (King) Cole, Helen Hayes and Gordon MacRae.

An elementary demonstration of stock market operations will be portrayed in a TV drama, "The Big Board," to be presented on "Circle Theater" Nov. 13.

There are now 2500 women in radio and television, according to the American Women in Radio and Television organization.

Chet Huntley and David Brinkley will do NBC-TV's "News Caravan" television program beginning Oct. 29. John Cameron Swayze, who has had the program for seven years, will take on other assignments for NBC. He also plans to continue as host and narrator of "Circle Theater" and travel editor for the "Home" show.

Peter Marshall

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

RIVERS have currents, and so do many lakes.. When a lake has a current, the motion of the water may be so gentle that we hardly notice it is there. Waves caused by the wind often go in an opposite direction to the current.

Nevertheless there are thousands of lakes with rivers which enter at one end and go out the other. Year in and year out the water keeps moving in a certain direction—say southward or northward, eastward or westward.

The Great Lakes offer an excellent illustration of the point I am making. Winds and waves move in many directions on the Great Lakes, but the general trend of the water is eastward toward the Atlantic ocean.

Q. Does a lake ever have two currents?

A. Yes, it may have two currents, or half a dozen, which are set up by rivers flowing from different places. At length, however, they tend to gather into a single current to take the water out of the lake and into the river outlet.

Q. Are there any lakes without currents?

A. Yes. Some are without any outlet to take the water away. Salt lakes are of that type.

Q. Did glaciers play a part in making lakes?

A. Yes, they played a big part. The glaciers or ice sheets which once stretched across large sections of North America, Europe and Asia left many lakes. This was done chiefly by blocking of river valleys.

Ancient glaciers transported large amounts of gravel and soil, also many boulders. When melting took place in a river valley, a large amount of solid material was likely to be dumped there. This served as a dam, and the river might be blocked so that its water would form a lake. Later an outlet would be forced at one point or another.

Facts about Mexico's people and their customs, also about the ancient Aztecs, appear in the leaflet called Mexico and the Mexicans. This leaflet will be sent to you without charge if you inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Send your letter to Uncle Ray at the Post-Dispatch.
